Alderman John Bennett and City Relief Officer Cooper Go With Hon. R. W. Bruhn; Federal Provincial Conference Set For April 9

VANCOUVER WANTS BIG BACK BILL PAID

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 5.—Alderman John Bennett, chairman of the civic finance committee, appointed by the City Council yesterday afternoon to wait on Dominion authorities to seek approval of Vancouver's new $1,550,000 relief programme, left for Ottawa this morning.

Col. H. W. Cooper, city relief officer, who this morning was instructed to join Alderman Bennett on the trip, also accompanied Hon. R. W. Bruhn, British Columbia Minister of Public Works, who arrived from Victoria overnight. The minister will make representations to Ottawa regarding amplification of the relief programme in British Columbia.

DATE CHANGED

According to statements made to the civic relief committee, Premier Tolmie had intended to attend the conference of provincial premiers with federal authorities in Ottawa April 15. The date was advanced to April 9, and the Premier delegated Mr. Bruhn to represent him.

In telephonic communication with civic authorities, Mr. Bruhn suggested Vancouver send a delegate to a subsequent interview with the Dominion Government on relief matters.

WANT $981,000

Apart from the proposed new relief programme, the city is seeking payment from federal and provincial authorities of roughly $981,000 owed to Vancouver by the province and Dominion as their share of relief costs in the city.

Yesterday $37,000 was received from the province toward relief work costs.

Paris, April 5.—Premier Tardieu returned to-day from London, where he conferred yesterday with Premier MacDonald over preliminaries for the four-power conference to be held there to-morrow to discuss financial relief for the countries of the Danube as well as general European problems including reparations and war debts. He said he was "very satisfied" with his trip.

GRAND JURY DEATH KNELL

Attorney-General Brings in Bill For Its Abolition in British Columbia

The death knell of the grand jury system in British Columbia was sounded yesterday by Attorney-General Pooley in the Legislature with the second reading of a bill calling for their abolition in this province. Legislation making this permissible had first to be passed at Ottawa, Mr. Pooley pointed out.

Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., said he could not view the passing of this fine old institution without regret. T. D. Pattullo, Leader of the Opposition, said the Ottawa legislation was passed on the recommendation of Mr. Pooley and criticized him for not bringing the matter before the British Columbia Legislature before making such a recommendation.

OUTLINED USEFULNESS

Mr. Pooley said with changing times grand juries had outlived their usefulness. He reviewed their history and the check they kept on running of institutions in olden days, particularly in England. Now those institutions were open to inspection and public bodies and welfare institutions were familiar with them. Abolition of grand juries was being advocated in England. They were never introduced in Alberta

Japanese Cabinet Approves Staff's Plan to Increase Army There

Associated Press

Tokio, April 5.—The cabinet to-day approved the proposal of Gen. Sadao Araki, Minister of War, to send two army brigades to Manchuria to replace Korean units now serving there.

The new brigades will complete the eighth and tenth divisions, parts of which were sent to Manchuria last November and December as mixed brigades, and will give Japan a total of five divisions in Manchuria and adjacent Korea.

News dispatches received here from various Manchurian points told of fresh battles with Chinese rebels

Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock of Norfolk, Virginia (left), to-day, according to dispatches, was still attempting with two associates to bring about direct negotiations with the persons holding the baby son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. HOUDE BEATEN IN MONTREAL

Mayor For Last Four Years Decisively Defeated By Hon. Fernand Rinfret

Houde Majority in City Council Turned Into Weak Minority

Canadian Press

Montreal, April 5.—The political picture at Montreal's City Hall was completely changed to-day. Camillien Houde, mayor for four years, was decisively defeated yesterday by Hon. Fernand Rinfret for the chief magistrate's chair, while the pro-Houde majority in the city council was turned into a weak minority.

Although four candidates sought the post of mayor, the fight was solely between Mr. Rinfret and Mr. Houde. The vote, with all of the 1,028 polls reported, was: Rinfret, 64,556; Houde, 52,014; Seraphim Ouimet, 7,608; and O. L. Gingras, 1,913.

The sweeping change was illustrated by comparing former Mayor Houde's vote yesterday with that of two years ago. In 1930 he received 78,917 votes and defeated Alderman Mathewson by 41,634 votes.

HOUDE FOLLOWERS LOSE

In the aldermanic field Mr. Houde yesterday again led his own slate as he had done successfully in 1930. Of the thirty-five seats, however, he won only nine, while twenty of his opponents were successful, three were elected

SAY GASOLINE PROFIT SMALL

Company Tells Commons Committee Its Gain Was 1.88 Cents a Gallon in 1931

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 5.—The British American Oil Company Limited made a profit of 1.88 cents on every gallon of gasoline sold in 1931. This was the highlight of the evidence submitted this forenoon by H. H. Bronsdon, comptroller of the company, to the banking and commerce committee of the Commons, investigating the price of gasoline in Canada.

At a previous sitting of the committee it was stated the Imperial Oil Company had made a profit of 1.01 cents on every gallon sold in 1930. The British-American firm was unable to submit figures for 1930 to compare with the Imperial Oil Company.

The committee adjourned until 4 this afternoon.

A statement revealing the nature of the capital "set-up" of the British Columbia Oil Company was made by its president, A. Ellsworth, at the outset of the sitting.

DEPRECIATION ALLOWANCES

A contention, not hitherto offered by officials of other companies before the committee, with regard to increased cost of operation in Canada, was made by Mr. Ellsworth. "The depreciation rates allowed by the United States Treasury are greater than those of the Dominion of Canada," asserted Mr. Ellsworth.

It was estimated 84 per cent of the capital of the company was owned in Canada.

"I want to deny most emphatically the opinion that the British American Oil Company is controlled by the Imperial Oil Company. There is the keenest competition between us," said Mr. Ellsworth.

B.C. CONFERENCE SET FOR APRIL 15

Business Men Will Then Lay Finance Commission Plan Before Cabinet

Premier Tolmie has set April 15 as the date on which the cabinet will meet the delegations from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the Vancouver Board of Trade, Canadian Manufacturers' Association and a dozen kindred organizations at which provincial finances will be discussed. At that meeting business men will lay before the cabinet proposals for formation of a commission to study provincial expenditures and revenue and their relation to taxation.

At the same interview the question of unemployment will be discussed, including the proposal of Harold Brown, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade, for setting unemployed on two to five-acre tracts of agricultural land.

Bellingham Man Declares Two Abducted, Robbed Him And Threw Him Out of Auto

LOST CONSCIOUSNESS WHEN GIVEN DRUG

His Watch, Knife and $100 Taken By Bandits, Who Threw Him From Car Near Centralia, Wash., After Long Drive

Centralia, Wash., April 5. — After viewing pictures of Willim Bagley, escaped British Columbia convict, R. E. Rasmussen said here to-day there was a "close resemblance" between Bagley and one of two bandits who, he declared, abducted him late yesterday in Bellingham, robbed him and after a drive by auto threw him out on a road near here.

It was the bandit who wore civilian clothes he said he referred to. The other was in soldier's uniform.

Associated Press

Centralia, Wash., April 5.—Abducted late yesterday at the Bellingham post office, almost 200 miles by road north of here, R. E. Rasmussen, thirty, was found here early to-day by police.

Rasmussen, news company agent of Everett and Bellingham, said he had just finished writing a money order when a man pushed a pistol against his side and ordered him into an old touring car, in which a man wearing a soldier's uniform was seated. The civilian drove the car until they got out of Bellingham and then ordered Rasmussen to drive, he said. The men took his watch, knife and about $100 from him.

THROWN OUT OF AUTO

About a half mile south of Centralia, the news agent continued, they gave him a drug which caused him to lose consciousness and threw him out of the car. He said he did not think they had chloroformed him. How long he lay beside the road before he recovered consciousness he did not know.

He described the civilian as about five feet seven inches in height, weighing about 170 pounds, with sandy complexion and wearing spectacles with gold rims. He said the soldier had not stood up, but he believed he was about the same height.

Rasmussen planned to return to Everett to-day by stage. His truck was found in Bellingham, parked near the Elks' Club.

ROBBED IN JANUARY

Seattle, April 5.—R. V. Miller, manager of The News company employing R. E. Rasmussen, who reported in Centralia to-day he had been abducted late yesterday in Bellingham by two men, said Rasmussen reported last January he had been held up by two men at Mount Vernon and robbed of $100 of the company's money. The robbers yesterday took about the same amount, Rasmussen told Centralia police.

CITIES STILL PRESS PROTEST

Are Continuing Fight Against Transfer of Social Service Costs

Mayor Leeming Also Plans to Talk to Unemployment Relief Committee

Although Premier Tolmie and Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, have definitely intimated to civic delegations there is no prospect of a change of heart, representatives of Victoria and Vancouver City Councils joined forces again to-day in protest of the transfer of part of the social service burden on to the cities.

Mayor Leeming, Alderman John Worthington and Alderman P. R. Brown represented Victoria. Several Vancouver aldermen and J. B. Williams, city solicitor, came over from Vancouver.

Determined that members shall know exactly what difficulties the new financial burden will create for the municipalities they sought again to place the case before the Victoria and Vancouver members and present arguments for what they considered a more equitable distribution of the social service load and a fairer distribution to the cities of their share of taxes collected by the government in the cities. They will endeavor to see the members of both cities this afternoon.

Mayor Leeming also planned to appear before the unemployment relief investigating committee of the Legislature and draw attention to the financial problems created for Victoria through the failure of the government to help the city to the extent it had been led to believe it would.

Challenges Fly During Debate On Finances

Charges of Misrepresentation Hurled From Both Sides of the House

Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, and T. D. Pattullo, Opposition Leader, locked horns on deficits, borrowings and civil service figures in a prolonged debate in the Legislature yesterday evening with estimates of the Finance Department under consideration. Many other members joined in the verbal battle in which charges of misrepresentation of figures were hurled from both sides of the House. Mr. Jones denied Mr. Pattullo's figures through which the Opposition Leader claimed the civil service to-day was costing $600,000 to $700,000 more than when the Tolmie government entered office and claimed by the end of the year the payroll would be lower

The contradictions prompted Mr. Pattullo to repeat his challenge to the government to allow an independent commission to examine the finances of the province and make their findings public. The government had refused the commission because they dare not permit it, he claimed.

"Permit this commission. I will abide by their findings," said Mr. Pattullo, whose figures had been questioned.

YOUNG BURGLARS ARE SENTENCED

Magistrate Sends Parlby and Burns to Prison For Two Months

"Railroading" Charge of Father Flatly Denied By Court Officers

John Burns and Marshall Parlby, two youths convicted of breaking and entering the Nutshell Cafe, Fort Street, were sentenced to two months' imprisonment by Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning.

Sentence was passed following a heated defence of Parlby by his father who charged the police were trying to "railroad" his son to jail and had not given him a chance to communicate with friends. This was flatly denied by City Prosecutor C. L. Harrison and Magistrate Jay, who pointed out every opportunity had been given the youth to defend himself.

Burns took the stand again this morning to give evidence on his own behalf. He was questioned by Mr. Harrison in regard to a green handkerchief allegedly stolen and found in his possession, and which he claimed had been given him by a friend.

Burns refused to divulge the name of the friend. He was asked if the person was in court and replied in the negative. Two young women came into the courtroom shortly afterwards and he was again asked if the person who gave him the handkerchief was present. He refused to look round and see. Later he informed the magistrate the person who gave him the handkerchief was in court yesterday.

SHIELDING SOMEONE

Mr. Harrison also questioned Burns in regard to a flashlight found on him. He said a friend name "Jack" had given it to him but would say no more, but agreed to a suggestion

McGeough Attacked For His "Past" By Committee Counsel

PEOPLE WANT FACTS, PEARSON DECLARES

Member Shows Stack of Letters From All Over B.C., "Howling About Things in Every Camp"; Inquiry to Conclude on Wednesday Morning

An attack launched by Brigadier-General J. A. Clark, committee counsel, with the announced object of breaking down the credibility of the Dominion government's relief representative in B.C., M. H. McGeough, in the evidence that has been given revealing a break between the Dominion and provincial governments over relief administration in B.C., featured to-day's session of the Legislature's unemployment relief investigating committee at the Parliament Buildings.

General Clark put on the stand Andrew M. Innis, wharf freight agent of the C.P.R. at Vancouver.

Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Revelstoke, protested against the move, declaring that if the committee went into Mr. McGeough's past, it should go into the past of all the witnesses that have been called before it.

GROSSEST INJUSTICE

"This is the grossest injustice to this man, McGeough, who is not here, and the committee voted to refuse to allow him to come here again," said T. D. Pattullo, opposition leader. "Instead of an impartial counsel for this committee, General Clark appears as a prejudiced counsel for the government—the counsel for the defence."

George S. Pearson, Nanaimo, also joined in protests against General Clark's move as Mr. McGeough was only the Dominion's representative, but the committee on a motion voted five to three to hear Mr. Innis examined on facts of Mr. McGeough's past.

Questioned by General Clark, Mr. Innis said Mr. McGeough had been employed by the C.P.R. in Vancouver from July 15, 1927, to September 30, 1931, when he resigned to take the

LONDON M.P. IS TO RETIRE

Canadian Press

London, April 5.—Sir Rennell Rodd, who has had a distinguished diplomatic career and has been Conservative member of the Commons for St. Mary-le-Bone, London, since April, 1928, to-day announced his retirement. He stated he had contemplated this step for more than a year, but had agreed then to continue temporarily.

"We have turned the most difficult corner," he wrote, "and I feel the country is safe and its destinies are in most capable hands."

GOVERNMENT RANKS SPLIT ON MUNICIPAL ISSUE

Two Conservatives Vote With Opposition on Pari-mutuel Tax Limit For Cities

TWO OTHERS ABSENT WHEN VOTE IS TAKEN

Amateur Games and Dance Tax Under Fire in House

Two Vancouver Conservative members, T. H. Kirk and William Dick, voted against the government yesterday and stood up with the opposition when A. Wells Gray, New Westminster, moved an amendment to kill the government bill limiting the municipalities' share of the pari-mutuel tax revenue to $170,000. Mr. Kirk had already voted against the clause in committee.

G. A. Walkem, Vancouver, and George Heggie, North Okanagan, two other Conservative members, were absent from the House, unpaired when the vote was taken.

Mr. Gray, moving the amendment on report stage, said the tax was devised for the benefit of municipalities, the revenue was earned in municipalities, and the proceeds should remain with the municipalities. Mr. Kirk said he too was opposed to the curtailment of municipal aid.

The bill which limits the municipalities' share to $170,000, increases the

DECLARES ROAD IS GOOD THING

Mayor Leeming Replies to Warning Made By F. A. Graham

"I am convinced that what Saanich is doing, with the city's consent, at Mount Douglas Park, is in the best interests of the citizens," declared Mayor Leeming at the meeting of the City Council yesterday evening in defining his own opinion on the park road controversy.

The Mayor stated he was a frequent visitor to the park and was aware that the constant stream of traffic over the present road was a menace to the life of children playing in the place. The parking space for cars was on the opposite side of the road from the playground and children were constantly crossing it, he stated.

The statement by the Mayor was prompted by a letter from F. A. Graham, which warned the city of its liability in connection with the new road following the sanction given Saanich to proceed with construction of it. Mr. Graham pointed out that a government commission had brought in a finding declaring the new road was "apt to be a vaster danger than the present road." He wished, he said, to place this on record, and if there was an accident on the new road it would be used as evidence against the city.

The letter was received and filed.

Canadian Press

Calgary, April 5.—The radium and silver area of Great Bear Lake, in Canada's sub-Arctic, harbors 200 men ready to start work on claims when the break-up permits opening of the rich mineral field. As many more fortune seekers are expected to enter the district when the snow and ice have disappeared, according to R. W. Mackinnon, oil expert, who returned to Calgary yesterday after making a test of Imperial Oil wells at Fort Norman.

Mr. Mackinnon's investigation of the wells was made to determine if the oil could be used to supply planes and other transportation vehicles entering Great Bear Lake country. He said he had found the wells flowing and his report is being studied by directors.

Many claims have been staked at Great Bear Lake, where rich radium-bearing pitchblende finds were made last year. The men at the scene at the moment include prospectors, geologists and engineers. Most of them are camping under canvas, awaiting spring's advent to begin work in the fields. The area from Echo Bay to Hunter Bay was practically covered with claims, Mr. Mackinnon said he had been informed.

tax from five to seven per cent and the estimate of revenue from the levy next year is $235,000.

Colonel Nelson Spencer of Vancouver and the Victoria Conservative members voted with the government despite the protest of their civic bodies against the measure.

Opposition members recorded their objection to the increase in the tax when the amusement tax bill was in committee of the whole, founding their objection on the fact that the increase was to be retained by the government.

Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister, was subjected to a running fire of questions during the passage of the amusement tax bill through committee. Mr. Gray protested vigorously against taxing amateur games, as is now to be done. "The more boys we get on the playing fields learning to play the game the better place British Columbia will be," he said.

The minister declined to give any rash interpretation of the meaning that might be attached to the words "patriotic and charitable," as applied to classes of entertainment for which there will be no amusement tax. He thought the House itself ought to be able to guess whether a dance in aid of a church was for "charity," and whether and Elk's Flag Day party was patriotic.

No information was given as to what the government's attitude would be to a high school dance, to a dance in aid of a library in a company town, or to a dance where shares of the proceeds went to the owners of the hall when the owners were simply a community association acting for the community as a whole and not for personal profit.

He seemed quite sure, however, that a Liberal association dance could not be classed as patriotic.

POLICE STILL HUNT BAGLEY

Vancouver, April 5.—No trace has been found of William Bagley, escaped convict who shot and seriously wounded Detective David Maxwell of Burnaby ten days ago. Police to-day still were working on information which they hoped might lead to his arrest.

Several alarms were answered yesterday, but no definite progress was made. Bagley escaped from the Oakalla prison farm in January.

Detective Maxwell's condition to-day was reported as somewhat improved.

The cities are asking complete abandonment of the plan to shift a portion of the social service costs to the municipalities. Failing this they want the cities to be made liable for their share of mothers' pension on the basis of actual pensioners in a city.

They also want the grants to municipalities to be distributed according to their origin. Victoria would receive its share of liquor profits based on the amount of liquor sold in the city. The same would apply to motor licenses. This plan is opposed by the smaller municipalities.

TRUSTEES HERE

Alarmed that the Legislature may yet pass an amendment to the Public Schools Act taking from school boards jurisdiction over educational matters and handing over authority to municipal councils, a delegation from the Vancouver School Board arrived in Victoria this morning and lodged protests to private members.

Assurance was given members of the delegation that no legislation taking control of "frills" from school boards was anticipated this session.

by the prosecutor that he might be shielding this person.

Parlby refused to give evidence on his own behalf and his father then appeared to plead for him. He declared the police had not done the right thing by his son. The police had not let him (the father) know anything about the case and he thought they were trying to "railroad" the boy. His son had been convicted of possessing a coat stolen from a garage across the road from the rooming house where he was staying with Burns. It did not appear logical he would wear the same coat in front of the garage if he had known it to be stolen, he said.

Mr. Harrison, in reply, said he was sorry Mr. Parlby had made the statement that the police had prevented the youth from seeing his friends. The facts were that when Parlby and Burns appeared first they had been granted a remand to secure counsel or communicate with friends. Every man who appeared in the court was given the same chance. As far as the charge of possessing stolen goods was concerned, after it had been shown Parlby was in possession, the onus fell upon him to prove he did not know they were stolen. There was no justification for the statement made by Mr. Parlby and if there had been he would have seen such a position was corrected, Mr. Harrison said.

Upon a repeated assertion by Mr. Parlby the Magistrate flatly told him that the youths had been given every opportunity to secure counsel or advice.

Young Parlby, from the prisoners' box, said that Burns had tried to get in touch with a friend and the police would not let him.

"I don't believe a word Burns says," the Magistrate declared, heatedly.

Before sentence was passed, Mr. Harrison revealed that Parlby had been sentenced for a similar offence, on January 16 of this year, to two months.

The terms imposed were: On the joint charge of breaking and entering the Nutshell, two months each; on the charge against Parlby of retaining stolen goods from Bailey's Garage, two months, to run concurrently.

The Magistrate declared that if Burns had been more truthful in his evidence he would have more sympathy with him, and might have been inclined to be lenient.

TURNER VALLEY BILL IS RUSHED

Alberta Legislature Passing Measure For Conservation of Natural Gas

Canadian Press

Edmonton, April 5.—The government's Turner Valley gas conservation bill was given second reading in the Alberta Legislature yesterday evening without a division. The bill was expected to be put through the committee stage to-day and be given third reading this evening.

Before the bill received second reading, George H. Webster, Liberal House leader, criticized the government for its delay in inaugurating conservation methods in the Turner Valley. He said the waste of gas had been such that the life of the field had been considerably shortened.

SPECIAL SESSION

Premier Brownlee indicated a special session next fall or winter to deal finally with legislation concerning the Turner Valley.

The premier pointed out the present bill provided that in case the gas conservation board found there was no reasonable prospect of unified operations being accomplished by voluntary pooling, the board was to submit recommendations concerning conservation to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

C.N.R. STAFF REDUCTIONS

Montreal, April 5.—Reductions in mechanical staffs of the Canadian National Railways to go into effect the end of this week will affect approximately 5,000 men throughout Canada, union officials of the federated trades estimated here to-day. Special committees are being formed to discuss with railway officials the details of the staff reductions.

Duty-free Goods Equality Urged

Seattle, April 5. — Representative Lindley Hadley has introduced a bill in Congress at Washington, which would amend the tariff law so as to place the United States and Canada on a reciprocal basis so far as the value of goods which returning visitors may bring back with them is concerned. Harold Moore, Seattle, president of the Washington Retail Drygoods Association, made this statement to the fifth convention of the organization here to-day.

At present United States citizens may bring in duty free goods from Canada valued up to $100, while Canadians must pay duty on everything they purchase on this side.

Mr. Rinfret, who is a member of Parliament and for four years was Secretary of State in the King government, was successful over Mr. Houde practically all through the city. Of the thirty-five wards, thirty-one gave Mr. Rinfret majorities.

POLITICS TO FORE

As was natural with such opponents, one the Conservative party leader, and the other an ex-cabinet minister of the federal Liberal party, Dominion and provincial politics were widely discussed during the campaign, and the victory of Mr. Rinfret was regarded in many quarters as a continuation of the successful battle waged by the provincial government against Mr. Houde last August, when the latter opposed Hon. L. A. Taschereau for the premiership of Quebec.

LOSE DEPOSITS

Due to the large number of candidates who sought aldermanic honors, eighty-eight, a substantial sum will be forfeited to the city by those who lost their deposits. It is estimated nineteen candidates failed to poll at least 50 per cent of the winner's figure and surrendered their $500 deposit. This, in addition to $1,500 given up by three candidates who retired after nomination day, produces a sum of $11,000 for the city treasury.

While a veteran in federal politics, Hon. Fernand Rinfret is a newcomer in the civic arena. He was Secretary of State in the cabinet of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King from September, 1926, till August, 1930.

Fernand Rinfret was born and educated in Montreal and followed a journalistic career. For many years a capable writer on the staff of Le Canada, a Montreal newspaper, he became in 1921 professor of journalism in the University of Montreal.

Elected to the House of Commons in a by-election in the St. James division of Montreal in 1920, Mr. Rinfret was re-elected to that seat in 1921, 1925 and 1926. He was elected by acclamation in 1930.

France honored him with the title of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

A forceful speaker, he is as much at home in dignified debate at Ottawa as in the rough and tumble of the hustings. He has played a prominent part in Quebec in all elections since he entered public life. He spoke frequently in the provincial election last August, when Mayor Houde, his chief opponent in the civic elections yesterday, went down to defeat in the St. James division, which Mr. Rinfret represents at Ottawa.

Transportation Board Sits Again

Ottawa, April 5.—After an interval of some three weeks, the Royal Commission on Transportation resumed sittings here this afternoon. All of the commissioners were present, with the exception of Lord Ashfield, who is still in England. It is expected he will return to be present at the final conferences of the commission.

To-day's meeting was in private. It was stated representatives of the railways were present to furnish the commission with additional information.

Brig.-Gen. Maunsell Dies in Ottawa

Ottawa, April 5.—Well known in military circles, Brig.-Gen. George S. Maunsell, sixty-seven, retired officer of the Royal Canadian Engineers, died at his home here early to-day.

McGeough Attacked For His "Past" By Committee Counsel

relief job with the Dominion government. He testified Mr. McGeough was paid an average of $125 a month and worked from 8.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m.

General Clark told the committee that during this time Mr. McGeough was working for the C.P.R. he was also on the payroll of the B.C. government and "it appeared to me desirable to make inquiries as to his capabilities."

Dr. Sutherland led the cross-examination of Mr. Innis.

HANDLED MUCH MONEY

Dr. Sutherland went on to bring out that Mr. McGeough had worked as a telegrapher and dispatcher for the C.P.R. on the prairies and had handled as much as $250,000 cash a year for the company.

"If a man does that I think he can handle a few vouchers here," he went on.

"I think this is the smallest thing that has come before this committee, this attempt to blacken Mr. McGeough. The outstanding feature is that the Dominion government is satisfied with him as an efficient representative in their interests."

"This committee would hang a man without giving him a chance," said Mr. Pattullo.

"Yes," replied H. D. Twigg, chairman.

"Well, I'll be . . ." Mr. Pearson started to go on.

"And I'm going to be paid for it, too," said Mr. Innis.

E. D. Johnson, Deputy Minister of Finance, was then called to the stand by General Clark. Mr. Johnson testified that Mr. McGeough had been employed by the provincial government from October, 1924, until September, 1931, on a continuous job and was paid at the rate of $4 a day.

Mr. Johnson explained that Mr. McGeough was employed to watch the vacant Schaake Nut and Bolt plant under the Department of Industries so the government could carry insurance on it.

In reply to questions from General Clark, Mr. Johnson said if it had been known that Mr. McGeough was working for the C.P.R. at the same time, he would not have approved of his pay vouchers.

EXONERATE THE GOVERNMENT

"You are attempting to pillory this man and have refused to recall him," said Mr. Pattullo. "You have decided you are going to exonerate the government."

Chairman Twigg declared the McGeough affair as revealed before the committee to-day with him being employed by both the C.P.R. and the government at the same time was "the grossest piece of injustice."

Efforts to close up the relief committee's investigation with a final sitting Wednesday morning will be made so the committee's report can be completed in time for the Legislature to be prorogued before the end of the week, Chairman Twigg announced.

V. A. Rollins, government purchasing agent, was on the stand during the latter part of to-day's session, testifying on various purchases for relief camps.

Mr. Pearson asked for the vouchers covering the purchases for the Kamloops camp warehouse, which he took as a typical one for investigation.

TOO MUCH TROUBLE

Chairman Twigg, after consulting with public works accountants in the room, said it would involve going over 35,000 vouchers.

J. W. Berry, Ladner, declared that it seemed, to be a case of "check and double check" with Mr. Pearson.

"If this man doesn't want the facts . . . ." Mr. Pearson replied, holding up a thick pile of letters from all over the province. "The people of this country are howling about things in every camp, and the only way we can know whether things are right is to get down to facts and check them up for ourselves."

"At the last moment you produce a large file of letters here when we are on the eve of getting out our report," said Chairman Twigg.

Mr. Pearson replied that one witness who had come down to give evidence on these camp affairs had spent three weeks in Victoria and could not get himself called before the committee, and finally had to go home, after asking for his expenses to be paid.

Mr. Pattullo said that he himself, feeling sorry for the man, had paid his expenses here of $24.

"Mr. Pearson says fairly that the public wants to know how the camps were conducted," Mr. Pattullo went on.

W. R. Rutledge, Burnaby, declared that it was all "a fishing expedition."

Mr. Pattullo replied it seemed strange to be "talking of fishing expeditions when the government paints the water."

CONSIDERS IT A SHAME

"If the government doesn't want to know, then I think it is a shame," said Mr. Pearson.

"It looks to me as if this is a last grandstand play," said Mr. Berry.

"I want to get the facts and come to my own conclusions, and that is what you should be doing, also," said Mr. Pearson, pointing to Mr. Berry and other government members.

"That's a dirty insinuation," said J. H. Beatty, Victoria.

"It's not a dirty insinuation," said Mr. Pearson.

At one point, when the bickering between Mr. Berry and Mr. Pearson reached a high point, Mr. Beatty cautioned Mr. Berry, saying: "You had better look out or you will get thrown out of the window again."

KEEP COOL

Chairman Twigg urged members to keep quiet and cool, and said that while he was trying to quieten them, Mr. Pearson was stirring them up.

Dr. Sutherland asked what the committee was costing the government a day.

"That is not a matter for the committee," replied Chairman Twigg.

Mr. Pattullo said the opposition members had borne as best they could under the rulings of the chairman, and he objected to the whole procedure.

"You have done your job as leader in the best way you know how," was the reply of Chairman Twigg.

UNITY APPEAL TO THE IRISH

Australia's Note to Dublin Is First of Sort in History of the Empire

Hope Expressed Valera's Course Will Not Weaken Commonwealth

Associated Press

New York, April 5—The New York Times to-day published the following special cable from Canberra:

"The Australian government has issued the text of a note it has sent direct to the Valera Government of Ireland, urging it not to take any action which would weaken the Free State's ties with the British Empire.

"The document has historic interest as the first important protest ever sent by one dominion to another concerning its relationship with the mother country. A statement in similar terms was issued last week by Premier G. W. Forbes of New Zealand, but it was sent to London.

VIEWED WITH CONCERN

"The text of the Australian note follows:

"The Commonwealth Government has observed with deep conbern the situation which appears to be developing between the British government and the Irish Free State.

"Australia, as a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, has co-operated with the Free State and with other sister dominions and the United Kingdom in removing constitutional difficulties which have arisen on the development of the altered status of the sister nations within the Commonwealth and had hoped that as a result of the Imperial Conferences of 1926 and 1930 and the adoption of the Statute of Westminster by the governments of the United Kingdom and the dominions a position would have been reached where the full co-operation of self-governing peoples under a common crown would have been achieved.

WOULD DEPLORE SPLIT

"'That any difference of opinnon should arise which would tend to weaken the unity of the British Commonwealth of nations would be profoundly deplored by the people of Australia. In addition to the ties which bind Australia to the United Kingdom and her sister dominions, Australia is proud to number among her citizens a large proportion of people of Irish birth who might be vitally affected by any constitutional change involving their rights and privileges as citizens of a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"'In view of these considerations and of the fact the British Commonwealth of Nations—composed of self-governing peoples with sovereign rights—has been built up by the united efforts and willing co-operation of this great group of sister nations, the Commonwealth government earnestly hopes no action will be taken that could endanger the existing unity of the British Commonwealth of Nations and the relationship of the Irish Free State to the sister dominions and the United Kingdom.'"

LINDBERGH EXTENDS HUNT

bergh Jr., twenty months old, from his crib March 1.

Taking a personal friend in the hunt, which is enfolded in more mystery every day, Col. Lindbergh has appealed for freedom from questioning about his movements.

"Col. Lindbergh feels that under existing circumstances he should be privileged to move without the encumbrance of either check-up or accounting," said a police statement.

SECOND JOURNEY

About 3.30 p.m. yesterday he and his closest friend, Col. Henry Breckinridge, climbed over a back fence at the Newark airport and sped away in a borrowed plane capable of 180 miles an hour.

Late in the afternoon a plane identified by its number as the craft carrying Col. Lindbergh, was seen cruising over Martha's Vineyard Island, Mass. It was in that vicinity also that Col. Lindbergh was reported seen flying Sunday with three other men. Residents of the island said the four had inquired for a small yacht, Swallie.

When Col. Lindbergh and Col. Breckinridge started their flight yesterday, they carried a suitcase and a blanket. Many conjectures arose as to the reason for this, but none was verified.

HOPES INCREASE

Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University, who called at the Lindbergh home with his wife, said an "air of optimism" prevailed. Mrs. Hibben said Mrs. Lindbergh was bearing up well.

John Hughes Curtis, one of the three Norfolk, Va., intermediaries who believe they have established contact with the abductors, was away from his home on another mysterious journey that had lasted since Saturday. There were reports, unconfirmed, that he also had headed for Martha's Vineyard.

NOT REQUESTED

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, in his morning bulletin to-day, said his headquarters had not requested the activities at Martha's Vineyard, and they "are probably an independent investigation by some other department."

The police, he said, had had no contact with the abductors and had received no information of any kind about the return of the baby.

IN LONDON

London, April 5—Major Charles H. Schoeffel of the New Jersey state police, who came here in connection with the investigation of the Lindbergh baby abduction case, spent yesterday evening in London and did not go to Glasgow as he had at first planned.

The major was uncommunicative to-day. He stated he could not say a word about his mission and left his hotel before noon for an unannounced destination.

Ottawa, April 5.—A motion calling for production in the House of Commons of all correspondence and communications exchanged between Premier Bennett or Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, and Premier Bracken of Manitoba relating to the Manitoba provincial savings banks, has been placed on the order paper by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre.

Plan For Employment Insurance Postponed

Ottawa, April 5.—The government will introduce no bill at this session to set up an unemployment insurance scheme. This information was given to the Commons to-day by Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, in reply to a question asked by Hon. Peter Heenen, Liberal, Kenora-Rainy River, former Minister of Labor.

and Saskatchewan. Manitoba abolished them a short time ago and Nova Scotia proposed to follow suit. Antiquity was not a sufficient recommendation and Mr. Pooley saw no reason why they should be retained. He read comments from articles on the subject where exception was taken to men, without legal knowledge and in camera, sitting as a tribunal to override decisions of magistrates.

WILL SHED A TEAR

Mr. Maitland said he was not criticizing the Attorney-General for introducing the legislation, but if only for sentimental reasons he would shed a tear at the passing of an old tradition. It was not a case of what the grand jury had accomplished but what they had prevented through being there.

"I cannot help but feel," said Mr. Maitland, "we better be careful about getting away from the old traditions that lend majesty and dignity to the bench, bar and the administration of justice. I hope we will not get in the position of the United States, where there is no dignity to the administration of justice. It is not always dollars and cents we should have in mind."

Under the present system, Mr. Maitland continued, there was a horribly inefficient set of justices of the peace throughout British Columbia. Their intentions were honorable but they did not understand the law and did not want to. The grand jury offered protection in decisions they handed down.

Mr. Pattullo thought the Attorney-General would have been well advised to have consulted the House before making such an important recommendation to Ottawa. He was not so sure the right step was being taken. Grand juries were a great safeguard. It was better to have a grand jury err on the side of clemency than to have errors of justice.

M.P.'S TO DEBATE CONFERENCE SOON

Ottawa, April 5.—Premier Bennett yesterday afternoon informed the Commons ample opportunity would be given members of the House to discuss the Imperial Conference to be held in Ottawa in July of this year. The Prime Minister was replying to a question from Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Opposition, who asked if the government would, at its convenience, set aside one or two days for discussion of the policies to be discussed at the conference.

Mr. Bennett said there was an item in the main estimates providing for the conference expenses and a general discussion would be permissible when that item was being considered.

The Liberal leader suggested the item be considered at as early a date as possible.

"It will be in the main estimates," replied Mr. Bennett.

ALBERTA DEATH

Cardston, Alta., April 5 (Canadian Press)—W. G. Smith, sixty-two, prominent Alberta rancher, died here yesterday following an operation. He had been a resident of Alberta for thirty-five years and was a leader in the ranching and farming industries.

The charge made by Mr. Pattullo, Dr. W. H. Sutherland and George S. Pearson was that the minister had repeatedly issued untrue statements about provincial finances. The charge was supported by comparing two sets of statements made by the minister with regard to the same sets of facts.

On one occasion Mr. Pattullo said that if he could not produce an official government statement on the records of the House contradicting figures Mr. Jones had just given out he would resign his seat and dared Hon. R. H. Pooley, who had briefly injected himself into the debate, to accept the challenge.

Mr. Jones undertook to give a statement of how much the government had spent in reply to a general observation by A. M. Manson some days ago that the total was between $145,000,000 and $150,000,000.

Mr. Jones said the total was $110,000,000. He made this up by adding the current expenditures for the three fiscal years ending March 31, 1930, 1931 and 1932, a total of $83,390,000 to new borrowings of $25,000,000 under loan acts and $2,000,000 borrowed otherwise for unemployment relief.

Mr. Pattullo first pointed out that Mr. Jones had not included one dollar spent during the first seven and half months the government was in office, from August 20, 1928, to March 31, 1929. Averaging the total for that year over the month by month figures he said it was fair to assume the Tolmie government had spent at least $15,000,000 that year.

In the debt statement Mr. Pattullo charged that Mr. Jones had contradicted his own budget speeches.

BORROWING

"In the minister's budget speech this year he said the new money borrowed during the twelve months up to November 30 was $12,300,000," said Mr. Pattullo. "A year ago he said the sum borrowed in the preceding twelve months was $15,600,000. There in two years alone is $28,000,000 and the minister now tells us he has borrowed only $25,000,000. The $28,000,000 does not take into account the first year and a half this government was in office nor the past four or five months.

"There is another proof. The interest on public debt has increased by $2,400,000 since this government took office. That is 5 per cent on $45,000,000 by which this government has increased the debt.

"If you add together the minister's $83,000,000 for the current expenditures of the three years he quoted, to $15,000,000 for the first seven and a half months, and the $45,000,000 of debt you have $143,000,000 without taking into account the deficit of this year, which will run to between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000."

PEARSON'S ANALYSIS

Mr. Pearson then presented the situation from a different angle. He had made an actual calculation showing that during 1928-29 the old government in its four and a half months had spent at the rate of $1,800,000 a month, whereas the new government had spent at the rate of $2,200,000. But giving the government an even break $15,000,000 was a fair sum to allot them for that year.

He accepted Mr. Jones's figures for the next three years, but quoted the minister's own figures as given in answers to questions on the journals of the house to show that the borrowings had been $38,000,000, not the $25,000,000 quoted by Mr. Jones in the current debate.

AT LEAST $38,000,000

When the government came in it had admitted acquiring $9,600,000 of unexercised borrowing powers. Its new loan acts totaled $32,400,000, and the unexercised borrowing power extant on January 1 this year, was reduced to $4,000,000. It was clear, therefore, that the total new borrowings, exclusive of unemployment money and the borrowings since January 1 this year, was at least $38,000,000, on the figures provided year by year to the House by the minister himself.

"The Minister of Finance is, therefore, obviously out thirty or thirty-five millions in the statement he gave this House to-night," concluded Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Jones said the House had to listen to a lot of blather and bunk from the opposition leader. He said he could not accept the figures quoted by either Liberal members, and specifically denied a statement by Mr. Pattullo that $2,000,000 had been borrowed last year for deficits. It was borrowed for unemployment relief and not one dollar was used for deficits.

DEFICITS

He charged the late Liberal government with having incurred $16,000,000 of deficits in twelve years. Mr. Pattullo disputed this. He said it had had a current surplus every year but two, and had applied fifteen millions of current surplus to capital account, which the minister had neglected to take into account.

"But even accepting that basis of computation, incorrect as it is," said Mr. Pattullo, "this government has incurred a larger deficit in four years than we are charged with incurring in twelve years."

Mr. Jones accussed Mr. Pattullo with impairing the credit of the province by his charges of insolvency. Mr. Pattullo said he had refrained from discussing finances during his last summer's tour until October, when it became necessary to point out the disastrous effect of the short-term borrowings then falling due under adverse exchange conditions.

SHOULD KNOW FACTS

"But the financial men know these facts," said Mr. Pattullo. "You can't fool them, and the public have a right to know the facts. We would be recreant in our duty if we did not bring them out."

Mr. Jones said it was just a case of a professional politician trying to get into office.

The debate then turned on the increase in the civil service when Mr. Jones set out to refute figures given by Mr. Pattullo Friday night, showing an increase of $1,000,000 since the present government took office in payroll alone.

Mr. Jones said in August, 1928, there were 1,389 civil servants and the payroll for that year was $2,693,000. In August, 1931, the civil service was on an annual payroll basis of $3,037,000, the increase in number of personnel being 138 to a total of 1,527.

CLAIMS PAYROLL LOWER

The increase in payroll was only $300,000, he said, not the million dollars claimed by Mr. Pattullo, and since August the salary reductions and dismissals had brought the total back to lower than it was when the government took office.

Mr. Pattullo stated that his figures had been taken from the government's own public accounts by a chartered accountant.

"One of the most deplorable features of public life in this province is the difficulty of getting at the truth," said Mr. Pearson. "The figures the minister has just given do not agree with the figures given by the government in answers to questions as published in the records two years ago. At that time the official statement was that the number of employees on August 20, 1928, was 1,408 permanent and 165 temporary officials, or a total of 1,673."

Mr. Pooley demanded the date that answer was given. Mr. Pattullo and Mr. Pearson could not give the reference off-hand, but Mr. Pattullo said

"I remember that answer and I will resign my seat if I can not find it. Will my honorable friend agree to do the same when we show him the figures?"

There was no answer.

Mr. Pattullo pointed out that Mr. Jones's figures did not include provincial police, liquor board staff or the employees in eleemosynary institutions.

SAYS FACTS REFUSED

With regard to the difficulty of getting information, Mr. Pattullo said he was willing to leave the issue to an independent commission and told Conservative members they could easily verify his statement from the official records.

"But I can't get at all the facts," he added. "I hardly dare come into these buildings because if a civil servant is seen speaking to me he is immediately under suspicion. They have told me so. I offered to pay for a chartered accountant to ascertain the facts for me and the government refused."

There was another clash over the public debt. Mr. Jones said the gross debt was $142,000,000.

"Every official in the Finance Department knows that statement is not true," said Mr. Pattullo.

"It is in my budget speech and I stand by it before the world," said Mr. Jones.

Col. Nelson Spencer said that the increase in public debt could easily be ascertained. The net debt in August, 1928, as shown by the Helliwell-McLachlan audit was $62,000,000, and on November 30, as quoted by the Minister of Finance in his budget speech, was $144,000,000.

Mr. Jones explained his refusal to accept responsibility for any expenditures in 1928-29 was that the late Liberal government had prepared the budget and committed the expenditures.

Dr. W. H. Sutherland offered his personal opinion correct figures were not being obtained from the Minister of Finance. They had had an instance a few days ago when the Attorney-General had been wrong in figures of the game branch. The Premier had been wrong in quoting figures on the debt and undoubtedly he had secured his figures from the Finance Minister. It was a queer state of affairs when even the Premier could not get correct figures from the Minister of Finance.

With the comptroller-general's salary of $7,500 under consideration, Mr. Pattullo said this was an appointment of a friend of the former Minister of Finance at an increase over that paid the former comptroller-general.

Mr. Pattullo repeated his claim of an increase in the civil service, which was again denied by Mr. Jones, who claimed it was likely this year would show a decrease in the civil service payroll over the last year of the Liberal administration.

Attorney-General Pooley claimed Mr. Pattullo's figures were misleading. Outside workers who had sought civil service classification had been included.

He charged A. M. Manson, K.C., had given information he knew to be misleading in regard to the game board.

Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., minister without portfolio, charged the opposition with trying to throw a smoke screen to hide the popularity of the budget.

CLAIMS BUDGET FRAUDULENT

Mr. Pattullo came back to describe it as one of the most fraudulent budgets ever presented to the House. It did not represent expenditures. The privilege of special warrants was to be abused to cover spendings the budget did not show.

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe reviewed the last budget of the Liberal administration to confront the Opposition Leader's claim that the budget this session was one of the most fraudulent ever presented.

The vote of the Agent-General's salary, $8,000, passed with a brief comment from Mr. Pattullo on the cost of caring for a party friend. He also noted the $350 a month pension to F. A. Pauline after six years' service.

"It's too much," said one of the government members.

H. F. Kergin said it was not in public interest to eliminate the government agency at Anyox where the agent was also stipendiary magistrate and coroner. It was not advisable for an employee in a company town to act in either capacity as a part-time official.

Vote of the salary for the purchasing agent drew the comment from Mr. Pattullo that evidence before the public accounts committee had showed there was absolutely no check on authority over the purchasing agent who was responsible for the expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

NEGLECTED KIDNEYS

Nearly killed her . . now you'd never suspect it

"I suffered with agonizing Kidney Trouble for years. Had awful Headaches, frequent Dizzy Spells and terrible burning Back Pains. I finally used 'Fruit-a-tives' and soon felt like a new woman. The Headaches, Back Pains and Dizziness were gone."—Mrs. E. W., Belleville, Ont. LIBRARY BOARD IS DEFENDED

Alderman W. T. Straith Tells How Salary Adjustments Were Made

Alderman W. T. Straith, the City Council's representative on the Library Board, issued a strong defence of the board's financial policy at the City Council meeting yesterday evening in response to recent criticism in regard to action in connection with the wage question.

He declared certain misleading statements had appeared in the press about the matter and he wished them cleared up. He did not intend to criticize, but merely to explain, he said.

An unfair impression that the library board was set on a pedestal and could not be criticized had been given out, he declared, referring also to the lack of interest on the part of council members in the board's affairs.

In regard to the wage question, he said, it had been stated that one member of the library staff had received a pay cheque for $250 in March, an increase of $25 from the previous month. While this was technically correct, the impression given was wrong, he said, because the extra $25 was an increment under a general schedule for the first three months of the year which amounted to $8.33 per month. The same employee received a ten per cent reduction effective April 1, and would receive $210 a month henceforth. Increments were not given, he explained, until the board's estimates were passed and therefore the increase for the first three months was given on the March pay cheque. After that the reduction took effect.

Referring to increased expenditures of the library during the last ten years, he stated the revenues had increased also. Moreover, although the city's grant had grown by fourteen per cent in that period, the circulation of the library had increased by fifty-five per cent.

He compared the Victoria Library costs with those of other cities. The cost per borrower in Victoria was $1.32, in Calgary $1.65, in Edmonton $3, in Hamilton, Ont. $2.17, and in Windsor $1.86.

In Victoria, he said, fifty-two per cent of the administration costs were for salaries, in Calgary fifty-two per cent, in Hamilton fifty-two per cent, in Windsor fifty-seven per cent and in Edmonton fifty-seven per cent. A commission which made a survey of libraries in Canada some years ago had recommended that between fifty-five per cent and sixty per cent be paid in salaries.

The same commission, he said, had recommended that one person be employed for every 20,000 of circulation. On this basis the Victoria Board should employ twenty-three persons, where only fourteen were now employed.

He concluded by commending the library staff on the co-operation shown in accepting the wage cut and declared that the board had rescinded a previous resolution in which action along this line was made dependent upon the decision of the fire and police departments.

MAYOR'S REPLY

Mayor Leeming replied to the statement of Alderman Straith by drawing attention to the rising costs of all civic departments during the last ten years. The library, fire department, schools and all City Hall departments, with the exception of the legal office, had shown big increases, he declared.

"I want to get this fact home," he said, "that all these increased charges fall on the biggest asset the city has—land."

He outlined the numerous extra charges on the city this year, including $86,000 for social service costs, $12,000 in decreased grants, $400,000 for relief, $15,000 for the hospital, an extra $30,000 for the Friendly Help and others.

As far as the Library Board was concerned the City Council had no control over its expenditures under the Library Act, he said.

Alderman Straith answered this statement by pointing out that the practice of the council had been to name expert advisors on the Library Board. The council could always secure control by appointing aldermen in the majority on the board. In the past it had shown its faith in outside administration and had kept only one council representative on the board.

STAFF DECISIONS

Manion, Minister of Railways, told the Commons yesterday afternoon the government had absolutely nothing to do with the employing or laying off of men on the Canadian National Railways. Dr. Manion had been asked by Dr. J. P. Howden, Liberal, St. Boniface, Manitoba, to inform the House in respect to a rumored 20 per cent reduction in the staff of the Canadian National shops at Transcona.

ANSWER GIVEN TO RATEPAYERS

Mayor Tells Association Alternative If Loan By-law Not Passed

"If the ratepayers fail to pass this by-law the City Council is faced with the alternative of placing the amount required to meet our liabilities in the 1932 estimates, which, of course, means an extraordinary increase in the mill rate and will be followed by non-payment of taxes and reversion of land."

This issue has been placed squarely before the Victoria Ratepayers' Association by Mayor David Leeming as a result of the association's opposition to the city's $500,000 loan by-law, it was revealed at yesterday evening's meeting of the City Council.

The mayor replied in these terms to a resolution of opposition passed by the association. He pointed out the necessity for borrowing the $500,000.

"The necessity for this loan has arisen out of the need occasioned by the unprecedented situation regarding unemployment which compelled the City Council of 1931 and also the present council to make heavy expenditures and, as you are aware, the present situation does not show any signs of immediate improvement," he stated.

He explained that only a small portion of the sum was for waterworks expenditures and went on to say:

"The City Council of 1931 had to meet an emergency which arose and after a good deal of consideration decided to carry out certain works for relief employment which would be of the greatest value to the city, from the viewpoint of our present needs and also looking to the future."

"I think the members of your association must agree that it is in the best interests of all our citizens that wherever possible, all expenditures on relief work should be made on some useful project rather than hand out relief without receiving any return therefore."

The mayor also made reference during the evening to a newspaper report stating he had alleged "double-dealing" by the ratepayers' association in regard to the by-law.

He explained that while the association's representatives had opposed the borrowing before the private bills committee of the Legislature they had stated to the City Council that only the borrowing of the money without the assent of the ratepayers was involved. On a show of hands the council was unanimous in agreement that this was so. The mayor said there was not a case of double-dealing, but it was a case of the association intimating in the first place that it would give support to the loan if it were submitted to popular vote.

EASTMAN WILL IS $20,000,000

Bulk of Camera Maker's Estate Left to Rochester University

Rochester, N.Y., April 5.—The will of George Eastman, multi-millionaire camera manufacturer and philanthropist, was probated by Monroe County Surrogate Joseph M. Feely yesterday after representatives of Cornell University withdrew objections based on a revoked legacy to Cornell of an unestimated value.

The will disposes of an estate valued at $20,000,000. The bulk of the estate is left to the University of Rochester, to which Eastman gave $35,000,000 during a lifetime of philanthropy.

BRITISH EAGER FOR EMIGRATION

But 1931 Shows Large Excess of Inward Over Outward Flow of Migrants

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 5 (Canadian Press Cable).—"It is obviously desirable that we be prepared to stimulate a strong revival of emigration as soon as conditions in suitable areas of the world's surface are such as to hold out strong hopes of economic security and prosperity for the British settler," declares the monthly review of the Midland Bank made public here.

Discussing the latest migration figures, the review pointed out that while 1930 was notable for an unusually small net outward movement, amounting to 26,000 persons, last year actually witnessed a net inward movement, arrivals exceeding departures by 37,800.

DUCK JUDGMENT

Spokane, April 5—After long litigation in Federal Court here, K. C. Barclay's right to possess thirty-five ducks he killed in Canada was upheld by Judge J. Stanley Webster yesterday. Barclay was arrested by Federal officers as he stepped across the border with the ducks, five more than the legal limit allowed in the United States. He insisted he was within the law, as he had shot the birds in Canada, where the statute permitted a bag of forty birds.

MONTREAL CHANGES OVER

MONTREAL'S MUNICIPAL VOTERS went to the polls yesterday and elected as their mayor, Hon. Fernand Rinfret, who was Secretary of State in the government of Mr. Mackenzie King, and still represents St. James, Montreal, in the House of Commons. His chief opponent was Mayor Camillien Houde, leader of the Conservative party of Quebec, who has filled the position of chief magistrate for four years. There were two other candidates; but the fight was really between Rinfret and Houde, the former polling 64,556 votes and the latter 52,014 votes. Less than 10,000 ballots were cast for the third and fourth candidates. In addition to the defeat of Mr. Houde, moreover, the majority he controlled in the city council has been turned into a weak minority.

Since the two chief contestants for the mayoralty have taken active part in federal and provincial politics it was only natural that various issues only indirectly involving municipal affairs should figure conspicuously in the campaign. It will be recalled that Mayor Houde, as leader of his party, ran as a candidate in the Quebec general elections last August, but was defeated, and hopes of the Premiership—upon which he seemed to have set his mind—promptly vanished. Mr. Taschereau not only obtained the endorsement of the electors; he converted a following at dissolution of sixty-nine members into one of seventy-seven. His main opposition at present is composed of eleven Conservatives.

Mr. Rinfret is a journalist by profession and was Professor of Journalism at the University of Montreal in 1921. During the war he was a member of the party of journalists who visited Britain and France. He was first elected to the House of Commons at a by-election in 1920; he was re-elected in 1921, 1925, and 1926, and in the latter year he accepted the position of Secretary of State, resigning his office with the King administration after the general elections in 1930.

CHIROPRACTIC

THE CONCLUSION MR. JUSTICE MURphy reached after his thorough investigation into the science of chiropractic healing was that the chiropractors of British Columbia were entitled to set up their own board similar to that operated by the medical profession. He based this contention largely upon the fact that the chiropractor does not approach diagnosis in the same way as the physician who prescribes drugs. For example, the chiropractor does not require such an intensive course of study in anatomy as the medical man. But this does not mean that his training is any the less intensive as far as it applies to his system of treatment.

The bill before the Legislature at the present time has been designed to give the chiropractors their own examining board which will enable them to control their profession, not only as it involves efficiency but in the matter of numbers as well. The public, who have a perfect right to choose their own form of treatment in cases of illness, will regard such a request as not only reasonable but fair. With this machinery available and recognized by law, moreover, such further protection as may have been considered necessary will be provided.

It should not be forgotten, of course, that Mr. Justice Murphy was not asked to determine whether chiropractors should be permitted to practice or not—an idea which seems to be prevalent—for they were legalized years ago. What the government required of the judge as a commissioner was an expression of view as to who should conduct the examinations. He has made this clear.

THE "WET" AND "DRY" VOTE

SEVERAL UNITED STATES NEWSpaper check-up polls on prohibition show a close conformity in returns to those of The Literary Digest poll, according to a comparison of the balloting tabulations.

This is how the seventh return of ballots for the whole country stands:

For continuance of the Amendment	956,863

In a poll of Iowa by The Des Moines Register, one of the oldest papers in the state, 74,357 votes were returned of which 31,009, or 41.70 per cent favored "maintaining the present prohibition law," and 43,348, or 58.30 per cent voted against the amendment.

The latest figures in The Literary Digest poll give a total of 66,965 votes from Iowa. Using the slightly different questions of "continuing" instead of "maintaining," 24,141 Iowans, or 36.05 per cent voted dry in The Digest poll and 42,824, or 63.95 per cent, voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The Des Moines Register deduces from its poll of Iowa that the farms and the cities vote wet, while the small towns vote dry.

In South Bend and Mishawaka, Indiana, thirty-five representatives of The South Bend Times are making a house-to-house canvass of both cities. One vote of yes or no on the prohibition question is permitted from each home. The ballots are placed in a locked box which is opened in the presence of a committee of citizens.

In this South Bend News Times poll 8,383 votes have been tabulated so far of which 2,082, or 24.83 per cent are for continuance of the Prohibition Amendment and 6,301, or 75.17 per cent favor repeal.

Incomplete returns of The Literary Digest poll of South Bend show a total tabulation of 4,345 votes of which 976, or 22.46 per cent, are dry and 3,369, or 77.54 per cent, are wet.

In Mishawaka, Indiana, adjacent to South Bend, The News Times poll gives returns of 1,950 ballots to date of which 553, or 28.35 per cent, vote for prohibition and 1,397, or 71.65 per cent, are for repeal. Incomplete returns from the same community in The Literary Digest poll show a total of 916 ballots received of which 221, or 24.12 per cent, are dry and 695 votes, or 75.88 per cent, are wet.

Using the same questions as are on The Literary Digest ballot, The Richmond News Leader is conducting a straw referendum in which only qualified voters of Richmond, Virginia, may participate and they must sign their names to the ballot.

The News Leader poll shows early returns of 1,611 votes of which 108, or 6.70 per cent, are dry and 1,503, or 90.30 per cent, are wet. Literary Digest returns for Richmond, Virginia, nearly complete, show a total of 7,950 votes from the city of which 1,472, or 18.51 per cent, are dry and 6,478, or 81.49 per cent, are wet.

Several other newspaper polls to check-up The Literary Digest returns locally are now in progress, according to Dr. William Seaver Woods, editor-in-chief of the magazine.

WINE AND ATHLETES

FOREIGN ATHLETES WHO WILL BE in the United States during the coming summer to compete in the Olympic games will have to struggle along on the same sort of diet as the United States athletes get. Prohibition Administrator Woodcock has made it clear that the foreigners will not be permitted to bring beer and wine along with them, although in their own countries they are accustomed to use those beverages while in training.

This does not make any especial difference to anyone—except, perhaps, to the athletes themselves. But it does seem as if some way might have been found, says one well-known commentator, whereby the visitors could have had their customary menus, without undermining the American prohibition structure. The ruling may create a minor irritation, but not one that will worry very much those who will be out to put their best foot foremost—who think of the game first and their "tummies" afterward.

GREAT BRITAIN'S WAY

THIS IS PART OF AN ASSOCIATED Press dispatch from New York, written by Mr. Frank H. McConnell, which appears in another part of this issue of The Times:

J. P. Morgan and Company was mailing cheques totaling $20,000,000 to 110 United States banks to-day.

The payment was being made by the Morgan firm as the fiscal agent in this country of the British government. It will wipe out the last vestages of the $200,000,000 banking credit obtained last August by Great Britain.

The original credit was arranged to run for a full year, but, as a result of astonishing improvement in Britain's financial condition, she has been able to extinguish her indebtedness four months in advance of maturity.

New York bankers say the repayment sets something of a record in international finance. About six months ago the finances of the British government were shaken to a point where a complete breakdown seemed possible.

The critical condition, however, was met successfully, and in a short time the British government had pulled itself out of the bog.

Britain has faced many critical situations. The flight from the pound was perhaps her worst since the war. But the rapidity with which she has "muddled through"—the term looks hackneyed in view of what has happened—this time has been a revelation to the whole world.

If Britain were able to collect some of the millions owing to her, she would be well on the way to Easy Street.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SIMPLE
The Toronto Globe

In Detroit, Police Commissioner Watkins has notified all operators of speakeasies to close up. If the notice proves effective, the method of stamping out the drink "racket" might be applied to the whole nation by the President issuing a similar order. So far, municipal, state and federal forces, including naval vessels, have failed, despite earnest and costly effort. Is the word mightier than the weapon?

A SENSE OF VALUES
The Christian Science Monitor

Loss of a distorted sense of values may mean an increase in genuine wealth; courage, honor, intelligence, beauty and kindness have not depreciated. Less reliance on things is causing a rediscovery of the value of thought. The very uncertainty of human planning has turned men to seek divine guidance. As they do that they will find the most solid of all foundations for confidence—the assurance that right endeavor has a sure reward, even as promised in that same twenty-sixth chapter of Leviticus:

"If ye walk in my statutes, and keep my commandments and do them:

"Then I will give you rain in due season, and the land shall yield her increase, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit. . . .

"And I shall give peace in the land, and ye shall lie down and none shall make you afraid."

Men may not gain that confidence in a day, but they can move toward it, and as they do the fears which bring both economic disaster and war upon mankind will begin to dissolve.

A THOUGHT

The sleep of a laboring man is sweet.—Ecclesiastes v 12.

Alike to the slave and his oppressor cometh night with sweet refreshment, and half of the life of the most wretched is gladdened by the soothings of sleep.—

Across The Bay

We start the last lap with high resolutions—and come to life as we enter the dying hours—for our tempers are frayed—and our hopes of finishing this week are sadly dampened.

By H. B. W.

THE HOUSE plunged Monday into what, with our usual exquisite logic, we call the dying hours of the session, when everything comes suddenly to life. And while both sides were determined to make the dissolution as rapid and as merciful as might be, both reserved the right to do things which may yet keep us here over another week-end. Our end is not yet and ere it comes you may see many curious sights.

THIS FINAL week of the session, or at least we hope it is the final week, started with a sharp little wrangle which showed clearly how the many previous weeks have frayed our nerves and tired out our patience. As the day opened the Premier rose to make a portentous ministerial explanation. He said the government hoped to get through this week. It would do everything possible to send the members home before another week-end, without, however, skimping or shirking any business; which remark was particularly impressive in view of the fact that the chief business of the session has yet to be introduced. But, said the Premier, while reasonable speed was desirable, the government was absolutely determined to complete the unemployment investigation and allow a full discussion of it. Therefore, said the Premier, the less unnecessary oratory the better.

THIS WAS MORE than Mr. Pattullo could bear. He rose with indignation to remark that the unnecessary oratory of the session had not come from his side. The real reason for delay in the session, as everyone knew, was that the government had come to the House totally unprepared, and had not brought down its business in time. So late was the government's business, indeed, that the House had sat only an hour a day for some weeks for lack of legislation to go on with. Anyway, if the government would mend its ways and get down the real business of the session now, the opposition would move as fast as possible, but, added Mr. Pattullo, with an unmistakable rasp in his voice and a baleful eye which looked squarely at the Premier, the opposition would criticize as it saw fit until the bitter end.

* * *

MR. PATTULLO got into a separate row with Mr. Twigg, when he scorned the Premier's talk of a full unemployment inquiry. Mr. Twigg, as chairman of the unemployment committee, begged with great courtesy to deny Mr. Pattullo's allegation that the inquiry was not free and full, that all the desired witnesses had not been called. Mr. Twigg went so far as to use the absolutely unparliamentary word "untrue", to which Mr. Pattullo retorted that the inquiry was a mere travesty, designed simply to give the government a certificate of character. The Premier, still smiling, said the government needed no such certificate, and Mr. Pooley said the House had been adjourned early in the first weeks of the session so that the committees could work.

THIS HAVING been settled to no one's satisfaction, and our hopes of finishing this week having been decidedly dampened, we went on with the job of finishing. There was nothing in the subsequent proceedings to inspire new confidence in the breast of Mr. Pattullo. When he regarded some of Mr. Pooley's new legislation, which doubles and quadruples fees for registering various conditional sales, Mr Pattullo finally confessed that he was without hope in this ministry. He finally suggested that the government could improve its financial position and add some real talent to its fiscal administration by calling in that noted financier, Andrew H. Brown of the Fresh Air Taxicab Company, like whom, Mr. Pattullo said, he was absolutely "regusted." But, as Mr. Pooley felt that the government already received enough fresh air from the opposition, we decided not to bother Mr. Brown just now.

THE BILL to abolish grand juries brought to the surface an interesting conflict in the processes of eminent minds. Mr. Pooley sponsored this move, and made an able argument to support it. Mr. Maitland, as he must do or resign, loyally supported Mr. Pooley's bill, but if he liked it he disguised his feelings with remarkable success. He supposed the bill was inevitable, since Ottawa was abolishing grand juries, but he proceeded to make an excellent argument for keeping them. Indeed, he advanced a much better argument against Mr. Pooley than the opposition did, garnished it with some interesting legal reminiscences, and finally confessed that he would shed a tear to see another of the grand old institutions of British jurisprudence disappear. He even feared lawyers' gowns would go next, and after that what was left? Mr. Maitland having expressed his views so well, Mr. Pattullo largely reiterated them.

ALL THIS was very pleasant and nonpolitical, but Mr. Jones brought us up with an unpleasant round turn when he asked for the passage of a loan bill for $7,500,000, of which the appalling total of $7,000,000 is for current deficits—seven millions added to our dead weight of debt for twenty or thirty years, probably twenty millions to pay back, interest included, with little to show for it but actual running expenses now forgotten; seven millions more debt to bring our total within speaking distance of a hundred and fifty million, and no member could fail to see the silent indictment of Mr. Jones's loan bill.

* * *

MR. PATTULLO blamed it all on the government, and more especially on the government's failure to take his advice and go slow in its early stages. Instead it had made a splurge and landed us into this mess, whereas if it had taken his advice, Mr. Pattullo confessed with a remarkable frankness that it probably could not have been beatable at the next election. Not having taken his advice, of course, it was already beaten.

* * *

IN THE EVENING we made progress crabwise and seemed to get further from prorogation with every passing hour. It took Mr. Jones over an hour to get one small item of supply passed, and it required, in addition, almost another complete budget speech. Evidently Mr. Jones had come prepared for trouble of this sort. To Mr. Pattullo's complaint about the government's extravagance, Mr. Jones replied with a tornado of statistics to prove that it was really all Mr. Pattullo's fault. He quoted figure after figure to show that Mr. Pattullo's government had really spent the money, or committed its successor to spending it, which was very enlightening, but did not, alas, alter the fact that it was spent but not yet paid for.

MR. JONES became once more the fighting Mr. Jones of opposition days as he lit into Mr. Pattullo as he used to do. He was tired of the "blather and bunk" of his friend Mr. Pattullo, and it appeared that Mr. Pattullo was almost as tired of Mr. Jones. Mr. Loutet expressed the outraged feelings of the downtrodden, inarticulate back benches when he said everybody was tired of all these ancient, worn-out arguments. Mr. Pearson, for his part, was tired of all this fruitless searching for the truth amid all this contradiction. Dr. Sutherland, breaking his customary silence with a sudden mighty outburst of indignation, said the government was misrepresenting the truth even about the public debt. Mr. Pooley, with an outburst still mightier, said the opposition was misrepresenting the truth about everything, instead of being British and playing the game in our time of need. And we were still trying to get at the facts, we were still trying to find out whether the civil service costs a million dollars more a year than under the old government, we were still toiling laboriously over supply, still listening to the inexhaustible logic of Mr Hinchliffe, still wondering if we could possibly finish this week when we quit and went home wretchedly to bed.

OUR STONE CUTTERS

To the Editor:—Among the various trades which have been suffering from unemployment is that of the stone cutters, whose work requires no small degree of skill if it is to be well done. During the building of Christ Church Cathedral a group of such men were regularly employed cutting and preparing the stone, but since the completion of their contract these men have had but little of such work and are now in real need. There is a considerable amount of rough stone of large irregular sizes lying at the east end of the site, and it would be a great help to a worthy class of our citizens if they could be set to work cutting this stone and reducing it to the shapes required for the future building of the upper part of the northwest tower.

As the rough stone is already paid for, the whole of the cost of such cutting would be a contribution to labor, and if this should meet the eye of any who would like to assist these men now, and through them at the same time help on the future Cathedral building project, I would gladly receive any donations if sent to me at the Synod Office marked for stone cutting labor. Incidentally, this would also advance the day when the northwest tower could be carried up (to receive its bells) and thus add another architectural feature of real value to the city.

MINERAL PRODUCTION

To the Editor:—British Columbia with its 370,000 square miles, has the largest mineral-bearing area of any province. Practically all the metallic elements used commercially exist in economic quantities, and we still have thousands of square miles not properly explored or prospected. The future prosperity of the province depends to a major degree upon the success of its mineral development and production, yet we employ less than 15,000 men in our metal-producing mines, and the bulk of production comes from the efforts of five operators. Now what are the reasons for this poor showing and what can be done to correct the condition? Permit me to suggest two reasons and two possible remedies.

First, over half of our area has not been properly explored or prospected for minerals; we have a very able and efficient staff of geologists employed for the purpose of making mineral surveys, which they do not make to the best advantage. Their efforts during the fifteen years of their employ have consisted largely in making reports on already existing discoveries and the work being done on the same; this work previous to 1917 was done by our twenty-five gold commissioners and 112 mining recorders placed throughout the province, their reports being summarized and published by the Department of Mines and which served a very useful purpose, and it should not have been necessary to delegate this work to our geological staff. Would it not be to greater advantage to send this staff into our minerally unexplored and unprospected areas to determine what value they might have and advise as to the best means of further development. Equipped properly and with airplane transportation, these geologists of ours could gather more exact data in one season than we could in fifty years with our present system. As proof, witness the results in other parts of Canada. This operation would not add to the present expenses of our Mines Department.

Second, we have (1930) over 3,000 reverted Crown-granted mineral claims, and no doubt as many more Crown-granted claims in good standing, upon which not a stroke of work is being done. No effort whatever is being made to determine what mineral value they may have, nor will we ever know what value they may have unless some further exploration is made on them. It is quite possible to amend our Mineral Act so that these claims can only be held by the annual doing of some development work. Why tie up all this mineral-bearing area for the sake of a few thousand dollars' annual land tax? Surely, in the light of past and present results, some of these 6,000 claims will make real mines. Further, there are quite a large number of very promising claims held by persons who are not doing a stroke of work on them and who refuse to let others explore and develop them except upon prepayment of exorbitant sums of money. Of course, the holder of valuable ground should receive a fair price for it but this price should be based upon what the ground yields rather than on the prospective value. Proved and paying mines have been forced to close down on account of the high demands of owners of contiguous ground essential for further operations.

Our mineral laws are in many respects excellent and fair, but I do not believe that our mineral production reaches anywhere near the proportion it should, and some changes could easily be made which would insure a very large increase.

PASS ON VOTES FOR EDUCATION

More Welfare Offices Needed, Says Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe

University of British Columbia Vote Held Over

Dr. H. C. Wrinch, Skeena, during discussion on estimates of the Department of Education in the Legislature drew attention again to the case of a female school teacher in the lonely school in his riding who had been attacked and stabbed.

Dr. Wrinch said he thought inspectors should be charged with the responsibility of overlooking living conditions of teachers in remote districts. He recalled he had opposed the appointment of a welfare officer for the purpose when it was made on the grounds that one woman could do very little throughout the province.

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe agreed with the latter part of the Skeena member's statement. A woman officer was needed, said Mr. Hinchliffe because female teachers would confide in another female more readily than they would in a man. More welfare officers were needed and consideration would be given to other appointments.

L. A. Hanna, Alberni, noted the grant for education of soldiers' dependant children had been cut from $15,000 to $12,000.

A community school district trustee at salary and expenses for five months of $2,200 was a new appointment for Doukhobor schools, said Mr. Hinchliffe. For next year the schools would be asseed for this salary. Major W. A. Clark, formerly in the Lands Department, has been selected for the post Mr. Hinchliffe said.

The vote for the University of British Columbia was not passed upon. T. D. Pattullo, Opposition Leader, asking it be held over in the absence of A. M. Manson, who was unable to attend because of an appearance in the Court of Appeal.

Mr. Hinchliffe intimated there was no chance of a change of heart on the reduced vote.

HOPES TO END SESSION SOON

But Unemployment Report Must First Be Presented, Says Premier

Government Members Responsible For Delay, Says Opposition Leader

Announcement by Premier Tolmie at the opening of yesterday's sitting of the Legislature that he was prepared to facilitate the work of the session to procure final adjournment this week, led to a clash over the work of the unemployment committee. The premier said a report from this committee for debate in the House would be insisted upon.

T. D. Pattullo said he would assist in getting through the work. The opposition had waived the debate on the address at the opening of the session, but the government was not ready, and for weeks the House had sat an average of an hour and a half a day.

The unemployment committee had been slow in getting down to work and even yet none of the witnesses asked for by opposition members had been produced.

"The whole thing is a travesty," he said. "We ask for a witness and instead of issuing a subpoena the chairman interviews the witness and advises us it is no use calling him. The object of this committee is just to give the government a certificate of character."

H. D. Twigg, chairman of the committee, said Mr. Pattullo's statements were untrue and every charge investigated and been found worthless.

If the government wished to get through promptly, Mr. Pattullo advised the premier to bring down any remaining legislation at once, so opposition members might have time to consider it. He was willing to wind up the session at once, but the opposition would insist on carrying out their duty of submitting all legislation to such criticism as was warranted.

SET TAX RATE IN ESQUIMALT

Will Be 30.20 Mills on Land and One-third of Improvements

Itemized Public Work Estimates Approved; Embodied in Annual By-law

Esquimalt Council, at a special meeting yesterday evening, definitely set the municipality's total tax rate at 30.20 mills, on the assessed value of land and thirty-three and one-third per cent of the improvements. Of this amount twenty mills will be for general purposes and 10.20 for the school levy. The rate is expected to raise $61,180.23.

In 1930 the total rate was twenty-nine and one-half mills, eighteen and one-half for general purposes and eleven for schools, on the assessed value of land and twenty-five per cent of the improvements.

The estimates will be embodied in the annual expenditure by-law, which will be introduced at the next regular meeting of the council.

Actual public works estimates this year, without contingencies, total about $3,000 below the figure spent last year and much below that estimated in January, 1930, before the rigid retrenchment programme was started.

Total costs for the public works department, as accepted in yesterday evening's estimates, amount to $13,794.16.

Providing all taxes are paid this will leave a total of $7,213.58 for contingencies, including the municipality's share in the costs of mothers' pensions, mental home upkeep, etc. Together with the public works department this section of the budget amounts to $21,608.

PUBLIC WORK ESTIMATES

The itemized estimates for the department itself follow: Tarviating roads $2,426.50; general work $4,025; garbage collection $2,600; Memorial Park $743.66; Municipal Hall $900; repairs to machinery $700; tools $100; engineering $2,149; surfacing of Lampson Street School walk $150.

Last year the original estimates for this department were $21,193.20, while the actual expenditures, after the figures had been slashed down, amounted to $16,653.57, not accounting for contingencies passed on to the municipality by the government in regard to social services this year.

In the preamble to the estimates, read by the reeve, it was noted that the failure of the Hudson's Bay Company to pay its taxes or the lack of any improvement in the percentage of collections would cause a deficit of approximately $20,000, less whatever might be saved on estimated expenditures or gained on estimated revenue.

It was also understood that the costs of mothers' pensions for the remaining nine months of the year would be $1,572.39.

NOT SURE OF PAYMENT

"The matter of payment of taxes by the Hudson's Bay Company is one thing of which we are not sure. Of course, if they do pay, we will be well away," Reeve Albert Heald commented. "We can only estimate on the grounds that they will pay."

Discussing the improvement levy, the reeve asked the council if it wished to increase the taxable assessment percentage.

"No," replied Councillor Robert A. Anderson, "we should accept the report as given by the finance committee."

"At any rate," the reeve remarked, "I do not think we will be any worse off than we were at the end of la year."

Inclusion of an extra $1,000 for u employment purposes this year boost the general estimates up to $27,5 against $27,165 last year.

A considerable saving was shown the comparison of the police estimat summary. Last year the council ori inally set aside $8,636.50 for this d partment, but only spent $7,366.2 This year it has earmarked $6,565 f the force.

RETICENT ON LIQUOR BOARI

Information about traveling expens of liquor commissioners was denied the Legislature yesterday, when A torney-General Pooley informed T. Pattullo that what goes on in t Liquor Board administration is n within the official knowledge of t Attorney-General.

Mr. Pattullo had asked some que tions of the Attorney-General abou traveling expenses of the commi sioners and whether the board had a office in the Pacific Building, Va couver. They were returned marke "No official knowledge."

"The Liquor Board is within t Attorney-General's department, and he has no knowledge of these matte it is his duty to ascertain," said M Pattullo.

Mr. Speaker said in the case separate bodies corporate the minist had not necessarily direct knowledg and Premier Tolmie confirmed this the case of the P.G.E. At Ottawa, h said, they often refused to answ questions about the C.N.R.

"If they do wrong at Ottawa, that no reason why we should do wron here," insisted Mr. Pattullo. "Let th daylight in on this Liquor Board onc in a while, instead of trying to d everything secretly."

Premier Tolmie said there was n attempt to hide anything and M Pooley suggested the questions be re submitted and he would consider the again.

Finance Minister Will Seek Money When Market Improves

Tourist Business in Danger If Roads Neglected, Says Pattullo

The $7,500,000 loan which British Columbia seeks powers to raise under the loan bill, given second reading in the Legislature yesterday, will not be applied for at once, Hon. J. W. Jones stated in the Legislature yesterday, but will be applied for as the case arises and when the money market offers the best opportunity.

"If the government had not spent $20,000,000 too much during its term of office it would be in a better position now and have stood a good chance of success when it appealed to the country soon, as it inevitably must," T. D. Pattullo, Leader of the Opposition, commented, pointing out the bill called for $7,000,000 for deficits.

Mr. Jones said $400,000 would be used for bridges and highways, the greater part of which would be for the protection of bridges. The sum of $100,000 was needed for the conservation fund for irrigation districts of the interior.

Roads would deteriorate unless money were spent on them, Mr. Pattullo claimed, and the tourist business which was valuable would suffer. He hoped complete data would be given on the $100,000 conservation fund in the committee stage, recalling in his day $2,250,000 was loaned to preserve the integrity of the dry belt to build up failing systems, the original builders of which had failed. He asked for information about rebates, recalling the government had rebated $900,000 in interest. "Would rebates be general?" he asked.

Hon. N. S. Lougheed said the $100,000 was needed to complete an improvement programme started two or three years ago. Demands for payments made on irrigation districts had been met, in many cases 100 per cent, and on an average of 79.02 per cent.

Hon. W. A. McKenzie and Mr. Pattullo found themselves in accord on two points. Mr. McKenzie agreed Mr. Pattullo was right when during the last administration he proposed $2,250,000 be advanced to save dry belt irrigation systems, and Mr. Pattullo announced he was not quarreling with the $100,000 in the bill before them for conservation fund. They were, however, wide apart on the value of the Sanford Evans report, which Mr. Pattullo claimed disclosed nothing the government could not have secured from its own officials or records.

CONDITIONS NOW NORMAL

Mayor Webb, Winnipeg, Tells Gathering Not to Look On Boom Years as Usual

It was time for Canada to realize, as the prairies did, that conditions as they exist to-day were normal, and to get away from the idea that the years from 1925 to 1929 were average good times, Lieut.-Col. Ralph Webb, mayor of Winnipeg, told a large gathering of members of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and Chamber at a luncheon yesterday.

Criticism of public bodies and governments was of no avail in helping the country, he said.

OBJECT LESSON

"It seems to me that the war we are going through now will be worthwhile if it only stops us in time to let us see where we are heading. The depression is only an object lesson for the follies of the last few years," he said.

The prairies were no longer thinking in terms of depression. They had overcome that outlook and reached the point where they were looking to the future with optimism, Mayor Webb said.

The prairies had touched rock bottom and gone beyond. But the people there had quit seeing the years from 1925 to 1929 as normal good times. They recognized they were boom times.

It was time for people to realize that the present was normal. It would do no good to go around grousing and criticizing governments, Mayor Webb continued.

It was time for those not in office to get behind the government in its efforts to aid the country, he said. It was not for them to seek "cheap claptrap newspaper publicity."

He directeed fire upon the sensational aspect of newspapers of to-day. He maintained the good, solid moves of public bodies were overlooked for emotionalism in the news headlines.

"I often wonder why more British Columbians do not come to the prairies. We prairie people come out to British Columbia and keep in close contact with the Coast. You would have more prairie people come out here if you would tell them your stories," the mayor said

"Our people are not going south or north. It is up to you to bring them out here.

"We would like to invite the people of the west to see more of our country, so that we could co-operate more effectively with you and you could co-operate more closely with us."

GREAT PLAYGROUND

The Pacific Coast of British Columbia was one of the greatest playgrounds on the continent, Mayor Webb stated. He commended the city of Victoria for its publicity work. Pointing out the fact that the tourist industry was the third largest in Canada, he expressed the hope the province would spend freely to increase the influx of visitors.

"Don't talk depression; you will frighten visitors away," he said.

The more money spent in advertising the attractions of the province, the greater would be the tourist returns, he said. He favored the spreading of advertising not only on the continent, but in India, Australia, Great Britain, Europe and all other centres where people had money to spend.

"That is one way of getting rid of the conditions through which we are passing now," Mayor Webb continued developing the argument in favor of greater publicity. He sketched the value of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Although knocked at first in England the line had become Canada's greatest asset.

"If you let the C.P.R. go, Canada would go with it," he declared.

Many of the great industries of Canada had been built up as the result of trips by visitors from other lands, he noted.

It was up to the cities and provinces to get behind publicity and match the federal government in an advertising campaign, world-wide in scope, the speaker continued.

The Hudson Bay Railway had justified itself. Its possibilities were not yet known, but it furnished a quick route to Europe by cutting off half the railway journey to that continent from British Columbia. With trade shifting from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the development of the quicker route was assured, he said.

The prairies were back of British Columbia, with complementary industries. It was up to British Columbia and the prairies to unite in any recommendations from the West to the Imperial Economic Conference so that the West might not be left "out in the cold," he said.

"Our neighbors to the south of us are not going to let that conference be a success if they can help it." They see the handwriting on the wall, he stated.

In closing, he voiced another plea for personal and governmental co-operation, so that the people of Canada could take advantage of the great opportunity now before the nation.

J. Carl Pendray moved a vote of thanks to the speaker. It was seconded by R. H. B. Ker.

Herbert Anscomb, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, presented and introduced Mayor Webb.

'CLEAN-UP WEEK' STARTS APRIL 11

Garbage Department to Assist In Removing Debris From City Homes

The city garbage department will be prepared to take care of all city calls for the removal of extra rubbish during Clean-up Week, from April 11 to 16, it was stated this morning.

Rubbish must be put together and placed easy of access in order to facilitate removal. Brush and other garden debris will not be moved by the department, but such material may be sent down to the burners and garbage scows, where facilities will be provided for the disposal of same free of charge. The fire department will issue fire permits on application.

A flat scow will also be provided for the disposal of the more bulky material, such as old auto bodies and frames. Auto bodies must have all the woodwork and other burnable material removed before being deposited on the scow. This scow is also provided free of charge.

By telephoning Garden 4513, the attention of the garbage department may be secured.

HER HUSBAND TEASED HER

But not for long!

"I started taking Kruschen Salts for biliousness, and for the last two years I have been perfectly free from an attack. Now I continue to take them, as I find they keep me in perfect health. My husband used to joke about me taking Kruschen Salts; now he takes them himself, so do my children. My sincere thanks."
—Mrs. G. P.

When your gastric or digestive juices refuse to flow, your food, instead of becoming absorbed into your system, simply collects and ferments inside you, producing harmful acids and gases which give rise to biliousness, heartburn and flatulence.

Kruschen is a combination of six mineral salts, which goes right to the root of the trouble. It first stimulates the flow of gastric and other juices to aid digestion, and then ensures complete, regular and unfailing elimination of waste matter every day. And that means a blessed end to biliousness, and a renewed and whole-hearted enjoyment of your food without the slightest fear of having to pay the old painful penalty. (Advt.)

SENIOR W.A. HAS SESSION

Christ Church Cathedral Branch in Open Meeting

The open meeting of the Christ Church Cathedral Senior W.A., held in the Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon, was very well attended and a most enjoyable and instructive programme was carried out by the president, Mrs. E. P. Laycock, who gave a specially cordial welcome to the members of the James Bay branch, who are now merged into the Cathedral W.A. Piano selections by Miss Stewart were much enjoyed and Miss Moore delighted her audience with two charming songs, her accompanist being Mrs. Cecil Tice.

A very comprehensive report of the annual meeting of the diocesan board was given by Mrs. Benwell, the branch's delegate, and Deaconess Simcox gave a short but impressive address on "Prayer." Mrs. Laycock outlined the aims and objects of the branch and urged united effort and loyalty on every member in carrying them out.

A lecture on Egypt, to be given on Monday afternoon, April 11, at 3 o'clock in Room 202 Union Building, View Street, by Miss E. Athelstane Clarke, was announced and members were urged to attend the meeting of the diocesan board on Friday, April 15, at St. Mary's Parish Hall, Yale Street.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by a committee composed of Mrs. Hamilton Smith, Mrs. Chrow, Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Parnell, the tea tables being beautifully decorated with spring blossoms. The next meeting of the branch will be held on Monday, April 18, at 2.30 o'clock, and will be a Dorcas meeting.

BUSY ON PLANS FOR STYLE SHOW

Junior W.A. of Jubilee Hospital Hears Encouraging Reports at Meeting

Plans are proceeding apace for the fashion show and tea which the Junior Women's Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital will hold in the nurses' home on April 13, and at the monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon the reports concerning the sale of tickets point to the affair being an outstanding success. Mrs. R. A. Wootton presided in the absence of the president, Miss Dorothy Scott.

The members volunteered to take charge of the hospital tombola shop, taking charge for the week commencing Monday, April 18.

After the adoption of the secretary's and treasurer's reports, the various committees told of their work. Mrs. W. C. Merston stating that diets had been supplied to four new cases during the past month, making a total of eight now on the list. Mrs. J. Jackson reported for the visiting committee, the past month having added fifteen new cases, with thirteen continued from the previous month. Fifty-two hospital and ten home visits had been paid.

Mrs. H. T. Goodland, in reporting for the vocational committee, announced that the bi-weekly visits to the hospital continued and that Easter novelties had been supplied to the children. One adult patient had been dealt with, letters written and reading adding to her comfort. Mrs. Gordon Cameron read the report for the transportation committee, which is headed by Mrs. Herbert Clark, fifteen patients having been driven home from hospital, several others having been assisted during their treatments and visits to doctors' offices. Mrs. K. F. R. Denniston, convener of the clothing committee, reported that garments had been given to one woman and six children, and a cot supplied for a baby. Many donations had been gratefully received from friends.

Magazines have been given out each week, but as usual there is a shortage, and Wild West stories would be most gratefully received.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Beaumont of Mount Tolmie celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding yesterday, the ceremony taking place at Brighton, England, on April 4, 1907. Yesterday evening about seventy relatives and friends staged a surprise party in honor of the popular couple. The accommodation at their home proved inadequate for the merry party of invaders, so adjournment was made to St. Aidan's Hall, where Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont, who have resided in the district for over twenty years, received the congratulations of their many friends. Numerous gifts were received by the couple, and Mrs. E. J. Merrett, on behalf of the assembled friends, presented Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont with a handsome silver tea service, which was fittingly acknowledged by the recipients. Games and community singing were enjoyed, interspersed with musical selections, including vocal solos by Mrs. J. C. Williams, and Mrs. Winnie Boorman; whistling and vocal solos by Reg. Stofer Jr., and selections on the mouth organ by Reg. Beaumont. Mrs. F. Dawson, Miss Mary Armitage and Mrs. R. G. Stofer were the able accompanists, Mrs. Stofer also accompanying the community singing on the piano accordion. Dainty refreshments were served from tables attractively arranged with spring flowers, Mrs. Beaumont cutting the bride's cake. The evening closed with the traditional singing of "Auld Lang Syne." BAKING makes potatoes better

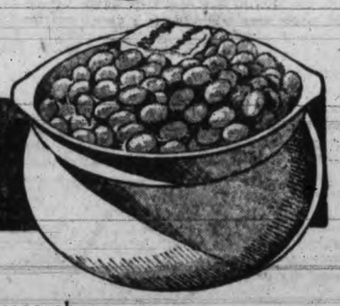
BAKING makes bread featherweight

BAKING makes beans marvellously tender



Four kinds of Heinz Beans —all baked!

Baking makes many foods taste better—but beans, above all, need to be baked to bring out their flavour. Heinz Beans taste better because they are really baked in dry-heat ovens just like your own. Most beans are simply steamed in a sealed can. But oven-baking makes Heinz beans marvellously light, tender and digestible. The sauces, that only Heinz can make, permeate every bean. One taste will tell you the difference oven-baking makes.

Heinz Beans are really Baked!

And what a nourishing meal they make — all the food value of meat and potatoes. Get Heinz Oven-Baked Beans the next time you're at your grocer's.

TO SELL GREAT ENGLISH HOUSE

Earl of Durham's Treasures to Be Sold at Auction and Castle Demolished

London, April 5.—Great interest has been aroused here by announcement that the Earl of Durham will sell the entire contents of Lambton Castle, County Durham, including the famous "Red Boy" picture, a painting by Sir Thomas Lawrence, R.A., of Aster Charles Lambton, at a four-day auction opening on April 18.

The castle is described as a treasure house of pictures, prints, books, furniture and everything that went to adorn one of the great houses of a by-gone era. The building, which will be demolished after the auction, was erected by Bonami in the reign of George IV, in succession to a former pile known as Lambton Hall.

Man Strangled—Eyeglasses Yield Clue to Killer

He Left His Print

On the afternoon of January 23rd, 1926, police were called to break down the door of an apartment in Washington, D.C. whose occupant had not been heard of for days. On entering they found the body of a man on a bed. His hands and feet were tied and a muffler wrapped about his mouth. He had been strangled to death. There was no evidence of robbery or other violence, he had no known enemies. There seemed no clue.

Under the bed the detectives found a pair of eye glasses. They were examined carefully. A finger print was discovered. It was not that of the victim, but perhaps of his murderer. No record of the print was at headquarters, but it was filed carefully.

On March 18th, last year, over 5 years later, a vigilant officer, going over the finger print receipts of the day found one of a man who had been arrested for a minor crime, and had been later released. The "eyeglass murder" was always in his mind. He compared the print he just received with the eyeglass print. They tallied. Then followed a search for the man who in the meanwhile had disappeared. He was found, however, and soon appeared before a grand jury on a charge of murder in the first degree.

All because he left a finger print on a piece of glass.

Yours are Dangerous too—on Foods!

This true story is told to show you the peril in finger prints. Yours are dangerous too but in another way, of course. Every time you touch anything you leave a print. It may be laden with germ infection.

Your hands pick up germs all day long. Often by touching things others have touched, or by shaking hands which are contaminated by unseen germs. Any piece of food you touch—a candy, a fruit, a piece of toast—may carry those germs to your mouth. They enter your system to start a dangerous disease, perhaps.

Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be conveyed in this way. Colds are the most common—conveyed by hands which have checked a sneeze or cough.

Safety this way

Here is the great reason for Lifebuoy Soap—it is a constant protection. For Lifebuoy contains an antiseptic. Careful laboratory tests have proved that it either removes germs or makes them inactive. Wash your hands often with Lifebuoy and always before a meal. See that the children do so too, for safety's sake.

Lifebuoy is a luxurious soap, based on two helpful palm oils. No beauty soap was ever created to do more for the skin and complexion.

Lifebuoy's bland, antiseptic lather penetrates deep into the pores, brings out and washes away the waste matter that makes the skin look sallow and dull. A "facial" at night with Lifebuoy and a rinse in the morning in cold water is a real beauty treatment.

Banishes "B.O."

Lifebuoy also banishes body odour. Use it in a bath and your whole body is exempt from offensive body odour for hours. Millions of people the world over are protecting themselves in this delightful way.

Give your family the benefit of Lifebuoy's protection today. Get a supply from your dealer.

BUSTER KEATON WON ARGUMENT

Took His Children For Airplane Ride After Wife Objected

Los Angeles, April 5.—Buster Keaton, smileless screen comedian, is due back here from San Diego to-day, having won his point, at considerable inconvenience, in an argument with his wife, Natalie Talmadge.

Keaton insisted on taking his two children for an airplane ride. Mrs. Keaton objected. Keaton took them anyway, but when they arrived at San Diego with a nurse, Connie Consuelo, they were met by police armed with telephoned request from District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles that Keaton be held in technical custody.

Keaton was released after a short detention at police station. "It's just a little family difficulty," he said, "so I guess I'll saunter back to Los Angeles with the children in the morning."

Chicago Teachers Get More Pay

Chicago, April 5.—Chicago's school teachers were getting their first pay to-day for work they have done in 1932.

A payroll of nearly $2,500,000, the second in cash within the last two weeks, was made possible by the approval bond experts gave the city's agreement to buy some 1931 school board tax anticipation warrants.

In One Month Lindbergh Baby Outgrows Fear

By MYRTLE MYER EDRED

One month ago the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped.

One month during which papers everywhere have blazed with columns of stories about the baby, its famous father, its charming mother, its nursery, its grandmother—everything and anything upon which to hang a tale.

One month during which the police resources of the United States have polished their boots and their weapons and whispered into the telegeraphic ears of the nation their every thought and every movement.

CLUES FADE

One month during which clues have sprung up and faded overnight. Evidence which seemed so clear and suspicious that it just must lead somewhere, has nursed hope in print and then disappeeared.

One month in which the conservative citizen has been horrified by Lindbergh's appeal to a gang leader to find, by underworld methods, a grapevine route to the baby.

Not a trail has been missed, not a leaf left unturned and the net result of all this frenzy of hunting, this mad chase after clues has been exactly nothing.

NO AUTHENTIC TRACE

No friend has really seen the baby since that night, one month ago, when he was put to bed in his nursery as usual, and no authentic trace of his abductors has been found, though any flimsy clue has been bolstered up and clung to with pitiful ardor until it too has crumpled and disappeared.

What have been the obvious results of this month of emotional strain and torment?

One can only guess about the baby. One can only hope, with every breath, that he is not being mistreated.

NO FEAR NOW

However terrified the baby may have been to find himself suddenly in the presence of strange faces and snatched rudely from his familiar surroundings, he has outgrown his fear by now.

Lucky for children that these changes take place so rapidly and adjustments, however painful, are made so easily.

Two or three days of crying for his nurse or his mother, two or three days of whimpering at the touch of those rough hands would suffice to end his misery. He would accept the change.

MEMORY FADE

The memory of his past would fade with each passing day. For a baby there must always be a touching belief in the goodness of adults.

He has had no experience so far to contradict that. He expects to be loved, to be smiled at with warmest admiration and even to these strangers he will be ready to display his cute tricks and put his arm up to them trustingly, once he has agreed to accept them.

And what a change this one month has wrought in the lives of his parents. Obviously, no one can imagine their misery and heartache. No one even wants to. It would be too torturous.

And if they do find the baby . . . this year . . . next year? The baby they loved will be in their arms. But it will not be the same baby. No child so impressionable as one hardly two years of age but would be indelibly influenced by association with the rats of humanity, ignorant, avaricious, unscrupulous men and women, lacking morals and ethics, devoid of any admirable qualities. The picture is too terrible to contemplate.

SOMETHING ELSE

There is something else that has happened in this month that must be apparent, probably with wonder, to every observant individual. That something is the change within himself, or herself. Has your interest, the natural interest of a kindly individual, increased or diminished with the days of the baby's absence?

Do you hurry to snatch the paper, or buy the first editions on the street in order to discover if there is any news of the baby?

Are the baby's whereabouts and probable return the first and most prominent topics of all your conversations?

ANXIETY WANES

Admit honestly that it has diminished, that you do not, and it is not. You want the baby returned, no question about that, but your own problems, your own personal interests have again usurped the dominant position.

You no longer live from day to day in a spirit of strain and anxiety, with the almost unbearable desire to hear that the baby is safely back home.

We are just human after all. We can experience just so much emotion about anything, and then the emotion begins to dull. The stronger and higher it flames the more quickly it recedes. It is impossible for any of us to feel much of anything after a month of having felt so vividly and so continuously.

"Time heals all wounds," we say glibly, but are ashamed to admit that it takes so short a time. Most of us think of ourselves as capable of more sustained emotion. The sensations of this terrible experience through which we have gone vicariously is evaporating rapidly.

No one can blame us for that. No one can live with emotion at a high peak. It must rise and fall. The work of the world must go on, in spite of sorrow and death and poverty and kidnapings.

Sympathetically we murmur, "Poor baby . . . do you suppose they'll ever find it?" and in the next breath are discussing our summer wardrobe.

One month! Sufficient to wreck many lives. Sufficient, almost, to forget about it.

Lodge to Meet—The regular monthly meeting of the U. of P.W. will be held at the lodge hall, 644 Cormorant Street, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Visiting members and their ladies will be welcomed. A social time with short orders will be held after business routine is over.

Chapter Tea To Aid Its Work For Hospital

Plans for a silver tea to be held in aid of the chapter funds on Wednesday afternoon, April 27, at the headquarters, Union Building, were made by the Florence Nightingale Chapter I.O.D.E. yesterday afternoon at its monthly meeting, Mrs. Kyrle Symons, the regent, presiding. Mrs. Rita Smith will have charge of the tea arrangements, and Mrs. Brooker will have a home-made candy stall. Fortune-telling will be an interesting feature.

The chapter will mark Hospital Day, Thursday, May 12, with an afternoon and evening bridge party at the Jubilee Nurses' Home under the convenership of Mrs. G. P. Player.

It was reported that the patients in the sunroom at the Jubilee Hospital were served tea twice during the month, and thirty-one chocolate Easter eggs were placed on the trays. A little girl in the chapter cot at the Queen Alexandra Solarium was presented with an Easter basket, for which she was very grateful.

CARE OF LINENS

Every housewife takes infinite pride in her household linens, but the lifelong beauty of all linen is dependent on its care. Correct methods of washing and ironing are vastly important. Careless handling and harsh soap solutions are often responsible for lacklustre linens. Strong alkali soaps and bleaching mixtures destroy the natural lustre of linen and the heavy satin texture of damask.

Choose a pure mild soap and wash linens in heavy suds, squeezing the sudsy water through the fabric rather than rubbing. Few laundresses realize that rubbing roughens the fine fibre and shortens the life of all linen. Linen naturally washes easily since it does not hold the dirt in the obstinate fashion characteristic of cotton.

Use very little blueing in the last rinse water for linens. Linen absorbs blueing much more readily than do cotton fabrics.

Never starch linen. This applies to all household linens. Linen possesses a natural sheen and body that does not require the addition of starch.

The final finished beauty of damask lies in the care with which it is ironed. It must be quite damp and ironing must be continued until it is perfectly dry, ironing on the wrong side first and then on the right, and working from selvage to selvage. This will gain the highest possible luster and body.

PATIENCE IS REQUISITE

Many women make the mistake of not ironing their damask dry enough and not having it damp enough to begin with. Too hot an iron is another common fault. It takes time, patience and delight in the finished article to iron damask.

Chocolate stains are hard to remove if you don't know how, and ordinary washing may "set" the stain so it's almost impossible to remove it. First sprinkle the stain with powdered borax and soak in cold water for twenty minutes. Then stretch over a bowl and pour boiling water through it.

Egg stains should be washed in cold water until they completely disappear.

Candle wax can be removed from table linens by placing a clean blotter over the spot and pressing with a hot iron. Slip the blotter often to keep a fresh place over the spot.

And now for ways to remove a few of the most common stains:

To remove coffee stains, stretch linen over a bowl and pour boiling water through it. For tea stains, first pour on glycerine and then pour boiling water through the stain.

To-morrow's Menu

Dinner—Stuffed pork chops, mashed sweet potatoes baked with marshmallows, creamed new cabbage, stuffed apple salad, mock angel cake, canned cherries, milk, coffee.

CHAPTER TO HOLD MUSICAL TEA

Arrangements were made for a musical tea to take place on May 4 at "Hillhaven," the residence of the regent, Mrs. C. P. Hill, by the members of the Mary Croft Esquimalt Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. T. Jones. The programme will be in the hands of Major and Mrs. J. A. P. Crompton, and promises to be very attractive. Mrs. J. T. Jones, Mrs. T. Allan, Mrs. George Sisman and Mrs. F. R. Wright form the tea committee.

On April 16 a home-cooking stall will be held in Spencer's basement. Mrs. W. Booth will be convener and will be glad to receive donations as early as convenient. The agenda of the provincial annual meeting was read and the resolutions discussed and voted upon. Mrs. C. P. Hill will be delegate for the chapter.

Mrs. T. Quinn, for the graves committee, reported that all graves in the Esquimalt Naval and Military Cemetery were decorated with flags for Easter and flowers placed on the memorials in St. Paul's Garrison Church and in the park. She reported a great improvement in the military cemetery, where shade trees had been planted. Mrs. Quinn presented the chapter with brass shells to hold the flags which are used to decorate the graves and was duly thanked.

Mrs. R. P. Matheson reported on the Provincial Girl Guide annual meeting held recently, telling of some of the work of campanies in the far-off parts of British Columbia. Mrs. Withers, delegate to the annual meeting of the Canadian Navy League, also gave a report. Mrs. Playfair stated that the percentage of subscribers to "Echoes" was higher than last year.

A delightful tea was served by the hostess after the business meeting. The tea table was very attractive with decorations of spring flowers and amber candles.

The next meeting on May 9, will be at the residence of Mrs. George Sisman, Munro Street.

MARRIED SIXTY YEARS TO-DAY

Mr. and Mrs. James Aitken of Nanaimo Celebrate Diamond Wedding

Nanaimo, April 5.—Surrounded by their four daughters and two of their sons, together with grandchildren and great-grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. James Aitken of 17 Irwin Street, today are celebrating the diamond jubilee of their wedding, which was performed by Rev. M. Ramsay in the Presbyterian Church manse, Westmaryston, Scotland, April 5, 1872, the bride's maiden name being Mary Muir Patterson.

Their family includes four daughters and three sons: Mrs. Agnes Madill, Vancouver; Mrs. George Cessford, Victoria; Mrs. H. G. Allen and Mrs. T. Harrison, Nanaimo; W. P. Aitken, North Vancouver; P. Aitken, Washington; James Jr., Great Falls, Montana. There are eleven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

PIONEERED IN AUSTRALIA

After the wedding sixty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Aitken, who are of the real stuff of which pioneers are made, sailed for Australia, where Mr. Aitken was employed on the Pass Creek rock tunnel, which to-day supplies Sydney with water.

In 1881 they came to North Wellington, where Mr. Aitken worked in the mines. At that time North Wellington was booming with 1,000 inhabitants and the Dunsmuir Mines were working full capacity. After two years' residence there, they made their first trip to Nanaimo by stage driven by Dr. Hallister, an event that was planned and eagerly awaited for weeks previously "No. 1" shaft of the Esplanade was being sunk at that time.

HAD LUCKY ESCAPE

Mr. Aitken was one of the first coal diggers in "No. 1" Mine at $2.50 per day of eight hours. Later he was a contractor, his daily wage approximating $3 per day.

Luck favored him by placing him on the morning shift of the day of the big explosion that wiped out the lives of ninety-nine miners and many Chinamen "mulers" who were employed underground to run the loaded boxes to the hoist. This was in 1884. Both Mr Aitken's partners, J. E. Forrest and Joe Bell, were killed.

Twice Mr. Aitken sustained serious injuries to his back from a fall of rock while working underground from which he completely recovered.

BOTH CHURCH WORKERS

He left the mines in 1914 and became janitor of the Oddfellows' Building, where most war activities to raise funds were staged.

Mr. and Mrs. Aitken have always been prominent in church circles. They were active in the building of four Presbyterian churches here. Mr. Aitken has been an elder since the first church here—more than half a century ago—and assisted John Frame last summer with placing of the cornerstone of the last built edifice, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

PAINT GREAT BEAUTIFIER

Special Satin Glo Sales This Week Afford Victorians Good Product at Moderate Cost

Modern homes reflect the personality of those who live in them, or perhaps to be more accurate, they indicate the resourcefulness of the women who manage them. Even with to-day's limited income they achieve wonders by investing a dollar or two in paint and brushes and soon ugly signs of wear on floors, walls and furniture vanish to give place to beauty and color harmony.

For a number of years the manufacturers of Satin-Glo have assisted each spring in furthering the cause of loveliness in the home by conducting a province wide sale of their products at substantially reduced prices. Women have come to look for this event and they will be interested to learn that Satin-Glo dealers in Victoria are featuring this popular sale all this week.

Satin-Glo, Satin Finish, is the original satin-like wall finish and is available in a number of beautiful pastel tints. Satin-Glo enamel provides a high-gloss, quick-drying medium for the beautifying of furniture and woodwork. Satin-Glo varnish is a durable finish for floors and woodwork. All three of these Satin-Glo products are on sale this week at a substantial discount.

"Mad Marriage"

CHAPTER XVI

Gypsy moved restlessly and frowned at the sunbeam that had progressed from her chin to her left eye. The sunbeam remained. She blinked the other eye, shut it again. Suddenly the girl sat bolt upright. Heavens—it must be after eight o'clock! She would never reach the office. What had happened to the alarm clock—!

She turned and stared at an unfamiliar piece of furniture—a chair upholstered in blue plush. Then, remembering everything that had happened yesterday, she sank back against the pillows.

Judging by the sunlight which streamed into the room it was the middle of the morning. Everyone else in the household had probably been up long ago. Gypsy lay still thinking about her marriage, the train trip, Jim Wallace's face last night in the fire light, that fearful woman, Aunt Ellen.

It wasn't a dream. It had all been true.

When she finally arose the girl bathed and dressed quickly. She put on the jersey frock she had worn at the office, got out her oxfords and then changed them for the brown pumps. Instead of pinning up her hair she brushed and fastened it at the back of her neck so that the ends curled, giving her a childish look. Gypsy had not thought of this. She was trying to save time.

In the bright daylight for the first time she really noticed the furnishings of the bedroom. It was easy to see that it had been kept at a "guest room." The furniture was walnut of ornate Victorian design and each piece stood stiffly in its proper place. At the windows there were blue draperies. Blue and tan rug on the floor. Blue and tan on the dressing table. Not a single trace of anything personal—not even a cheerful bit of chintz in sight. And blue and tan were colors Gypsy always avoided.

She shut the door on the gloomy room and hurried downstairs. There was no one in sight either way she looked from the hall. Gypsy went through the living-room into the dining-room. Still no one in sight. As she neared the kitchen she heard voices.

Harriet, who was at the stove, turned as Gypsy opened the kitchen door. "Good morning, ma'am," she said.

"Good morning, Harriet. Is Miss Wallace about?"

"Miss Wallace's gone to market, ma'am. She left about half an hour ago. Would you like your breakfast now? I'll get it right away."

The person to whom Harriet had evidently been talking was a small man down on his knees working at the lock of the outer door. Carpenter's tools were spread beside him on the floor.

"Any time will do," Gypsy told the cook. "I'm in no hurry."

She returned to the dining-room and the view from the broad windows caught her attention. The windows looked out over the sun porch. There was a garden behind the house. Gypsy thought it must be very attractive in summer. Now the trees and shrubs were bare and the grass was a faded brown. Gypsy wondered if the bushes in the distance were lilac. She had always wanted a garden with lilac bushes and old-fashioned hollyhocks and poppies. There at the left was a sun dial. Yes, it must be a lovely place in summer time. Two months, Jim had said, before the trees would begin leafing out.

Two months would be in May. Gypsy, wondering absently what the date might be, suddenly started. Yesterday her wedding day, had been March 5. Surely she should have remembered.

Harriet entered the room and as she heard her Gypsy turned. "How good everything looks!" the girl said.

The cook smiled. "I hope you'll like it, ma'am." She put the tray down and set out the dishes. There was a plate of curling bacon and an omelet, golden brown, that sent up steaming, delicious odors. Under a folded napkin was the toast and beside it a dish of honey. Harriet poured the coffee and at the first whiff of its fragrance Gypsy realized she was hungry.

The food was good. Gypsy had finished the last crumb of toast and was drinking her second cup of coffee when she heard a noise in the front part of the house. Someone had come in. The girl straightened, every nerve taut, then pushed back her chair and rose. She went into the living-room.

On the threshold she faced—not Miss Wallace as she had expected—but Jim.

"Why—good morning—"

Jim laughed. "Good morning," he said. "You look as though I surprised you. Had breakfast?"

She said she had just finished.

"Then how about coming for a drive? I thought you might like to have a look at the town.

"I'd love to!" I can be ready in just a minute!"

"Fine. I decided to take a day off Think a man ought to when he gets married, don't you?"

Gypsy had not known until the minute she saw Jim how much she had been dreading a day with his aunt. "I certainly do," she said. "I think it's a grand idea."

She hurried away to get her wraps on. Halfway up the stairs she heard Jim calling and stopped.

"Better bundle up in something warm," he warned her. "The sun's shining, but the wind is cold."

She agreed and went on. When she came down again she wore her suit with a yellow sweater under it. The little brown hat slanted at a debonaire angle across her forehead.

Jim was not in sight. For an instant the girl was puzzled. Then she stepped out on the porch. Out in the driveway was a long, dark green roadster and Jim Wallace was at the wheel. He waved and the fox terrier beside him yelped at the sight of her.

Gypsy ran forward.

"What a beautiful car!" she exclaimed. "No wonder you're so proud of it. Phil's eyes certainly would open to see this."

"Like it? Suits me pretty well. Are you ready?"

Gypsy hesitated. "Shouldn't I leave some word so your aunt will know what's become of me?"

"I'll do that. You get in."

While Jim was in the house Gypsy used the time to become further acquainted with the little dog. He was willing to let her stroke his head and rub the under side of his neck but Pat could not be persuaded to move from his post next to the driver. Evidently this arrangement was official.

The girl was coaxing him to no avail when Pat straightened and barked. Wallace was coming toward them.

"I told Harriet we didn't know when we'd be back," he said, climbing into the car. "Here, Pat, what's this nonsense—"

The dog quieted and sat up very straight between them.

"Does he bother you there?" Jim asked. "I'll make him get down on the floor. Get down, Pat."

Gypsy objected. "Let him stay," she said. "He's all right." To emphasize the fact she rubbed the black place between the dog's ears.

Wallace started the engine and without further delay they moved down the driveway. It was a clear spring morning—bright but with a chilly nip in the wind. To the right and left of the Wallace place were houses with the same deep lawns and hedges in place of fences.

"Why—it's just like a park!" the girl declared. She was looking at the tall trees on either side of the street. Some of them were huge, stretching their branches over the sidewalk.

"I like this street," Wallace agreed. "Summer evenings about six o'clock when you come along here the sun is down behind the trees and the light shines through the leaves. They look almost like pure gold then. That's when I like it best."

"It must be lovely," Gypsy said. "Oh look at that beautiful house—"

"You mean the brick one? Hendersons live there. Sally Henderson came home from college last spring and fixed the place up. Sally's a nice girl. I'm sure you'll like her. Of course this isn't really the show part of town. The newer places are out on Gilford Road. Sam Meyers, who owns the cosmetics factory, lives out there. Willis, president of the First National Bank, has just built a new house they call an Italian villa. We'll swing out that way if you like."

The tour of inspection included a drive past the Italian villa and its imposing neighbors. They rode on to the Glendale Club which was the more exclusive of Forest City's two country clubs, then took a side road and came back past the golf and tennis where Jim said he played golf whenever he could spare the time.

Gypsy marveled at the level distances stretching off to each side of the road. It had been such a little while since they started and here they were in what must be country!

"Jackson's Creek is off that way," Wallace said with a wave to the right. "Used to swim there when I was a kid skate, too. Do you like to skate?"

PUBLIC WORKS VOTES PASSED

Prince Rupert Bond Location Discussed in Legislature

Northern Prospectors Hit By Cut in Northern Vote, Says Atlin Member

Doubts as to the advisability of the location being followed in the building of the transcontinental road leading out of Prince Rupert were voiced in the Legislature yesterday by T. D. Pattullo, Opposition Leader, when the vote of $1,956,000 for roads, bridges, ferries and wharves was under consideration.

Mr. Pattullo and Hon. N. S. Lougheed differed in their opinions as to what the people of Prince Rupert desired. Mr. Lougheed thought the people wanted the road as now located to give them access to beautiful campsites and lakes.

Mr. Pattullo said his information was the present location was not their selection, but had been followed because construction was cheaper. Mr. Pattullo thought the people would prefer the road as originally planned, following along the line of the Skeena, tapping the canneries and touching a large population. The road as now located went through beautiful country, but did not tap anything. To build it via the canneries would mean that 2,000 or 3,000 people contributory to Prince Rupert would come to the city by cars and it would mean a great deal to the city.

Dr. W. H. Sutherland said his impression was the people of Prince Rupert wished the road via the canneries.

While the Public Works estimates were under construction H. F. Kergin, Atlin, regretted the cut in the vote for his district from $56,500 in 1928 to $34,000 last year and $27,000 this year. Development would be arrested, he said, and prospectors relying upon a little maintenance work would be hard hit. It would deprive them of the means of earning the money for grubstakes and to maintain claims.

Hon. R. W. Bruhn commented the estimates had to be cut.

"Here we have the minister admitting necessary work has to be eliminated, yet $35,000 was spent on the Alaska Road survey which was years ahead of time," commented Mr. Pattullo.

Dr. H. C. Wrinch, Skeena, regretted no greater progress had been made on the Terrace-Hazelton Road.

GOT GRANTS DUE PROVINCE

B.C. Overlooked No Technical Training Funds, Says Hinchliffe

Denial that the responsibility for failure to obtain technical education grants from Ottawa in recent years rested upon the provincial government, was made in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education.

He referred to an Ottawa dispatch in The Vancouver Sun of April 1, stating that a return in parliament showed no application for a grant in the last two fiscal years, while five other provinces had applied and obtained funds.

Mr. Hinchliffe quoted official records in support of his claim that the original ten-year agreement to make technical education grants had expired in 1929 and that within this period British Columbia had received the full proportion to which it was entitled on a population quota.

He quoted letters from Ottawa officials that British Columbia's portion was exhausted in 1929, but that the act had been extended to 1934 to enable the five provinces in question to use up the money that had been appropriated for them and which they had been unable to earn under the fifty-fifty agreement.

With regard to the Bennett Government's new act, he read a further communication that the Dominion had decided not to put this act into operation until the economic condition of the country warranted such expenditures.

"British Columbia received all she was entitled to," concluded the minister. "There was no negligence on our part."

TEACHER PENSION ACT AMENDED

Amendments to the Teachers' Pensions Act were introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe. In view of the number of teachers returning to the profession these days, one clause provides that teachers who have been out of the service for ten years may not count their years of service prior to the interlude in estimating their rights to pensions. The pension commissioners are given discretionary powers with regard to those who have been out for more than five years.

Where part of a pension is payable to a second party, such as the wife of a teacher, facilities for continuing the wife's share after the pensioner's death are provided.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Snowstorm

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

After Uncle Wiggilly had the adventure with Nurse Jane's clothes sprinkling bottle, when he made an April shower to scare away the Bob Cat, the rabbit gentleman hopped out of his bungalow next day and said:

"Well, I had a fine adventure with that April shower. To-day I may have one with a snowstorm."

"Don't be silly, Uncle Wiggily," laughed the muskrat lady housekeeper, who was glad to get back her sprinkling bottle, "you know we don't have any snowstorms around here in April. Or at least very seldom. Spring is here, all the snow has melted, so how could you have a snowstorm?"

"I don't know," answered the rabbit gentleman, "but, somehow, I feel as if I would like a snowstorm adventure today."

"You'll never have it," said Nurse Jane, "though I wish you luck."

"Thanks," murmured Mr. Longears as he hopped away over the fields and through the woods. "I don't believe the Bob Cat will bother me to-day," he said to himself with a laugh. "I wet him good yesterday. But of course I may meet the Fox or the Wolf and have an adventure with them. I would like a little snow just for fun," he added.

But, as Nurse Jane had said, it did not seem very likely that there would be any snow in Woodland where Uncle Wiggily lived. For it was now April, the time of showers that would blossom the May flowers. Snow seemed a long way off.

"Still, I may find some," thought the rabbit gentleman.

So he hopped on and on until he came to a little narrow valley between two high hills. The valley was shaped like the letter V. On the sides of the hills were tall evergreen trees and the hills were so high that the sun could hardly shine over them into the bottom of the valley. As Uncle Wiggily hopped past it the rabbit gentleman felt a cold wind blowing on him.

"It's just as if someone opened the ice box door," he exclaimed. "Oh, how cold and shivery it is in that valley. I wonder what makes it so cold when it is so nice and warm and sunshiny out here?"

Looking up the deep, narrow valley, Uncle Wiggily saw a pile of something white. Looking at it more clearly he knew what it was.

"Snow!" he cried. "I've found the snow I was looking for! It is spring outside the valley but winter inside. Now I can have my snowstorm, even if this is April!"

Uncle Wiggily still wore his fur coat, so he knew he would not catch cold if he went into the snow valley. He saw a big heap of the white flakes and he knew they must have fallen there in the winter, for it had not snowed in Woodland for some time.

"And because the sun could not shine down in this valley it did not melt the snow," said Uncle Wiggily. "That's why it is still here and it may be here until the Fourth of July. Hurray! This is good luck. It's quite an adventure!"

Uncle Wiggily knew it would surprise his little rabbit children to tell them about the snow he had found hidden away in the valley.

"I'll make a few snowballs, put them in my overcoat pockets and take them home to show the children," said Mr. Longears.

So he made a dozen snowballs, put them in his pockets and started back to his bungalow. He had not gone far, however, before he saw, just ahead of him, the Fuzzy Fox.

"Oh, ho!" thought the rabbit, "the Fox thinks he'll catch me. But I'll fool him! I'll turn around and run home the other way." Uncle Wiggily turned, but behind him he saw the Woozie Wolf. "Oh, I'm caught between the two Bad Chaps!" cried the rabbit. "What shall I do?"

On came the Fox. On came the Wolf.

"We have you now!" they cried, closing in on the rabbit.

"Not yet, you haven't!" shouted Uncle Wiggily. "Go away or I'll make a snowstorm for you!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the Fox. "How can you make a snowstorm?"

"Like this" cried Mr. Longears. With that he took the snowballs from his pockets and showered them on the Bad Chaps, hitting them on their soft and tender noses.

"Oh, wow!" howled the Wolf. "This is very strange and magical—a snowstorm in April. Oh, let's run home, Mr. Fox!"

"All right!" agreed the Fox. "I don't want to freeze." So the Bad Chaps ran away from Uncle Wiggily's funny snowstorm and he was saved. He got more snow to surprise his little rabbits with. And if the gas stove will please stop coming into the parlor when the radio has company, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the funny hole.

TWO DIVISIONS IN COMMONS

Salary Cut Bill Given Second Reading; Vote on Heenan Motion

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 5.—The ten per cent reduction in civil servants' salaries and the indemnities of the members of the Commons and the Senators came a step closer yesterday evening. The Commons gave second reading to the government bill.

The House divided 88 to 41 against an amendment moved by E. R. E. Chevrier, Liberal, Ottawa. It would have killed the bill as it stood, and, advocated graded cuts, to bear more heavily on government workers in the higher salary reaches.

Voting with the Liberals for the amendment were three Laborites, James S. Woodsworth, Humphrey Mitchell and Angus MacInnis. A. W. Neill, Independent, and six United Farmers, H. E. Spencer, Robert Gardiner, Michael Luchkovich, W. T. Lucas, A. M. Carmichael and Alfred Speakman, voted with the Conservatives against the amendment.

The bill then passed second reading "on division."

VOTE ON HEENAN MOTION

On an earlier vote yesterday the Liberal motion which would have censured the government for its unemployment relief course, moved by Hon. Peter Heenan, member for Kenora-Rainy River, and former Minister of Labor, was before the House. The vote was 61 against the motion and 26 for it. The entire Ginger group left the chamber when the division bells resounded, refusing to vote for or against the government.

Mr. Heenan introduced the motion more than a month ago, but the debate was side-tracked due to the long discussion over the Unemployment Relief Bill.

BILLS COMPLETED

Canadian National Supply Bill.

Boundary of British Columbia Bill.

Act relating to financial arrangements with the City of Ottawa.

Amendments to the Admiralty Act.

Amendments to the Marriage and Divorce Act.

Three bills amending the Criminal Code:

1. N.S.F. cheques and abolition of grand juries in British Columbia.
2. Re summary trials.
3. Prohibition of conveyance of certain commodities.

STATEMENT ON BEAUHARNOIS

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 5.—Premier Bennett will not make a statement to the Commons on Beauharnois till the government receives further information. This was announced in the House yesterday by the Prime Minister.

Mr. Bennett said that since he was last in the House an announcement had appeared in the press that a protective committee of the holders of second mortgage debentures of the Beauharnois Power Company Limited had been appointed.

"I have made certain inquiries," proceeded the Prime Minister, "and pending a thorough understanding of just what is involved, I will not make a statement to the House. It is undesirable to make a statement that does not embrace every feature of the present position so far as it is possible to ascertain it."

ARGENTINE'S WHEAT SURPLUS

Buenos Aires, April 5. — Exportable surpluses of wheat as of April 2 were announced yesterday by the Ministry of Agriculture as 2,310,241 long tons. The exportable surplus of flaxseed and corn as of the same date, respectively, were 1,336,426 and 5,273,255 long tons.

Drama Festival Opens With Four Fine Plays

Capacity Audience Attends First Night of Drama Week at Crystal Garden

Variety of Talent Displayed; Four New Plays Will Be Offered This Evening

The first four of twenty-two plays in the B.C. Drama Festival were presented at the Crystal Garden Theatre yesterday evening, marking the opening night of Drama Week, which will continue till Thursday and include a Wednesday matinee. The theatre was packed with a responsive audience, and among those who attended were His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Premier Tolmie and party.

The opening night's reception was to say the least, encouraging to the sponsors of this excellent plan of a drama festival, and if one may judge by yesterday evening one may prophesy that the idea will grow into Victoria's civic life and that the festival will take its place along with the musical festival as a means of encouraging the arts in the city.

The first play on the programme was a presentation of the Victoria Little Theatre Association, "Between the Soup and the Savory," by Gertrude Jennings. This is a comedy take-off of what goes on behind the scenes in a rich man's house, what the reactions of the servants are, what they say to one another. It, like the others, has just one act.

There are three characters in "Between the Soup and the Savory," and the director was Mrs. E. W. Hetherington. The play centres around the kitchen maid, a role taken by Vivienne Combe. The girl is ugly and is teased into making up a romance for herself. Though the situations were laughable, Miss Combe succeeded in putting a tinge of pathos into her part, which she enacted with success. As foils to her general absurdity are the cook (Mrs. Mable C. Ridley) and the parlor maid (Mrs. L. Wharton), both teasing, the former more warm-hearted than the latter.

The second play, presented by the B.C. Dramatic School, "The Camberley Triangle," was a sort of problem trifle by A. A. Milne. Should Mrs. Camberley take back her soldier-husband after his four-year sojourn in Mesopotamia, or should she keep to her lover, Norwood. The suspense is well held till the last lines and there is a certain amount of philandering, ably conducted by Muriel Thompson as the wife. Herbert E. Pott, the director of the play and an old stager on the local amateur stage, took the part of the major, and Arthur Long was cast as Norwood. Geraldine Shaw made a momentary appearance as the maid.

The Fairfield Players, under their director, Mrs. G. Nixon, were responsible for the melodramatic "Two Crooks and a Lady," by Eugene Pillot. Here the two crooks are played by James Strang and Tillie Currie, the latter a maid in the home of the old crippled lady, presented by Janie Williams. How by clever manipulation of one crook against the other the old lady wins the day, makes a real action story for the audience. Dorothy Siddall, Douglas Nixon and Denis Humphries had minor parts.

The last play, "The Lyrebird," was written by Major L. Bullock-Webster, who as president of the Drama Festival, has been one of those chiefly responsible for its ogganization. "The Lyrebird" is an appealing episode in the lives of two actresses, taken by Noel Cusack and Ira Hayne, both well known on the stage here and who call themselves the "Cusayne Players." The play is really cleverly handled and has depth to it.

An instrumental trio, consisting of Marguerite Van Vooght, pianiste; Gilbert Margison, violinist, and Carl Benn, cellist, played entr-acte music.

To-night, commencing at 8 o'clock, four more plays will be acted and those who wish to be surprised by the variety and quantity of amateur dramatic talent in Victoria need only attend the Crystal Garden Theatre this week.

Following is the programme for to-night in the B.C. Drama Festival, the first play commencing at 8 o'clock in the Crystal Garden Theatre.

GREAT PIANIST EXPLAINS NAME

Paderewski, Coming Here For Concert April 15, Tells How to Pronounce It

Paderewski, whose name more people have occasion to try to pronounce than that of any other artist of the day, has revealed that it is invariably mispronounced by the public.

Commenting on a magazine article which stated that the name was sounded "Pa-der-ray-ski," the great pianist said that neither this nor the more frequently heard "Pad-er-er-ski" is correct. As he himself pronounces his name it is "Pa-der-es-ki," without the "r" sound.

Apropos of this subject Paderewski told of how a prominent government official, who was to introduce him at a dinner in his honor came to him beforehand and giving four possible pronounciations of his name, asked which was right. Telling him that none of them was, Paderewski gave the correct one and the official painstakingly repeated it several times. When the moment for the introduction came he announced:

CAPITOL THEATRE

Robert Montgomery, one of the screen's most popular personalities, is being seen to-day at the Capitol Theatre in "Lovers Courageous," a romantic comedy written especially for this star by Frederick Lonsdale, the celebrated English playwright who wrote the Norma Shearer success, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney."

Montgomery's role is that of a happy-go-lucky Englishman whose ambition is to be a playwright and who consequently is always in hot water with his narrow-minded father who wants to make a postmaster of his son. The result is that he runs away from home and after a series of interesting adventures as a sailor, cowboy and hotel porter in various parts of the world, finally ends up as a tobacconist's assistant in British South Africa.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

The picture has many gay scenes, one of the gayest being the one in the brilliant cafe, where life is seen at its liveliest. In this scene the women wear gorgeous gowns. They are the very latest from New York, Paris and London.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Mount Whitney, the loftiest peak in the United States, towers in the scenic background of "Freighters of Destiny," the RKO Pathe western feature starring Tom Keene, now at the Columbia Theatre. The picture was filmed in the high Sierras, among gigantic rock formations, products of a volcanic period of bygone ages, with the taller peaks of the range looming as a background.

Keene plays the dashing leader of a wagon freighting train that has to fight off the attacks of hostile raiders in this all-action feature. Barbara Kent is his leading woman, heading a strong supporting cast. Fred Allen directed and Adele Buffington wrote the story.

EMPIRE THEATRE

"The Unexpected Father," Universal's comic-film of a bachelor with a baby, has been booked by the Empire Theatre and is showing to-day.

Besides co-starring the popular comedian, Slim Summerville, and wistful-visaged Zasu Pitts, the picture presents Cora Sue Collins, sensational baby-actress, to the screen for the very first time.

Alison Skipworth, Dorothy Christy, Claude Allister, Tyrell Davis, and Grace Hampton complete the cast, and Thornton Freeland was the director.

LUXTON

A card party and dance was held on Saturday evening in Luxton Hall under the auspices of the institute, with Mrs. Harry Baxter as convener. Bridge prizes were awarded to Miss S. Keevil and Miss W. Keevil, while Mr. and Mrs. John Trace carried off the consolations.

The basketball league game next Saturday will be between the Royal Oak Intermediates and the Luxton Intermediates. Dancing will follow the game

The radio has loud speakers on the front dashboard and the tonneau and is tuned-in with the same ease as a home set.

DOMINION THEATRE

Maurice Chevalier never has stepped upon a stage without first suffering the deepest agonies of stage fright, the Paramount star revealed while working on his latest film, "One Hour With You," which is at the Dominion Theatre to-day.

"Al-ways when I stan' in the weenga of the stage, my knees shake and my han's they trem-ble," Chevalier reports. "Then it ees I wine first my face an' then my han's from perspiration an' then my face again.

THREE MONTHS FOR FORGERY

F. Morrissy to Serve Term For Cashing Bogus Cheques

F. Morrissy, formerly a corporal at Work Point Barracks, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment by Magistrate George Jay this morning on each of three charges of forgery, the terms to run concurrently.

Morrissy had pleaded guilty to the three charges. The cheques, on which the name of his commanding officer were forged, were for $25, $25 and $30 respectively, and were cashed with business houses in the city.

In passing sentence, the magistrate took into account the fact that it was the accused's firs offence.

Says City Beauty Spot of Continent

Suffering from incipient pneumonia a short time ago, he had been ordered by his doctors to go to Florida, California or Honolulu. Knowing the British Columbia Coast, he had chosen Victoria in preference to these other resorts, he said.

Canadians should feel very proud of Victoria and Vancouver Island, he declared. People of eastern Canada were not well enough acquainted with the beauties of the country. No money should be spared in showing them the attractions, he declared.

With the depression and adverse exchange preventing people of this country from traveling in the United States, they were becoming more and more Canadian in spirit, the mayor said. He looked for more travel to this part of the continent.

NO CHANGE THIS YEAR

Amendments to the Library Act, under which city councils would be given wider control over the expenditures of the library boards, probably will not be placed before the Legislature this session.

The change has been proposed in conferences between municipal representatives and House members, it was learned, but with the session of the House nearing its end, it is unlikely anything will be done until next year.

AFRICA HAS NO MARKETS

Col. H. Nourse, Brother-in-law of Gen. Botha, Criticizes Hertzog Policy

Says South African Party Not Eager For Power at the Present Time

Col. Hugh Nourse of Kokstad, Griqualand East, South Africa, and a brother-in-law of the late Gen. Louis Botha, reached Victoria to-day from the Orient by the liner President Jefferson. He is a South African farmer with large estates on the border of Natal, and is making a tour of the world to make a close study of agricultural conditions.

"The South African Party is not eager to be in power at this time because Premier Hertzog has made such a mess of things that it is generally conceded that his government will be voted out of office when it again goes to the country," said Col. Nourse in an interview at the Strathcona Hotel this morning.

CANNOT SELL ANYTHING

"There is no danger of Hertzog turning the Union of South Africa into a republic," he said.

"The South Africans are taxed to the hilt, and under the policy of the present government they are unable to find a market for their products.

"The whole country is down on the Hertzog government because it refused to follow the example of Great Britain when she went off the gold standard. By this action the producers of South Africa cannot sell anything."

"The agriculturists of the country have been ruined. Great Britain has been taking 85 per cent of our exports, and no other country needs what we export. Britain has been the market for all our gold, diamonds, wool and all the products of the soil.

"We can sell in Britain, but the exchange is so ruinous—from 22 to 23 per cent off the price of our products—that it does not pay to ship the goods.

"The Hertzog government has placed a 5 per cent duty ad valorem on imports, the postage has been doubled, motor licenses have been increased by a third and the tax on petrol has been increased. The people are being taxed to the limit and their market has been cut off by the government's policy on the gold standard.

"When the Hertzog government came into power the Union of South Africa enjoyed an increasing revenue.

"The government swept along on the crest of an inflated wave. It added £14,000,000 in loans, all borrowed from Great Britain and doubled the civil service. "Representatives of the government were sent to Europe to find new markets and all this proved costly and useless."

"No I do not think there is any danger of South Africa breaking away from empire ties," said Col. Nourse, who fought for the British against the Boers in the war of 1899-1901. He had previously met and wed the sister of South Africa's greatest patriot, Botha.

Although eighty years of age, Col. Nourse is still active and has greatly enjoyed his present tour, which has taken him through India, the Malay States, China and Japan.

He proposes to study Canada's methods of agriculture and will then go to Europe on his way back to South Africa.

ALPINISTS AT MOUNT PREVOST

Victoria Party Climbs Duncan Peak in Week-end Expedition

Under the leadership of Miss Janet Bell, thirteen members of the Vancouver Island section of the Alpine Club of Canada, hiked to the top of Mount Prevost, near Duncan, on Sunday.

The party left this city by automobile at 9 o'clock in the morning and reached the foot of the mountain about 11.30 o'clock after a brief stop in Duncan. The ascent was made by way of the north side, the summit being reached about 2 o'clock.

Patches of snow, six and eight inches deep, spotted the hikers' trail up the mountain. Prevost is 2,543 feet high and gives an exceptionally fine view of the Cowichan valley and Duncan area, as well as a picturesque panorama of the Straits and Gulf islands.

The chilly wind prevented a lengthy stay at the summit. After inspecting the war memorial erected by the people of Duncan on the top of the mountain, the party commenced the downward trek.

Mount Prevost was named by Capt. Richards of H.M.S. Plumper, after Capt. Charles Prevost of H.M.S. Satellite, who was on this station from 1857 to 1860

Questions and Answers in the Legislature

J. H. Beatty asked the Minister of Public Works:

Were any amounts paid by the government as rentals for road machinery during the fiscal years 1926-27 and 1927-28?

Hon. R. W. Bruhn replied:

Yes. To obtain the total amounts paid for such rentals would involve a considerable amount of accounting work, and the question involves matter too voluminous to be obtained for the purposes of answering a question.

L. A. Hanna asked the Minister of Public Works:

1. How many motor trucks were in the possession of the department as at December 31, 1931?

2. Was any amount paid by the department for hire of motor trucks during 1931? If yes, what was amount?

Mr. Bruhn replied:

1. 402.

2. Yes. Impossible to supply this information without undertaking a province-wide survey of vouchers in thirty-two district offices, an operation which would involve a very great amount of additional accounting work and the question involves matter too voluminous to be obtained for purposes of answering a question.

F. M. MacPherson asked the Minister of Public Works:

1. Have any general road foremen, assistant general road foremen, or road foremen been appointed in the Kaslo-Slocan riding since August 20, 1928? If so, what are the names of persons so appointed; how much (a) salary and (b) expenses has each received up to December 31, 1931?

2. Have any general road foremen, assistant general road foremen, or road foremen been removed from office from August 20, 1928, to December 31, 1929; and what monthly salary did each receive prior to such removal from office? If so, what were the names of such persons?

Mr. Bruhn replied:

1. Yes. General Road Foreman W. B. Johnstone: for remuneration and expenses see public accounts. General Road Foreman J. J. Skillicorn: for remuneration and expenses see public accounts. Assistant general road foremen, nil. Road foremen not appointed, but engaged as required.

2. General Road Foreman A. L. Levy automatically resigned by refusing transfer; salary, $200 per month. General Road Foreman A. D. Moore, seventy-one years of age, resigned and superannuated; salary $150 per month. For road foremen see answer to No. 1.

Dr. H. C. Wrinch asked the Minister of Public Works:

1. Was a government ferry established at Copper City prior to April 22, 1931; and, if yes, when was such ferry established?

2. If so, by whom was such ferry operated prior to April 22, 1931, and what remuneration was paid to ferryman in each year during which ferry was operated prior to April 22, 1931?

Mr. Bruhn replied:

1. No. Ferries Act does not require that government-operated ferries be established.

2. Ferryman employed from time to time as required. J. Smith, 1912-13 to 1915-16; for remuneration see public accounts. P. R. Skinner, 1916-17; for remuneration see public accounts. W. R. Kendall, 1917-18; for remuneration see public accounts, 1918-19 to 1924-25, no ferrymen; see public accounts. L. G. Skinner, 1925-26 to April 21, 1931; for remuneration up to March 31, 1928, see public accounts; subsequent years as follows: 1928-29, $534; 1929-30, $478; 1930-31, $498.82; 1931-32, $20.84.

Thomas Uphill asked the Minister of Lands:

Was an investigation into the matter of forest fires held by the department at Terrace during 1930; and if so, have the results of such investigation been made public; and, if not, what were the results of such investigation?

Hon. N. S. Lougheed replied:

The complaints of a certain person of Terrace relative to forest fires, which occurred a number of years ago, and other matters were investigated by departmental officers in 1930. As far as the investigators could find out, the complaints were unfounded, and the results of such investigation were not made public because they were not considered of public interest.

ASK FEWER RACING DAYS

Social Service Council Opposes Business of Betting, Deputation Tells Cabinet

Strong protests against recognition by the provincial government of racetrack gambling was registered by a delegation of fifteen men and women which this morning presented to the Cabinet a resolution, adopted by the Social Service Council of British Columbia, and endorsed by eleven organizations. The delegation was headed by Rev. Dr. Hugh Dobson and Mrs. D. B. MacKay of Vancouver and was introduced by Rev. W. R. Brown, president of the Victoria Ministerial Association.

The delegation also asked that the period of racing at each of the five British Columbia tracks be reduced to six consecutive days, instead of seven, and that only one meet be held at each track in any one year. This would reduce the total days of racetrack betting in this province to thirty days.

Dr. Dobson stated that betting shared with the liquor traffic a large part of the responsibility for the present depression. These had removed from British Columbia millions of dollars in recent years, thereby exhausting reserves which would otherwise be available to tide over the current depression.

All members of the Cabinet were present except Hon. R. W. Bruhn, and the delegation was promised careful consideration of its representations.

CLUB SPIRIT HERE LAUDED

Lieutenant-Governor of the Kiwanis Warm in Praise of Local Body

Tribute to the club spirit shown by the local Kiwanis Club was paid by Alex Robson, New Westminster, lieutenant-governor for the Pacific Northwest District of Kiwanis, at the club's luncheon to-day. He expressed his appreciation of the fine work being done by the orchestra and highly commended the spirit of fellowship evident.

The club should be proud of the distinction of having two past district governors in its membership, he said.

"The Victoria club is recognized as being mighty efficient and continuously active," he stated in reference to the high esteem in which the local branch was held in the international association.

He urged regular attendance at luncheons, the study of the Kiwanis magazine and alacrity in performing the tasks required by the various committees.

Mr. Robson also praised the University Players Club, which will appear here under Kiwanis auspices shortly.

During the luncheon, Rev. E. F. Church introduced George H. Hart, a new member, sketching the history of the club and outlining its objectives.

Consideration of a resolution endorsing a British Columbia highways commission was deferred one week.

A letter from the Jubilee Hospital was read inviting the clubmen to attend "Hospital Sunday," on April 10.

PEACE OFFERS OBJECT LESSON

People There Uncomplaining and Industrious, Says Bishop Renison, Here To-day

Bishop Robert Renison of Athabasca, with Mrs. Renison, arrived in Victoria to-day to place their two sons in school here.

Bishop Renison, in an interview at the Empress Hotel, said the people of the Peace River country, from the observations he has recently made in a preliminary tour of his new diocese, offer an object lesson to the rest of the country. They are proceeding about their duties industriously and uncomplainingly, despite the difficult period which the country is passing through. "I think it is a wonderful spirit," said the Bishop.

Bishop Renison was recently made Bishop of Athabasca and for the last three months he has been touring his vast diocese, which is about 200,000 square miles in extent.

The Peace River country is the coming country and much will be heard of this great northern territory of Canada in the future, according to the Bishop.

Some 50,000 new settlers have gone into the district, he declared. The Bishop makes the headquarters of his vast diocese in the town of Peace River.

Leaving his two boys in school here, the Bishop plans to return immediately to Peace River.

BACKS BRITISH RADIO POLICY

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 5—Public ownership of radio broadcasting in Great Britain was operating to the complete satisfaction of the people as a whole, Major Gladstone Murray, a native of British Columbia and for nine years associated with British broadcasting enterprises, told the Commons radio committee to-day. There had been no agitation from any responsible quarter for a reversion to the private ownership system, Major Murray said, and he was confident such a move would meet with no support either in England or Germany.

The witness was brought from England, where he is now publicity director for the publicly-owned British Broadcasting Corporation. He appeared at the instance of the Canadian Radio League, which is leading the fight before the parliamentary committee for a system of public ownership of radio broadcasting in Canada.

HUNTS FOR BIG GAME SKETCHED

Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe Entertains Kiwanians With Interesting Stories

Exciting stories of some of his experiences big game hunting in Africa and India were told by Gen. Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe to members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

In the course of his talk, the speaker outlined various hunts in which he had shot leopards, water buffalo and yaks in the far flung regions of Central Africa, India and the Himalayas.

Sir Charles referred to the recent visit of his friend, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, during which the new governor of the Philippines had told stories of a trip into Tibet.

He spoke of an expedition he had made through the Himalays. Far away from the beaten track he had become acquainted with a local rajah who, a hypochondriac, came to him continually with all manner of imagined ills. He had, on one occasion, given him a double mixture of pink an blue powders which completely expelled "three devils" after a terrific attack of cholic. His medicine had been regarded as almost supernatural, he said.

SLIPPED DOWN ICE SLOPE

He told of stalking a bull and four cows, which he had seen sunning themselves on a precipitious mountain side. About 400 yards from the yaks, he had started to slip on an ice field and started down the slope in a "tail spin not under control" speeding down the slope he had passed over a rise and just stopped on the edge of a precipice, where he was rescued by his men after loosing his finger nails and the flesh of his fingers, holding on. Returning to his stalking he finally drew within range of the animals and bagged the bull.

Sir Charles then spoke of the depredations of an Indian leopard on a fine pack of hounds

After sitting up in a tree with a live bait at the foot, he had eventually shot a fine specimen.

The speaker told of an expedition against a water buffalo which had killed a native in Africa. With some difficulty he had located buffalo tracks. Eventually he located the animal in a weedy swamp and shot it. On approaching he found the buffalo with the remains of the man impaled on its horns.

While working in his tent in Africa one day he had received a report that a leopard was running amck in the district.

A friend, assisting him in his work, had gone after the animal with a shotgun and tracked it to a deep ravine. The friend had seen the leopard and fired at him. Peppered by shot the animal had turned against the beaters and bitten thirteen of them before he had been summoned and killed the animal. A little carbolic acid had been sufficient to sterilize the men's wounds.

W. Ellis Brown, president of the club, thanked the speaker for his address.

IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Martha Ann Hodgson took place yesterday afternoon, Rev. N. E. Smith officiating. The following acted as pallbearers: J. J. Purvis, R. Brown, G. Turner, E. J. Rigby, W. J. Fullerton and C. Jenkins. Interment was in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

NEW HOMES TO BE BUILT

Permits For Dwellings on Quadra and St. Andrews Streets Taken

Slight increase in building activity with the beginning of the month is indicated in permits taken out at the City Hall.

Permits for two new dwellings in the city were taken out yesterday and to-day. L. M. Rosevear will build at 3132 Quadra Street a five-room structure valued at $3,000. T. E. Bertholme took out a permit for a four-room house at 215 St. Andrew's Street, to cost $2,200.

Repairs and alteration to premises at 1365 Rockland Avenue, to cost $1,500, were the subject of another permit, and alterations to a house at 109 Simcoe Street will cost $1,200.

BUTTER PRICES TO REMAIN FIRM

A weakening in the Montreal butter market during the last few days will not mean an immediate weakening in the western market and lower prices for Victoria butter, local wholesalers said to-day. While prices are shortening at Montreal, the west is pretty well bare of butter at this time, they state, and since the day is past when butter is shipped from the east at a cost of four cents a pound freight, the scarcity of butter in the west will be temporarily balanced by firm prices.

Western production is expected to swell from the middle of May on, and it is then that a scaling down of butter prices may be expected.

NEW YORK CURB SUSPENDS FIRM

Associated Press

New York, April 5.—The New York Curb Exchange to-day suspended from associate membership the firm of King, Boug, Stodgell & Co. of Windsor, Ont., for failure to meet its engagements.

Toronto and New York Rangers Open Final Hockey Series To-night

Hardest-fought Final in Stanley Cup History Is Looked For

Odds in Favor of Both Teams; Difficult to Select Winner

Scotland vs. England Is Football Classic Carded for Saturday

TORONTO Maple Leafs and New York Rangers open their best three out of five game series for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy, in Madison Square Garden to-night. Both teams are in first class condition with every one of their regulars ready for action. Neither the Leafs nor Rangers will be hard put if one of the two of their players should suffer injuries, as both teams are carrying plenty of reserve strength. The Leafs will enter the finals with sixteen eligible men, while the Rangers have fifteen. Quite a difference in comparison with the size of the teams of a few years ago. Speed and more speed is the keynote of the major league games to-day, and all the clubs are forced to carry a large number of players to maintain the terrific pace. The days of ten and eleven men to a team in the N.H.L. are gone forever

To pick a winner between the Rangers and Leafs would be a difficult task. There are features that favor both clubs. The Rangers have the benefit of having coasted home to their division championship after setting up a comfortable lead in the early part of the season. And then again Lester Patrick's club has no doubt benefited by the rest following their successful series against the Montreal Canadiens, while the Leafs have had to go through two strenuous series against the Chicago Hawks and Montreal Maroons. In favor of the Leafs is the fact that they will play the last three games on their home ice, that is, providing five games are necessary to decide the title. The Rangers will play only one game on their home ice, the first one. The second will be played on neutral ice at Boston, following which the teams will shift to Toronto to conclude the play-off.

All in all the series promises to be one of the most bitterly fought in the history of Stanley Cup finals. Both teams boast speed to burn, while there is a sprinkling of veterans and youngsters on both. The Leafs have a great forward line in Primeau, Jackson and Conacher, who between them carried of all the scoring honors in the N.H.L., but to offset this the Rangers have their brilliant trio of Bill and Bun Cook and Frank Boucher, rated one of the greatest scoring combinations in the history of major hockey. On the defence the Leafs have the dashing King Clancy and Red Horner, two of the finest back division men in the game. The Rangers have the colorful Ching Johnson and Earl Siebert, two huskies who play havoc with opposing forwards, owing to their heavy body checking. Both tip the scales around the 200-pound mark. And then again Patrick has apparently located a first class defence player in Otta Heller, formerly with the Springfield minor league club, who practically defeated the Canadiens in two games single-handed. The remainder of the teams appear pretty evenly balanced with Chabot, Toronto goalie, and Roach, New York custodian, being on about an equal in ability. The complete rosters of the two teams follow:

The next big game to hold the undivided interest of soccer fans takes place at Wembley Stadium on Saturday between England and Scotland. To the Scot it is "the game of the season." For the last month or so the selections committees of the two associations have been studying the form of the leading players to uphold the honor of the respective countries. The greatest honor that any player can receive is to be chosen to play in an England vs. Scotland match. A game that will always be remembered by Scots, but one that Englishmen try hard to forget, took place at Wembley in 1928. That year the invaders gave the finest display ever seen on a soccer field. They rushed the Englishmen off their feet with the result that Scotland won 5 to 1. Since 1872 Scotland has won twenty-five games, England sixteen and fourteen have been drawn. Scotland has scored 110 goals to England's 91.

In the Burdock Cup handicap championship E. P. Jaynes beat H. Savage, 1 up; W. B. Harper beat H. E. Heslip, 5 and 4 and E. M. Holiday beat W. B. Harper by default.

Crash Through To Lone Goal Victory Over Peg Monarchs

Fighting Band of Youngsters From Ontario Turn Back Western Titleholders in Third and Deciding Game for Championship; Nakina Smith Nets Winning Goal Early in First Period; Wolves Lay Back and Protect Slim Lead in Great Exhibition

Winnipeg, April 5—The Wolves from Sudbury, crafty beyond their years and dead game as they come, sit proudly atop the junior hockey world to-day. They are champions of Canada, possessors of the Memorial Cup, heroes to thousands of hockey-mad people in Ontario's nickel belt region.

In a battle they made their own, shaping its policies and planning its every turn, the Wolves completed a conquest of the junior hockey elite of the Dominion here yesterday evening by beating Winnipeg Monarchs, western champions, 1 to 0. It was the second triumph of the best-of-three-game titular series.

Always sure of themselves, even when they dropped the first series game to Monarchs last Thursday by 4 to 3, the Wolves evened the series Saturday night with a 2 to 1 overtime win and came on to take it yesterday evening while 6,000 rabid Monarch supporters could not help but cheer them.

Because the Sudbury clan preferred to have it that way after getting a goal at the start, the deciding duel was a drab affair compared win the spectacular nature of the first two games. The burly Monarch tried for fifty-eight minutes and ten seconds to get back the goal and the Wolves let them try.

GOAL COMES EARLY

Nakina Smith, slight Sudbury centre who went back into action after being knocked out in the second game, placed a neat shot past Art Rice-Jones in the Winnipeg cage to climax the first Wolf raid. He picked up Adelard Lefrance's pass at the Monarch defence, swept around Pinkie Davie and drove the score-shot from a few feet out.

Art Healy played a remarkable game for the rest of the night. Monarch attackers eluded every other Wolf defender but they could not outguess the cool, stocky kid who stood in the nets and smothered shots, or caught them with his hands or just deflected them into the rink corners.

One of the most finished junior netmen to play here in several years the former Owen Sound goalie drew rounds of applause as he balked the fighting Monarchs. Healy was given good protection by Red Porter and Bob McInnis, and both Sudbury forward lines checked back relentlessly.

Toe Blake, Smith and little Max Bennett were outstanding among the front-liners, but Larry and Adelard Lefrance and Ivan Fraser more than held their own, and Jack McInnis fitted in on the defence when he was needed without at all weakening the Wolves' back division.

Norm Yellowlees and Cam Shewan led most of the Monarch sallies, but working in for raking shots on Healy from close quarters.

USE HEARSES TO CELEBRATE SUDBURY WIN

City Council Halts Meeting to Take Part in Celebration; Build Huge Fires

Sudbury, Ont., April 5.—There was a hot time in the home town last night when word was flashed from Winnipeg that Sudbury Wolves had triumphed in the Canadian junior championship hockey series over Winnipeg Monarchs. Scenes reminiscent of Armistice Day were enacted as the entire populace thronged into the downtown section to shout acclaim to the courageous little hockey band.

Even undertakers' hearses bore emblems of rejoicing. Cars and trucks, loaded to the gunwales with hooting fans, formed a "snake-walk" through the business district. In this cheerful parade the hearses took part.

Huge bonfires glowed through the crisp winter night as though to beavon to the world that the Wolves had "come through."

The regular council meetihg was billed for last night and the important business of striking the tax rate was up. But it had to wait. At 9.30 p.m., as the puck was dropped at Winnipeg for the crucial game, council business was halted.

AMATEUR ICE GAME THRIVES

Hockey Makes Fine Progress Throughout Canada, C.A.H.A. Announces

Dominion Association in Good Sound Standing; New Cup Presented

Montreal, April 5.—In memory of George T. Richardson, one of the finest hockey players of Kingston, Ontario, who was killed in the Great War, a silver double-handled loving cup—the George Taylor Richardson Memorial Trophy—was presented to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association by his brother, James A. Richardson, Winnipeg, Chancellor of Queen's University, Kingston, here yesterday.

The trophy is for the junior hockey championship of eastern Canada, won this year by Sudbury Wolves and arrived unexpectedly at yesterday's session of the annual meeting of the association now being held here. The offer of Mr. Richardson to donate the trophy was just about to be brought up at the meeting when a large package, which later proved to contain the cup, arrived.

Captain James T. Sutherland, Kingston; W. A. Hewitt, Toronto, and F. H. Marples, Winnipeg, were named trustees of the cup.

FINANCES GOOD

A strong financial position and an increase in registration was reported by W. A. Hewitt, registrar-treasurer, in his report for 1931-32. There were 17,772 players registered in the C.A.H.A., he stated, an increase of 2,406 over the 1930-31 figure of 15,366, and the fifth successive year that registration had increased. The registration was divided according to branches as follows: British Columbia, 356; Alberta, 835; Saskatchewan, 508; Thunder Bay, 574; Manitoba, 814; Ontario (O.H.A.), 9,605; Ottawa Valley, 910; Quebec, 2,908; Maritimes, 1,042; Intercollegiate (Eastern), 220.

In his financial report, Mr. Hewitt stated receipts from the Allan Cup series were $9,667.46, from the Memorial Cup series, $8,985.32, and together with other receipts to the amount of $2,254.07, the total was $20,905.85. Expenses were $6,740.52 and with grants to branches totaling $5,000, and a grant to the Olympic committee of $5,000 total expenses were $16,740.52. Excess of receipts over expenses was $4,166.33, with which $4,103 worth of bonds were purchased, leaving cash on hand of $63.33.

A MEMORIAL

It was decided to remove the names of the Melville team of Saskatchewan from the Allan Cup, as Melville did not win the title in 1914-15, being beaten in the final by Winnipeg Monarchs. The blank space left when the names have been removed will be used for a memorial to the hockey players who were killed in the Great War.

The Allan Cup was then contested on a challenge basis, and the Melville team won the Saskatchewan championship, succeeding Regina as defenders of the trophy. Having defeated Victorias of Toronto, Melville advanced to the finals, where they were beaten by the Winnipeg team, but their names were engraved on the maple leafs on the base of the cup along with the Winnipeg Monarchs.

Despite the financial condition of Canada, the C.A.H.A. play-downs had been financially successful, Jack W Hamilton, Regina, stated in his presidential address.

He said, in part: "In some parts of western Canada we suffered, chiefly, of course, through the fact that the outcome of the second game in the particular series was a foregone conclusion. The athletic success has been remarkable and I think that the spirit of the people has been strengthened by the opportunity afforded by the participation of the public in the enjoyment of our games.

RETAIN CALIBRE

"It is indeed noticeable that the calibre of our competition and the proficiency of our athletes are not lessened by persistent inroads on our ranks from outside sources.

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association enjoys the general goodwill and confidence of the public of Canada, and, regardless of petty criticisms I am quite sure that the citizens of Canada as a whole appreciate the work of our association and are indeed indebted to us for such an association which tends to the moral and physical uplift of our athletes."

Those attending the meeting include: A. Jefferd, Vancouver; Dr. W. G. Hardy, Edmonton; G. Lynch, Calgary, and C. W. McColl, Saskatoon.

Phar Lap Suffers From Hoof Trouble

San Bruno, Calif., April 5.—Because his flying feet now pound United States dirt tracks instead of Australian turf, Phar Lap, race horse from across the seas, has hoof trouble.

Tommy Woodcock, trainer, said today Phar Lap underwent a hoof operation several days ago, and until he is completely recovered, will wear a specially made shoe. The horse, the trainer said, had a slight split in one hoof. The operation was performed to clean and trim the split. Dirt from United States tracks had gathered in it.

Scots Face Heavy Training Session For Rugby Final

Strenuous Workouts Billed for City Champions Before British Columbia Senior Title Fixture Here April 16; Several Injuries Rob Clansmen of Much of Original Strength; But Gaps Plugged Well

Canadian Scottish, champions of Victoria's senior rugby league, will open a strenuous training campaign on Thursday evening in preparation for their final against Ex-Magee or the Vancouver Rowing Club for the provincial title and the Rounsfell Cup here on Saturday, April 16. But the team, although strong, will be below the strength at which it entered the city league at the beginning of the season.

Gone from the roster will be Brian Hunnings, all-Canadian three-quarter, who was injured in the McKechnie Cup game against Varsity; Godfrey Wenman, one of the squad's star forwards, who took it on the shoulder in a game against the James Bay Athletic Association; Cy Bernard, who was injured playing against the Navy; Bill Oliver, wing three-quarter, who wrenched his hip against the Navy two weeks ago, and Pete Turgoose, who changed to the J.B.A.A. at the middle of the season.

Jack Bryden, stalwart fullback, may also be out of the game. At present he is packing his arm in a sling as the result of a wrenched shoulder he sustained in the city final.

To fill up these gaps, Ralph Hocking, fleet intermediate Scottish player, has been drafted to the senior squad. "Chuck" Copeland, sprinter and wing three for Victoria College, may also turn out with the militiamen for the encounter. If he does, his speed should be a big factor in the troops' offensive thrusts.

MAY USE HORNE AS FULLBACK

With the possibility of Jack Bryden still out of the game on Saturday, the clansmen are considering using Jack Horne at fullback.

Sid Normington, who cracked his kneecap a couple of weeks ago, may be back in the three-quarter line, while Reg Wenman is expected to play inside.

Larry Henderson, whose broken hand is mending nicely, will be back as five eighths and Harry Robson is listed for half-back.

In the scrum the Highlanders will retain much of their original drive. In addition to the three All-Canadians, Campbell Forbes, Bill Wharton and Johnny Rowland, they also have Bruce Forbes, Ted May, Sleap and Graham Douglas.

After a workout at the Armories on Thursday evening the squad will go through its paces outdoors on Saturday and Sunday. Another indoor workout will be held on Monday evening and the team will taper off with a drill on Thursday of next week.

SHOULD BE IN SHAPE

Bob Travis, manager and coach of the team, hopes to have his boys in fine condition when the final rolls around. Despite the losses they have sustained, the troops still have lots of good material left from which to select the fifteen, and should be able to give Vancouver's champions all they can handle when the crucial struggle opens.

JACKSON CUP SOCCER OPENS

Esquimalt Will Meet Saanich Thistles in Initial Game on Saturday

Wests Will Clash With Jokers in League Match; One Fixture To-morrow

Senior football teams will open play Saturday in the Jackson Cup series with Esquimalt and the Saanich Thistles meeting at the Royal Athletic Park at 3.45 o'clock. In a preliminary fixture the Victoria West and Jokers will clash at 2 o'clock in a regular league engagement. Robb will referee the last mentioned game.

With the city championship just about sewed up, Esquimalt will make a serious bid for the trophy, representing the lower Island title. In the second round of the series Victoria West will meet Victoria City, with the winner of Saturday's match going up against the Jokers.

In the last match between Esquimalt and the Thistles the former hung up a 3 to 1 victory after hard-fought match. The Wests-Jokers match is expected to produce some first class football.

In the only Wednesday League football match carded to-morrow afternoon, Saanich United and the Garrison will meet at the Royal Athletic Park at 2.45 o'clock, with Hewison handling the whistle. The United have two postponed matches with the Garrison in the Pendray Cup series and a pair of victories will give them the trophy by a single point over the Navy. Last week the Saanich eleven came through to a fine victory over the Hudson's Bay, 3 to 2. Defeat for Saanich to-morrow will give the trophy to the sailors.

LEWIS MEETS SAVAGE HERE

Heavyweight Wrestling Title Claimant Will Meet Chicagoan at Willows Friday

J. McLaughlin in Semi Windup; Lewis Pins J. Freberg in Straight Falls

Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, claimant for the world heavyweight wrestling champion and best-known of the big fellows, will return to Victoria on Friday evening, when he meets Steve Savage, Chicago, in a scheduled eight ten-minute round bout at the Willows horseshow building. In the five-round semi-windup, Jack McLaughlin, Vancouver welterweight, will go up against Pete Becker, Ohio. Another bout is being arranged.

The card is being staged under the aupices of the Tillicum Athletic Club and this is their second promotion at the Willows building. A few weeks ago Tiger Daula met Steve Savage at this location and the bout was well patronized.

Lewis will wrestle here in the course of another Pacific Coast tour. Yesterday evening in Seattle the headlock expert made short work of John Freberg, pinning the Seattle Swede in straight falls. Lewis is the master showman of the wrestling game and has always been a big local drawing card. Savage has been doing well in bouts here, having defeated a number of first-class men in recent bouts.

The first bout will start at 8.30 o'clock

Seattle, April 5. — Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, claimant of the heavyweight wrestling title, disposed of John Freberg, Seattle, with two falls in six rounds of a wrestling bout here yesterday evening. Lewis weighed 240 and Freberg 230.

Lewis put Freberg down for the first fall in the fifth round with series of headlocks and rabbit punches. In the next session he battered the groggy Freberg over the ring with rabbit punches and the referee raised Lewis's hand to award him the fall. Freberg made a match of it in the first four rounds, with Lewis playing a waiting game.

Jack Taylor, Canadian heavyweight champion, won in two straight falls from Dick Raines of Texas, former southern Methodist University star, in the semi-final, taking falls in the fourth and fifth rounds with body slams.

New York, April 5.—Earl McCready, an outstanding challenger for the world heavyweight wrestling championship, who formerly lived at Amulet, Sask., and who holds the Canadian championship, drew yesterday evening with Dick Shikat, Philadelphia, former championship claimant. The bout went one hour six minutes ten seconds. It was terminated at 11 o'clock, because of a law requiring all wrestling matches to end at that time. Neither matman secured a fall.

Rangers Open Final Series With Leafs At Garden To-night

Two Outstanding National Hockey League Clubs Will Open Campaign for Stanley Cup; Leafs Held Margin Over Rangers in League Games With Four Victories in Six Meetings; Toronto "Kid" Line of Conacher, Primeau and Jackson Will Be Watched Closely

New York, April 5—New York's farewell to the fast-closing hockey season will be sounded to-night when the Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs open their series for the Stanley Cup.

To the winner of the first three games in a five-game series will also go recognition as world champions. All games in this final series will be fought to a finish, with "sudden-death" overtime in order if the two teams are deadlocked at the end of regulation play.

Rangers and the Leafs will carry their battle to Boston for the second game Thursday night. The series will come to a conclusion in Toronto.

There was little choice locally in naming the winner of to-night's game, although the Leafs held the margin over the Rangers in the regular season play. They captured four out of six games from the New Yorkers. Furthermore, in their full season's schedule, the Leafs outscored the Rangers, 155 goals to 134, but the Rangers allowed the opposition only 112 goals compared with 127 scored against the Leafs.

WATCH YOUNGSTERS

The famed "kid line" of Toronto—Charlie Conacher, Harvey Jackson and Joe Primeau—will claim much attention to-night. These sharpshooting speedsters are expected to bring plenty of worries to the Rangers, whose veteran forwards, the Cook brothers and Frank Boucher, will be called upon to employ all their wiles and crafty play to halt the dashing Leafs.

"Ott" Heller, young Ranger defence man who rose to stardom and popular acclaim in the series against Canadiens, is slated for plenty of action. New York's adherents are hoping the youngster can keep up his sensational "pinch-hitting."

Probable line-ups:

Rangers—Roach; Seibert, Johnson; Boucher; Bill Cook, Bun Cook. Spares, Murdoch, Dillon, Somers, Heller, Gainor, Desjardins, Brennan, Keeling, Milks.

Officials—Odie Cleghorn and George Mallinson.

TOWNSEND TO MEET GOODMAN

Hard-hitting Welterweights in Ten-round Bout at Los Angeles To-night

Los Angeles, April 5.—A couple of hard-hitting welterweights with impressive records of knockout victories, Billy Townsend, Vancouver, and Joey Goodman, Cleveland, are scheduled to slug it out for ten rounds or less at the Olympic Auditorium to-night. It will be Goodman's first local appearance.

Townsend is returning from a tour in the east, where he lost by a knockout to the veteran Billy Petrolle. The Canadian, however, has always been a favorite here and has a record of thirty-three knockdowns to his credit in the thirteen bouts he has fought here.

Goodman has a record of twenty-eight knockouts in seventy fights and twenty-nine knockdowns scored in his last twelve fights.

The semi-final will bring together Martin Zuniga, one of George Blake's proteges, and Able Miller, east-side boy. Tuffy Pierpont, Oakland flyweight, is scheduled to go four rounds with Francis Burke, Los Angeles, in one of the other three preliminaries.

Annual Lacrosse Meeting To-night

The annual meeting of the Victoria and District Lacrosse Association will be held this evening at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock, with President Percy Watson in the chair. Plans for the coming season will be discussed and all those interested are invited to attend.

CY M'LEAN IS BASEBALL HEAD

Elected President of B.C. Baseball Association; W. Oliphant Vice-Pres.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 5.—Cy McLean was the unanimous choice for the presidency of the B.C. Amateur Baseball Association at the annual meeting on Saturday night. R. Sargent, North Vancouver, was elected vice-president; W. Oliphant, Victoria, second vice-president, and Stan Smith was again named secretary-treasurer.

Mayor A. Wells Gray, New Westminster, was chosen honorary president, with Mayor L. D. Taylor, Vancouver, honorary vice-president. The play-off committee will consist of Harry Colgan, Joe Dorgan, Joe Morgan, Stan Carter, Bill McMahan, J. Hunt (Victoria), Cy McLean and Stan Smith. McLean and Smith were elected delegates to the A.A.U.

A letter was read from the amusement tax committee of Victoria sport organizations requesting support in demanding that the provincial government withdraw its 5 per cent tax on amateur sport gates. The meeting went on record as supporting the move and Secretary Smith was instructed to write a letter accordingly.

Victoria delegates advocated a new system of financing in the play-offs, whereby senior "A" clubs sustaining a loss would not have that loss charged against their proportion of the pool. It was decided to carry on as formerly.

J. CRAIGMYLE TO MARRY SOON

Johnny "Scotty" Craigmyle, well-known Victoria jockey, is to be married in July. Announcement of his engagement to Miss Dorothy Jackson, youngest daughter of Mrs. W. L. D. Davies, Port Hardy, was made to-day. Miss Jackson is the sister of Ralph Jackson, another well-known jockey.

Craigmyle was one of the most popular riders on British Columbia tracks last season and brought home more than his share of winning mounts.

Craigmyle is under contract to Austin Taylor, well-known Vancouver owner, and will ride his mounts at B.C. meets this year. Craigmyle is a Victoria boy and learned to ride on local tracks. He was under contract to E. J. Harris, local owner, for one season.

SYDNEY "Y" WINS

Wolfville, N.S., April 5.—Sydney Y.M.C.A. won the intermediate basketball championship of Nova Scotia here yesterday evening by defeating Acadia University, 33 to 31. It was the second of a two-game series. The Sydney hoopsters took the first game, with a score of 43 to 41, thus winning the round 76 to 73.

American League Ball Teams Lead In Exhibitions

Yankees and A's Contribute Many Pre-season Wins

New York and Philadelphia Clubs Have Each Turned in Nine Victories Over National League Rivals; American Clubs Have Won Twenty-five of Forty-three Contests; Washington and New York Giants Show Best Records in Games Against All Opposition; Coast League Clubs Open Season To-day

New York, April 5—Just stretch this spring training season for a few more weeks and the National League might pull up on even terms with the American in their interleague series.

From an impressive .650 two weeks ago the American League's winning average against the National had shrunk to a modest .581 to-day, based on twenty-five victories and eighteen defeats in forty-three games.

As a matter of fact had the world champion St. Louis Cardinals upheld their end, the National League might be in the lead. Of six contests with American League rivals the Cardinals won only the first.

Of the American League's twenty-five victories the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics have contributed nine apiece. Detroit has won four games and Boston, Washington and Cleveland one each.

The New York Giants, with three wins and one defeat, and the Phillies with a record of four victories in six starts are the only National League clubs boasting an average of better than .500 against the junior circuit.

GIANTS DO WELL

Against all Major League opposition, whether or not of inter-league character, the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators each have perfect records. That's not as impressive as it might sound, however, for each has played only one game against a major league team. The real leaders are the New York Giants with ten victories and four defeats.

In games of all descriptions, major and minor league competition combined, Washington leads with fourteen victories and one defeat. The Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians have won twelve and lost one each, and the Boston Red Sox nine and one. The Giants lead the National League in this respect with twenty victories and eight defeats.

San Francisco, April 5.—Eight Pacific Coast league teams opened the thirtieth annual pennant race of the big far western circuit to-day.

The 1931 champions, San Francisco's Seals, faced an improved Seattle squad in their initial contest at San Francisco.

Hollywood Stars, runners-up last season, tackled Oakland on the latter's home field and Portland and Los Angeles came together in the south. The San Francisco Missions and the Sacramento Senators opened at Sacramento.

The Seals and Seattle will turn to night baseball to-morrow night. Los Angeles and Portland may switch to after-dark play next Friday. Sacramento will go in for the "owl games," May 3, and Oakland May 10.

NAME AUSTRALIAN CRICKET ELEVEN

Twelve players, several of them who have taken part in test matches against England and South Africa, and one or two officials, will comprise the touring party of Australian cricketers who will play in Victoria on June 18 and 20 in their first appearance on this continent.

Don Bradman, the world's finest batsman; W. H. Ponsford, A. F. Kippax, C. Grimmett, V. Y. Richardson, S. McCabe and A. A. Mailey are test match players who are making the trip, and possibly A. J. Christy, of the South African team which has just completed a tour of Australia, will be included in the party.

Mailey, the "googly" bowler, will act as manager. When the Cornstalks return to Vancouver in August they will play a three-day match against an all-British Columbia team eleven, starting on Saturday, August 13, and continuing on Monday and Tuesday, August 15 and 16. They will sail for home on Wednesday, August 17.

TO SEEK B.C. HOOP TITLES

The winner of the Chinese United-Midgets struggle this evening will also go across to represent the city in their special division.

The Victoria teams will be playing the champions of the Vancouver-New Westminster League.

ENJOY FIRST SWIM GROUPS

Children Show Enthusiasm in Opening Lessons of The Times Campaign

With their young legs thrashing the water into foam, and delighted cries indicating their enjoyment, first classes in The Times Learn to Swim Campaign got away to a flying start at the Crystal Garden yesterday afternoon under Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ellison, instructors.

Both boys' and girls' groups were exceptionally well attended, approximately 100 going through the elementary stages planned by the two teachers to overcome the children's water-shyness.

Pig-a-back races in the water, ducking games and then steady work on the leg thrash formed the chief part of the day's exercises.

Brilliantly clad in bathing suits of all hues, the kiddies presented a gay sight as they frolicked at the shallow end of the Crystal pool. The cascade was turned off for the lessons, but the filters, working regularly, kept the water in constant circulation and maintained its purity.

From the enthusiasm shown by the groups, this year's classes should be equally as successful as those of the last two years.

After sizing up the two groups yesterday, both instructors agreed the boys would have to work exceptionally hard to keep up with the girls' class, which showed great adaptability on the opening day.

LONDON WILL PLAY BUFFALO

International Hockey League Teams Continue Play-off Series To-night

Toronto, April 5—With five more games to play in the International Hockey League's Round-Robin play-off series there is a strong possibility the championship Round will be tightened after to-night's scheduled fixtures.

The pair of matches down for decision bring together the smooth-working Buffalo Bisons and London Tecumsehs in the Canadian city and the sharp-shooting Windsor Bulldogs who are hosts to Detroit Olympics.

Frank Nighbor has his Bisons heading the play-off series at present with a single victory and two ties, while close on their heels, one point behind, are Windsor Bulldogs, last year's title holders.

Detroit and London can both move into the hunt to-night with victories over the leading clubs. Tecumsehs have the best chance, however, as after tying Bisons in Buffalo they will play before their own patrons. Olympics, on the other hand, face a problem in the selection of a net-minder as both their custodians are on the injured list.

CORNETT FOR FILM QUOTA

Conservative Member Supports Bill on Second Reading

J. W. Cornett, Conservative whip, in whose name the British film quota bill has been adjourned for some time, finally told the Legislature yesterday that he was going to support the bill, and it went through second reading. It is understood Mr. Cornett had held the bill up pending a party caucas, which was held Saturday.

While he had heard that little theatres feared there might be some hardship, Mr. Cornett expressed confidence that the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council could be relied upon not to inflict any injustice.

Hon. N. S. Lougheed also introduced some clarifying amendments to the Natural Gas and Petroleum Act, which has been described in debate as imposing monopolistic conditions upon any oil discoveries that may be made in the province.

ALBERNI WIN CAGE HONORS

Defeat Victoria Live Wires and Green Mill in Island Basketball Finals

Former Go Down to 26 to 12 Defeat; Green Mill Nosed Out By One Point

Alberni, April 5.—Alberni District High School girls handed Victoria Live Wires a 26 to 12 trimming in the second and final game for the Island title, junior "B" division, here Saturday night. Last week in the capital city the Alberni girls paved the way to the title when they took the first game 21 to 6. The aggregate score for the series was: A.D.H.S. 47, Live Wires 18.

After the girls had shown how it could be done, Alberni Seniors took the floor against Victoria Green Mill and managed to squeeze out a 24 to 23 win in the second game of their semi-final series, winner to meet Duncan for the Island senior "B" title. Alberni took the first game in Victoria 34 to 25, and their one-point victory on Saturday night boosted their aggregate to 58 against 48 for the visitors.

In the opening exhibition game of the evening Native Sons Juniors were full value for their ten-point margin over the Mission Indian boys. The final score was 27 to 17.

The feature game of the evening, Alberni Seniors vs. Green Mill, was one of the fastest and roughest played here for some time and in spots resembled more a combination of rugby and soccer. Referee West, usually pretty strict, paid too much attention to technical infractions and was easing up on the major fouls, so the players acted accordingly. However, it was a whirlwind game with Williams starring for the visitors and Kenny Patterson bearing the brunt of the scoring for Alberni. Victoria went off to a flashy start, just as they did in the first game, and in short order took half a dozen points off Alberni's already slim margin. The local boys had twice as many shots as their opponents, but could not have dropped the ball inside an oil drum, and when the half ended they were on the short end of a 13 to 8 count.

ALBERNI RALLIES

The second half was another story. Johnny Williamson and Art North dropped in a couple of long shots apiece to match the two Kenny Patterson had subscribed in this canto, and George Williamson and Reg Patterson declared themselves in on the party by tossing in four points between them. While all this was going on the visitors were able to score five baskets, contributed by Williams, Smith and Hill, which was not quite good enough, Alberni taking the game 24 to 23 and the series 58 to 48.

The girls' game was not really fast, but the outcome was never in doubt and the spectators took to cheering the infrequent baskets registered by the visitors in an effort to put a little pep into the game. Frances Strain, with thirteen points, was the scoring ace for the local team and easily outwitted the various checks the visiting coach sent in to try to hold her. At half time Alberni led 12 to 6, which was boosted to 24 to 10 at the three-quarter mark, and each team added one basket apiece in the final quarter.

The teams and individual scorers follow:

A.D.H.S.—A. Wood 2, F. Strain 13, V. Hanna 2, E. Marchall, B. Robinson, E. Mosley 5, G. Saunders 4; total 26.

Live Wires—D. Beere 2, J. Wilson 8, M. Alexander 2, E. Walsh, M. Caldwell, E. Miles, J. Macdonald; total 12.

Alberni Seniors—Miles, Motion, Lundine, K. Patterson 8, R. Patterson 4, G. Williamson 4, J. Williamson 4, North 4; total 24.

Canadian Skater Is British Champ

London, April 5.—Howard Nicholson, professional attached to the Granite Club, Toronto, won the open professional figure skating championship of Great Britain at Oxford yesterday evening with a fine display of speed and skill which delighted the large attendance.

Nicholson was the favorite and won by a large margin of points, his free skating being outstanding. There were strong competitors from continental centres.

W. Arlan, Austria, attached to Westminster Icedrome, was second and E. Hartung, Berlin, attached to Liverpool Ice Rink, third.

"Y" SWIMMERS SEEK TITLES

Intermediate, Junior and Prep Association Championships to Be Decided Saturday

Keen Contests Looked For in Junior Division; Rawlins Intermediate Favorite

Budding swimming aces of the Y.M.C.A. will go after high association laurels in their respective classes at the association's pool on Saturday when intermediates, juniors and preps strive for local "Y" honors.

In the feature division, Jack Rawlins, promising young junior, who has been holding his own against most of the city's senior talent, will strive for the Native Sons' Trophy, emblematic of aggregate point honors in the plunge for distance, low board diving, fifty yards freestyle, and 200 yards freestyle.

Rawlins is favored to take the trophy, which was won in former years by Dave Barclay, one of the finest swimmers ever developed in British Columbia, Jack Clyde, former V.A.S.C. and Y.M.C.A. ace, Lawrie Greenwood, association speedster of yesteryear, Bill Dickinson, Ed. Roskelly, Denny Walker and Allan Baker, all boys who have demonstrated particular strength in senior company since taking the award.

The Native Sons' Trophy will be open for competition among Y.M.C.A. boys under eighteen years.

GOOD COMPETITION

In the junior class, under fifteen years, Eddie Bucklin, Jack Mutton and Westy Clarke are expected to furnish a good contest as they strive for the association title.

The championship will be given to the boy making the most points in the forty yards freestyle, forty yards backstroke, forty yards breast stroke and balloon race.

In the prep division, under twelve, Teddy Blenkinsop, Jack Irvine and Vic Merriman are looked upon for the greatest competition.

These boys wil seek aggregate laurels in the forty yards freestyle, the twenty yards back and twenty yards breast stroke.

Thre points wil be given to the winner of each event, two to the second-place man and one to the third.

GIRLS' RACES

In addition to the championships, two series of events for girls' honors wil be staged. Those under fourteen will compete in forty-yard backstroke, forty-yard freestyle and forty-yard breaststroke races.

Girls under sixteen will be required to swim under the same regulations over distances of sixty yards.

Denny Walker, Canadian Olympic trials prospect, Percy Riddle, Red Mcmillan, Chris Usher, Dick Healy, Ruby Davidson and Molly Unsworth, some of the association leading senior representatives will swim exhibitions.

The "Y" swimming club will hold a special executive meeting at 5 o'clock to-morrow evening to make final plans for the gala and arrange other meets now being considered.

MAY CONTROL BEACH FIRES

City police officers have power to lay charges against persons lighting beach fires if nearby property is endangered, the City Council was informed yesterday evening in a communication from Oscar Bass, Deputy Attorney-General.

This was in response to an application by the council to the provincial government that something be done to curb the beach fire nuisance on the Dallas waterfront.

Mr. Bass pointed out that jurisdiction of police officers was not limited to areas under control of the governing bodies who hired them. If informations were laid for lighting of fires outside the city limits on the beaches the cases would be heard in the Provincial Police Court.

The parks committee and police commission will be advised of this ruling.

Scoring Punch In Overtime Wins For Toronto Nationals

Eastern Champions Drive Through Fort William for Three Goals in Extra Session to Take First Game of Allan Cup Final 7 to 4; Forts Get Away to Two-goal Lead in First Period But Are Unable to Hold Great Finish of Toronto Club; Paul Scores Three for Nationals

Montreal, April 5—Leg weary and a little bruised in body if not in spirit, Toronto Nationals, hockey champions of the east, rested to-day after their gruelling overtime victory over Fort William here yesterday evening in the first game of the Allan Cup series leading to the Dominion hockey title. The Nationals took the Thundering Herd 7 to 4 after two extra ten-minute overtime periods.

To-morrow night they face the speedy herd from the upper lakes once more. If the Nationals can turn the Forts aside again, the Allan Cup is theirs. If they lose, the third game will be held here Friday night.

By sheer gameness the Nationals gained a victory out of the long drawn-out struggle. Facing a team that had not been scored against for four games in a row in the western campaign, the Nationals spotted the herd two goals and then started the uphill fight.

NATIONALS IN FRONT

By the end of the second they had tied the score. They went ahead in the third only to have it tied up again.

The Forts took the lead in the first overtime session and then the Nationls tied it up again. There was no stopping them in the last extra period and three times the red light flashed behind Gordie Hacquoil in that last ten minutes.

The herd outplayed Nationals handily in the first period. Ross Knowles beat Mueller and then Johnny Salonen put the second past him. Nationals picked up their stride soon after, and Collins and Ross Paul each scored and tied the game.

There was plenty of excitement in the third period and throughout the overtime sessions, and the ultimate result was very much in doubt until the Nationals started their whirlwind drive at the end.

Ross Paul picked up three goals during the game. Collins, Chisholm, McMullen and Lough scored the others. Knowles, Houston, Salonen and Porky McLeod each got one for the Forts.

British Walker Cup Team Named

St. Andrews, Scotland, April 5.—The Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews to-day announced the make-up of the Walker Cup golf team which will invade the United States this year to play Francis Ouimet's United States squad.

The team is headed by T. A. Torrance, who is expected to be named captain; J. T. Bookless, John Burke, the Irish champion; Leonard Crawley, Lister Hartley, Red Hartley, Eric McRuvie and J. A. Stout.

SHIRT MAKING PROCESS SHOWN

Cluett, Peabody and Co. Representative Showing Film on Manufacture at Empress

Besides presenting a dramatic moving picture on shirt salesmanship in a typical retail store, the Cluett, Peabody film, being displayed to-day by E. G. Smith, general sales manager, at the Empress Hotel, shows the company's Sanforized-shrinking process in operation. This makes clear to the store salesman why Arrow shirts can be guaranteed to fit until worn out, no matter how many times they are sent to the laundry.

First, the fabric from which the shirt is made, the long, narrow strips of "grey goods," is shown as it is being finished. During this process the cloth is constantly pulled lengthways. One piece of goods will often be several miles long. During this endless pulling it is stretched lengthways. Formerly shirts were made from this "pulled-out-of-shape" cloth. As a result, if a man bought a shirt that fitted when new, it would choke him after a few washings. The collar would strangle, the cuffs creep, simply because water, in washing, took that stretch out and shrunk the cloth back to something like it would have been if it had not been pulled out of shape.

Then "pre-shrinking" was invented. The cloth was brought more nearly back to normal weave by water-soaking, but the process was largely a matter of guesswork and the lustre of the finish was damaged by moisture. A man still could not be certain what size shirt to buy or how much his shirts would shrink when laundered. No manufacturer could give any guarantee against shrinkage in such a shirt.

STOP SHRINKING

Finally Cluett, Peabody and Company invented and patented "Sanforizing," which was named after its creator, Vice-president Sanford L. Cluett, and which enables the company to guarantee permanent fit of its shirts. The retailer can give the guarantee to his customer because the manufacturer's guarantee stands behind him. The process is purely mechanical and amazingly simple. The lengthwise distortion due to pulling is taken out by running the fabric through a long, narrow machine which automatically grips it by the sides and stretches it sideways just enough to bring it back to normal length. Afterwards this little sideways stretch is mechanically removed and the fabric is treated with moisture, steam, heat and ironing, which add to its already fine lustre.

The machine is so accurate and so delicately adjusted that exactly the right amount of mechanical shrinkage is applied, both lengthwise and sidewise, to produce a normal weave. The shirt made from such "Sanforized" cloth will always fit the wearer no matter how many times it is washed, because the fabric from which it is made is normal. It has no stretch or distortion for water to change.

INTEREST IN SHIRTS

The shirt picture also reveals two fundamental principles in the retailing of men's furnishings, said to be based on years of experience, observation and survey by the manufacturer. They are, firstly, that men are more interested in shirts than in anything else they wear, and, secondly, that as shirts go, so goes the store or department that sells them.

In conclusion the film shows its young hero—the shirt salesman—dealing with a customer and using advantageously the five "shirt-selling slants" which it recommends: First, getting the shirt into the prospective buyer's hands, so that he can feel the fabric of which it is made; second, telling why permanent fit can be guaranteed; third, explaining that ninety per cent of the style of a shirt is in the collar, of which Arrow has made more than four billion; fourth, suggesting an additional shirt, blue or brown, to go with a possible blue or brown suit, and fifth, showing a related article, such as a tie, of color to harmonize with the shirt or shirts already purchased.

ASKS SECRET WAGE BALLOT

Mayor's Letter to Firemen Tells Why Cutting Is Necessary

Members of the fire department have been asked by Mayor Leeming to take a secret ballot on the question of wage cuts, it was revealed at yesterday evening's meeting of the City Council when a copy of individual letters sent to every member of the department was read.

The Mayor, in his letter, outlined the city's serious financial position and suggested a secret ballot at the union meetings in view of the fact that an open show of hands sometimes prevented a man from giving a free expression to his desires.

The letter also stated that when the wage agrement with members of the department was made, the council of that time did not foresee the worst depression of recent history. In his opinion a council should not make an agreement binding on future councils but could only promise to deal fairly with matters before it.

So far the firemen's union has remained adamant in opposition to cutting of wages. Another letter from the secretary of the union reaffirming their decision to abide by the wage agreement was read yesterday evening.

CENTRAL AUTO SALES RECORD

Bill Calls For All Transfers to Be Recorded in Victoria

In moving second reading of amendments to the Bills of Sale and Conditional Sales Act in the Legislature yesterday, Attorney-General Pooley stated that it was difficult for people having to do with the titles of automobiles to ascertain from all the many registry offices in the province what liens might be registered against them.

So it has been decided that all registrations shall be made at the office of the Superintendent of British Columbia Police in Victoria. Under these conditions only one search will be required to know whether there is any prior lien against a car whose title is in question.

T. D. Pattullo said this would make for delay with all documents having to come from every part of the province to Victoria, but there was undoubtedly an abuse to be corrected.

He noted, however, that the minister had made no reference to the fact that the registration fee was being increased from 25 cents to $1.00, so he presumed that in one more direction the finance minister had found a place to rake in some more money.

Mr. Pooley said the increased fee was to pay the salaries of extra officials required to look after the extra records.

The bills were given second reading.

MONEY ADVANCE MOVE ENDORSED

On a recommendation of its legislative committee, the City Council yesterday evening endorsed a resolution proposed by the Canadian Currency and Banking Reform League calling for an application to the federal government to have legislation enacted which would enable municipalities to secure advances from the Dominion on municipal securities at a low rate of interest on the same basis as that now enjoyed by banks.

The North Vancouver Council has also supported this resolution.

The council refused to express an opinion on the subject of bi-metallism, support of which was proposed by the Prince Rupert City Council. The legislative committee, in a report on this subject, suggested that neither the committee or the council was competent to advise on a matter which had caused a difference of opinion among some of the finest minds in the country.

Wheat Prices Drop Fractionally When Exports Fall Off

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, April 5. — Guided by weakness of Liverpool wheat quotations and a spotty export demand, grain prices underwent moderate downturns in the wheat pit here to-day. Predicted showers over United States winter wheat fields also acted as a bearish influence. Prices closed ⅞ to 1 cent lower than yesterday's final figures.

May and July each dropped ⅞ to 62⅛ and 4 cents respectively, while October finished ⅞ to 1 cents lower at 66⅜.

Damage reports from the United States winter wheat belt and bullish reports concerning wheat prospects in Russia gave early session strength to the market, but the advance was short-lived, and values dropped gradually to reach the low points near the close.

Broomhall reported a better feeling in European countries, and indicated that France would be in the market for supplies of foreign wheat on a fairly good scale, while Italy already was buying moderate quantities. He reported also that Germany was in need of grain imports.

Apart from small export trade in oats cash wheat trade was draggy at unchanged spreads. Coarse grains closed easier.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, April 5.—Wheat: The wheat market, both here and at Chicago, gave evidence of being somewhat overbought and this, combined with a small export business and a further sharp break in stocks, caused an easier tone with prices at Winnipeg declining about ¾ and Chicago 1⅛ from close last night.

The market had a rally at mid session based on further unfavorable reportings coming out of the southwest, but the rally did not hold, the market again sinking to the low marks of the day. At the start there was a little scattered buying against export business at both western and eastern seaboards, but the volume was small. New York reported the interest in North American wheat and other grains overnight was rather light with a small scattered business in Manitobas, while late yesterday Germany was said to have taken some Manitobas and a little low grade rye.

The weekly Kansas crop report was a bullish item stating that high winds the first half of last week had caused extensive injury to wheat in southwestern central and south central Kansas, and that injury from the March freeze was showing up greater than expected in nearly all sections of the state. Present indications point to above average abandonment this year. There were also further unfavorable reports from Nebraska, and indications are that rains are becoming badly needed all over the southwest.

There was practically nothing doing in the cash market and all spreads were unchanged. Country marketings in the west Monday were 298,000 bushels against 415,000 a year ago. Bradstreet's world's visible decreased 8,856,000 bushels for the week.

Winnipeg futures closed ⅞ lower.

Coarse grains—Oats and barley were very steady, while rye was more or less following trend of wheat. The markets were quiet with very little outside interest being shown and there being no evidence of export business. The rye Germany has been buying is said to be all low grade.

Oats closed unchanged to ⅛ lower, barley ¼ to ½ lower and rye 1 lower. Flax 1⅞ to 2¼ lower.

Liverpool due ⅜ to ¼ lower, based on Winnipeg.

CHICAGO

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, April 5.—Wheat: The market felt the effect of disappointing cables, weakness in stocks and was also influenced by the lessened demand. Liverpool closed ⅜ higher, but Buenos Aires was ⅝ to ¾ lower at midday.

Broomhall's Weekly Review was moderately bullish on prospective market conditions, suggesting free foreign buying, with native supplies reported light. However, he stated that importers would not care to follow sharp advances unless there was further unfavorable developments in regard to the crop in this country and Canada.

The present movement indicates farmers are not inclined to sell, and with prospects for fair clearances there will be substantial reductions in visible stocks. Subsoil moisture conditions in our northwest and Canada will play an important part later on unless there are heavier rains.

Export trade has been light, the last day or so but any further reaction look for foreign buying to reappear. Crop news of a bullish kind was still plentiful but fell rather flat. Unless rain comes soon believe it will be impossible to disregard the conditions in the hard winter wheat belt.

Outside influences will in all probability make for a two-sided market and would wait for the setbacks on which to buy. Bradstreet's reported a decrease in world's available stocks of 8,856,000 bushels. The Kansas state report was bullish. Says abandonment would be much above an average.

Corn: Not much feature to the trade with range narrow. Cash trade shows no improvement and while country offerings are light and receipts small, the market has little to incite much activity at present time. Receipts today were seventy-one cars with primary arrivals of 403,000 vs. 533,000 bushels a year ago.

European reports indicate a good demand for corn, while Argentine weather has been unfavorable. Trading market indicated for time being cash sales 21,000 bushels with 4,000 booked to arrive.

Oats: Trade dull with little feature. Primary arrivals 195,000 vs. 415,000 bushels a year ago. Cash trade quiet. Seeding of oats has made good progress in May sections.

Since the transfer of the Victoria business of The Royal Financial Corporation Ltd., now in bankruptcy, to H. W. Miller & Co., 723 Fort Street, inquiries have been received by the latter company as to whether or not H. W. Miller & Co. in any way connected with the Vancouver house.

Mr. Miller was local manager for the Royal Financial Corporation Ltd., but when that company went into liquidation he purchased outright the Victoria assets of the business and established the firm of H. W. Miller & Co., which is now operating in the same offices, at 723 Fort Street.

Shall Tired Flapper Marry Man She Loves or Man Who Loves Her?—Straight Talk to Married Man Who Has Fallen in Love With His Protege — Fanatical Parents

DEAR MISS DIX—I am twenty-two years old, a flapper, but am tired of flapping and am going to enter matrimony. I am engaged to two boys. Taken from the standpoint socially, physically and financially, they rate about the same. No 1 is desperately in love with me, would and does everything in the world for me and has helped me out of tight places for the last three years. I am fond of him and marriage with him would not be a bore by a long shot. Boy No. 2 must love me, because he has asked me to marry him, but in this case I am the one who does the loving. My wants, likes and feelings do not cut much ice with him. In fact, he seems to feel toward me just as I feel toward No. 1, but I am desperately in love with him.

Now I am a spoiled only child, used to having my own way and being waited upon. Do you think I will be happier marrying No. 1 and playing the part of the beloved, or do you think the few passionately happy moments spent with No. 2 will atone for the unhappiness I know he is bound to bring me?

PERPLEXED.

Answer—Of course, the ideal match is where the husband and wife love equally, but this seldom happens, and when it becomes a question of a woman marrying the man she loves or the man who loves her, I think she does wisely when she takes the man she loves. For a woman not to be loved is a misfortune, but for a woman not to love is a tragedy. It is eternally more blessed to give than to receive in spiritual as in material things.

There are many reasons why it is better for a woman to marry the man with whom she is passionately in love than it is for her to marry the man who is deeply in love with her. For one thing, she has got what she wants and is saved the gnawing jealousy of the woman whose heart is unsatisfied. Hell has no greater torment than the woman knows who spends long brooding hours over what might have been, and finding that absence merely feeds the fire of her love for the other man.

A man who marries a woman who does not really fire his fancy has a better chance of becoming content with her and being reasonably happy than does the woman who marries a makeshift husband, because the man has the interest of his business or career to occupy his thoughts, and in the realization of his ambitions he can find solace for much that he missed in the domestic relationship. But a woman's interests and her happiness centre in her home, and if she does not find content there, she does not find it at all.

The woman who marries a man she does not care for is bored to tears. She does not enjoy his companionship. She gets no kick out of trying to please him. His caresses are repulsive to her. Life is just one dull round of doing her duty.

But the woman who marries a man with whom she is desperately in love is eternally on her tiptoes. She is always breaking her neck to try to keep her husband fascinated and amused. She is forever putting forth every art and cajolery to hold him and, while this may be wearing at times, it keeps her pepped up and on her mettle. Life may be full of tacks for her, but it is never monotonous. It is one long thrill.

And, finally, such a woman has her great moments, her moments of ecstatic bliss when all her world is full of star dust. They are not a continuous performance. Between them there may be aching voids in which she sheds barrels of bitter tears. But one glad, mad moment was worth its price.

* * * * * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man up in my forties, have a good deal of money, a wife that is all that any man could possibly ask for and three little girls who love me dearly. Some years ago my wife and I met a little girl who was trying hard to be something and who had no chance unless she was helped. We sent her off and educated her. Now she is a beautiful girl, and she and I have fallen hopelessly in love with each other. I see her about four nights a week and she has offered to go away with me. Do you think she really knows her mind well enough to give up everything for me? Shall I go to my wife and ask for my freedom, or let my own heart and this little girl's heart ache.

WORRIED.

Answer—It is weak men like you and unprincipled little gold diggers like this girl that make women afraid to try to hold out a helping hand to any member of their sex who is under eighty, and who is not bald and toothless and string halted.

I have known dozens of cases in which generous, sympathetic, warm-hearted women have taken girls into their homes to try to help them; women who have given girls their board to keep them off the street; who have given girls pretty clothes and social advantages they could not otherwise have had, and in only too many instances the girls have repaid this generosity by vamping the husband. Sometimes the girl has even been the woman's sister. Often it has been a near relative.

This has happened so frequently that my advice to every woman who wants to keep her husband is never, under any circumstances, to take a woman under her roof who is younger and better looking than she is. This may sound like hard counsel, but safety first.

Somehow, there seems to be something in that poor, feeble masculine nature that is always on the lookout for temptation and that cannot resist propinquity with a flapper. The contrast between her freshness, her slimness, her pep and gayety and his sedate, middle-aged wife is too much for him.

As to which one is more contemptible, the weak, disloyal husband, or the traitorous girl who repays her benefactor by robbing her of her husband and breaking up her home, I don't know. Both are despicable beyond words. But one thing I do know, and that is if you give up your good wife for this girl, you will rue the day.

Evidently she has as little idea of morality as she has of gratitude or she would not be willing to become your mistress. Her only idea is to grab the best thing in sight, and when she grows tired of you, as she will, because you are more than twice her age, she will betray you as she and you have betrayed your wife, and it will serve you right.

Your feeling for this girl is just a passing infatuation, and it is a pity that while the madness is on you, you cannot be locked up in some sanatorium where you will be safe, and not permitted to wreck your home and business prospects and disgrace yourself and your children.

DOROTHY DIX.

* * * * * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—A girl asked me for advice and the case is so puzzling I feel incompetent to advise her, so I am passing it on to you. The situation is this:

Mary is a high school girl of sixteen. Her parents belong to a very strict religious sect. She is not permitted to attend any parties. They are horrified at her desire to go to the movies. She is never allowed to go anywhere except to church and prayer meeting, and at home they are always praying for her, though the girl has always lived a perfectly innocent life. They delve into all her studies at school for fear she will be taught "infidelity." Mary loves her parents and is loyal to them, but feels that she is being deprived of her girlhood and made old before her time. What can she do to get a little joy out of life?

WONDERING.

Answer—Nobody can tell a girl how to deal with parents who are fanatics. They are immovable because they conscientiously believe that they are doing right. The only thing Mary can do is to submit and study hard so that she can fit herself to make a living away from home. Then she can enjoy the innocent pleasures to which every girl is entitled, and which make her a better-balanced woman.

Glaciers—Past and Present

Long ago, mighty ice sheets or "glaciers," spread over large portions of Europe, Asia and North America. They did some damage and some good. Many lakes in Canada and in the northern part of the United States were formed as the result of glacial visits.

One old-time glacier spread out from the Alps and covered part of France. To-day, if you go to Switzerland, you will find small glaciers high up in the Alps. They seem to be the remains of a large glacial sheet which once oozed down from the mountains.

The glaciers of the Alps move through valleys, but their movements are slow. In "Innocents Abroad," Mark Twain tells of an attempt to travel by "riding" on one of these valley glaciers. After hours spent in this manner, the effort was given up because the party had moved less than an inch!

Valley glaciers are "moving rivers of ice," but some of them gain only two or three yards in a year. The lower ends of the glaciers melt in the spring, and at many a point "ice caves" are to be seen with streams of water coming out of them.

Swiss glaciers are small compared with those of Greenland. That island supports hundreds of thousands of square miles of ice. The thickness of the ice is about half a mile, on the average.

Around the edges of Greenland, valley glaciers pass down toward the sea. Scientists have studied these rivers of solid ice, and have learned that they move more swiftly than Swiss glaciers. Some Greenland glaciers travel twenty feet in a day.

When valley glaciers reach the sea, chunks break off and icebergs float on the water. The part of an iceberg above the surface is only one-ninth of the entire block of ice. Even that small part of a Greenland iceberg is sometimes more than a hundred feet high.

There are glaciers in Alaska, too, and in southern Chile. The largest of all modern glaciers is the ice-sheet of the Antarctic. It is larger than the continent of Europe.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1932

Kindly stars smile upon the planet Earth to-day, according to astrology. It is a time for energetic work and confident expectation.

Science and invention are subject to a rule of the stars which promises great results in the coming decade.

This is a day more promising for independent effort than for any sort of co-operation or assistance.

It is not an auspicious sway under which to interview persons who are prominent. Even political aspirants may be unresponsive to propositions.

Women may be successful in public work and severe competition on the part of men again is forecast.

Sports of all sorts are under a most favorable direction of the stars and men will dominate largely, even in tennis, it is predicted.

In the summer months the law of opposites will be strongly illustrated, the seers prophesy, and while men win laurels by demonstrating physical strength, women will achieve success through a display of old-time feminine graces.

Again romance will be in vogue, astrologers predict, and ancient gallantries will be revived.

Formalities will return in social life, it is prophesied, and once more there will be dignity in friendships and courtships.

Patriotism is to be manifested in the United States through a wide co-operation of workers and capitalists.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of rather unsettled conditions. Litigation of every sort should be avoided.

Children born on this day probably will be brilliant of intellect and exceedingly industrious. The subjects of this sign win success through persistent effort.

Mr. Joseph Medill, journalist, was born on this day, 1823. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Edward E. Salisbury, 1814, philologist.

Brings Large Cargo Here From Far East

Ss. President Jefferson Here This Morning With 480 Tons For Local Discharge

Captain Reported Good Trip Across Pacific; Things at Shanghai Quiet Again

Pier two warehouse at the Rithet docks was filled almost to capacity with Oriental freight this morning following the arrival of the American Mail liner president Jefferson from the Far East. She docked at 5.45 o'clock and immediately several large gangs of longshoremen commenced to unload the 480 tons of general cargo for this port. It was one of the largest cargoes to be discharged in Victoria from the Orient in several weeks, and kept many dock workers busy all morning. As soon as the President Jefferson cleared for Seattle the Princess Joan went around and took on most of the cargo for Vancouver.

Capt. A. O. Lustie, commander of the liner, reported a good trip across the north Pacific from Yokohama. There had been several days of rough weather in mid-Pacific, he said, and a little fog, but on the whole the voyage had been a good one. He just missed a fierce gale south of the Aleutian Islands, he said, which is now delaying ships in that region. He said he had a wireless message from the liner Empress of Russia when that ship was in mid-Pacific, and she reported rough seas. The Russia sailed from here the same day as the Jefferson left Yokohama.

All is now quiet at Shanghai, officers and passengers of the President Jefferson reported on arrival here today. Passenger and freight liners are going right up the river to their docks in Shanghai. The river has been cleared of the extra naval ships, although several war vessels are still stationed there. Residents of the International Settlement are free to go and come as they please. But things are strangely quiet going up the river, the officers said, as the last time they were there the "war" was at its height.

CHURCHILL IS OPENING UP

Churchill, Man., April 5.—Churchill will snap out of its winter quiet within a few weeks and start the last big construction drive to prepare the northern seaport for its first open season. The townsite, owned by the Manitoba Government, and the port, built and operated by the Dominion Government, are both to be opened this summer.

With winter nearing an end, Churchill is taking a new lease on life in preparation for the big season she confidently expects this year. Steel workers are to arrive next week. They will erect new conveyors to aid in pouring grain from the continent's farthest-north elevators into holds of grain boats.

Late in April or early in May, first employees of the federal department of railways and canals are expected to reach here. Engineers already are at work planning early-season work. Dredging of the harbor will be completed as quickly as possible.

The townsite's railway facilities will be brought up to the standard required to handle the first influx of settlers. The Manitoba Government has not made known how many persons will be permitted to settle here this year.

ECKMAN PLANS ALASKA ROUTE

Prince Rupert, B.C., April 5.—An airplane carrying A. C. Eckman, Mrs. D. Morgan, A. B. Hayes, Gordon Graham of Seattle and Archie Long of Ketchikan, arrived from Seattle yesterday afternoon, having left Seattle that morning. It took off to-day for Juneau, where Eckman plans to operate a summer service.

The plane mentioned in the message is the orange Lougheed which was in Victoria last Wednesday. It tied up at the float in front of the Parliament Buildings and was seen by many Victorians.

The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water

CANADIAN WHEAT EXPORTS LARGEST

U.S. Department of Commerce Brochure Compares World Wheat Figures

Canadian Press

Washington, April 5. — Canada shipped thirty-five per cent of the total wheat exports of the world in the years 1927-28 to 1929-30, the United States Department of Commerce discloses in a brochure on "the International Marketing of Surplus Wheat." Argentina was the next export country, shipping twenty-two per cent, the United States came third with twenty per cent, Australia next with ten, Russia six and all other countries seven.

The United Kingdom is "by far the premier grain purchasing country of the world. The United Kingdom imports about seventy-five to eighty per cent of its total annual consumption, which represents approximately twenty-seven per cent of the total overseas movement. France, Italy, Germany and Spain frequently have large crops of their own, so their imports vary from year to year."

BRITISH PURCHASES

Of a total Canadian export of wheat in 1930-31 amounting to 228,480,000 bushels, the United Kingdom took 135,118,000 bushels, which was 30,000,000 bushels more than in the previous year, but considerably less than in 1926, 1927 or 1928. The department lists a six-year average for United Kingdom imports of wheat and flour as giving Canada thirty-two per cent of the trade, United States twenty-five, Argentina eighteen and Australia twelve.

It notes that before the introduction of Canadian wheat into world market the hard spring wheat from the United Sates was considered the best obtainable. To-day the Canadian-grown hrad red spring wheat commands the premium."

CHURCHILL ROUTE

Noting the opening of the Churchill route the report remarks, "while the season of navigation is short—barley two months—there is a tremendous saving in rail freight. The outlets in the past for the regions that this new port can tap were Vancouver on the west and Montreal on the east. What effect, if any, this new gateway to European markets will have on the movement of Canadian grain through the North Atlantic ports of the United States is too problematical for discussion at this early date."

NO FUNCTIONS FOR LORD BYNG

Rideau Hall Says Visit to Canada Is of Purely Private Nature

Ottawa, April 5.—The following statement was issued yesterday from Government House:

"Lord and Lady Byng, who have been spending the winter in Jamaica for the benefit of Lord Byng's health, are at present in California and will return to England in May via Canada. They will stay quietly with the Governor-General at Ottawa before leaving for England.

"As Lord Byng's winter tour is in the nature of a rest and holiday, which his many years of public service render necessary to his health, his many friends in Canada will no doubt wish to save him fatigue by refraining from inviting him to attend functions or meetings which he will be regretfully obliged to decline. Lord and Lady Byng's visit to Canada is obliged to be of a purely private nature.

Holds Belated Christmas Party

Seattle, Wash., April 5.—It was Christmas Eve yesterday evening in the home of Miss Betty Nicholson, a singer. She had a Christmas tree festooned with multi-colored bulbs and a pile of brightly wrapped presents.

Her guests were the officers of the British ship Empire Star, who had been her childhood playmates in London. For several years the vessel has been at sea every Christmas Day.

On their last visit here, however, she promised them a Christmas party their next trip, whatever the time of year. They reached port Sunday.

Two New Government Ships Due In June

New Hydrographic Steamer Will Be Launched Saturday at Collingwood, Ontario

New Tender For William Head to Be Named Salucan; Building in Vancouver

Two new Dominion Government vessels are due in Victoria this summer. They will be launched within the next few weeks and will arrive here early in June. One is building in Vancouver and the other at Collingwood, Ontario. Both are the most modern of their type, and will be a decided acquisition to the many fine ships that call Victoria their home port.

The new ship for the William Head quarantine station is now near completion at the Walker shipyards in North Vancouver. She is awaiting the arrival of engine parts from Scotland. As soon as they arrive and are installed she will be launched from the ways and will undergo her trial trips. It is expected she will be turned over to the authorities at William Head early in the summer. Dr. Chester P. Brown, chief medical officer at the station, said this morning.

The new ship will probably be named the Salucan. There are several ships of this name in the health service of Canada. The name has an interesting derivation. It is taken from Salus, which means, in Roman mythology, the personification of health and prosperity, and Canada.

SMALLER THAN MADGE

The new vessel will be much smaller than the well-known steamer Madge, which she will replace. She will have a length of only sixty-one feet, compared to the ninety-seven feet of the Madge. She will be equipped with a small operating room, a commodious saloon and crew's quarters. She will be compact in every way. A full Diesel engine will propel the ship ten or eleven knots. She will be used to meet incoming liners and to carry the officials of the station back and forth between William Head and Victoria.

The Madge has been in the quarantine station twenty-five years. She was built in 1908 at the old B.C. Marine shipyards in Esquimalt, and is believed to have been the first steel ship launched there. She has given fine service, but is too bulky to go out to liners in rough weather. She will be turned over to some other government department.

NEW SURVEY SHIP

The new ship for the hydrographic service out of Victoria will be launched on Saturday at Collingwood and will be christened the William J. Stewart, after the late chief hydrographer for the Dominion Government. He was the first hydrographer to do survey work on the Pacific Coast, and was here in 1891 for the survey of Vancouver harbor. He was chief of the service from 1904 to 1926. The ship will come to Victoria early in June. H. D. Parizeau, chief of the hydrographic service in Victoria, was advised yesterday afternoon from Ottawa. The new ship will not be used this year, but will be laid up in the inner harbor until next season.

The new survey ship will be one of the most modern afloat. A new type echo-sounding machine, of a pattern used by the British Admiralty, is now being tested for this coast. It is aboard the survey steamer Acadia on the Atlantic, and the William J. Stewart will bring it out to Victoria for use in British Columbia waters.

LILLOOET PREPARING

The Lillooet, the present survey steamer that operates out of Victoria, will leave port on April 21 to conduct her annual survey on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. She has just received her annual overhaul at Yarrow's, and is now at the government wharf in the inner harbor completing her outfit. Because of a cut in the hydrographic survey grant the work this year will not be as extensive as in former seasons. At first it was announced the Lillooet would not leave port at all.

GET MESSAGE FROM COCOS

Party Aboard Silver Wave Had Rough Trip; Unable to Communicate With Coast

Seattle, Wash., April 5.—A message was received here yesterday from Cocos Island, former lair of pirate chieftain, telling of the safe arrival there of a party of Vancouver and Seattle treasure seekers.

The message said: "Arrived Cocos Island March 20 after a rough trip. Will go to Costa Rica to send message concerning our plans." The party sailed aboard the power schooner Silver Wave.

The group of twenty-four men, headed by Col. J. E. Leckie, of Vancouver, B.C., left this district almost two months ago. Unable to get in touch with Pacific Coast wireless stations, Capt. Eldred Hansen, master of the vessel, broadcast the dispatch to "all ships in the Pacific."

An oil tanker near Balboa picked up the message and relayed it as a broadcast to "all ships and stations." A wireless station in Buffalo, N.Y., received the dispatch and sent it to Cocos Island Treasure Ltd., in Vancouver, which forwarded it here to the Arctic Transport Co. of Seattle, owner of the Silver Wave.

The adventurers hope to locate with the aid of electrical diving apparatus treasure which students of pirate lore have estimated at $100,000,000.

WHARF FIRE LOSS

Ottawa, April 5.—The total loss of the Canadian National pier, destroyed by fire at Vancouver in 1930, was $716,716, according to a return tabled in the Commons yesterday afternoon. The loss was covered by insurance. The original pier cost $986,153, and cost of replacement was $1,017,800.

Growing Deaf With HeadNoises? Try This

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear catarrhal deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to take. Anyone who is threatened with catarrhal deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial. (Advt.)
